Roosevelt to Peg Dollar with Pound

RETURN TO GOLD STANDARD NOT EXPECTED NOW

President Confident of Price Rise.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt has moved toward a form of temporary stabilization for the American dollar, it was learned tonight.

The President's aim, it was disclosed, is to hitch the dollar to the British pound, and to sustain it for an indefinite period at a rate between $5.25 and $5.35 to the pound.

Expressed in terms of gold, on the present gold value of the pound, the dollar would be maintained at a purchasing value between 61.58 and 62.76 cents, as compared with its former gold standard value.

Might Resume Attack on Dollar.

It was emphasized that the move in no sense is to be a return to a permanent gold standard, since if prices in the United States fail to respond to the extent expected by the President and his advisers, the plan is to abandon the temporary stabilization and to resume the attacks on the dollar. Therefore, while an eventual return to a modified gold standard still is in the President's program, it is yet a far cry from an early realization.

According to information received in the capital, the President expects commodity prices to rise steadily, after the temporary pegging of the dollar is achieved, to a point equal to the 1926 price level.

Eugene Black, governor of the federal reserve board, who has been directing negotiations with agents of the Bank of England for two weeks, with the President's knowledge, left tonight for Warm Springs, Ga., the Roosevelt winter retreat.

Unmoved by Criticism.

It is understood that tomorrow morning, Gov. Black will present to Mr. Roosevelt a proposed agreement between the Federal Reserve bank of New York and the Bank of England, the two institutions through which the pegging of the dollar would be carried out.

Whether the British already have agreed to the parity proposed is not known here tonight, but it was learned that Henry Clay, officer of the Bank of England in carrying out its equalization fund operations, is in Washington and has conferred on the proposal with Gov. Black, with George Harrison, governor of the Federal Reserve bank of New York, and others.

It was stated here that the immediate plan of the President is not a surrender to the severe criticism heaped of late upon the Roosevelt monetary policies by Alfred E. Smith, James P. Warburg, the United States Chamber of Commerce, and others. The explanation given by the Roosevelt advisers in Washington is that he is adhering strictly to his original plan for a managed currency, and that the pegging of the dollar to the pound at this time is a step toward that end.

Halt Devaluation of Dollar.

The President, it is said, has indicated that his monetary program now has reached the stage at which he can halt, at least temporarily, the devaluation of the dollar.

The goal he had set was a restoration of the 1926 price level. Last February the department of labor price index was at 60 per cent of the 1926 level, indicating the necessity of a 67 per cent price rise. Assuming, as does the President's chief monetary adviser, Prof. George F. Warren, that reducing the gold content of the dollar will raise prices a commensurate degree, it would be necessary to achieve a 40 per cent devaluation of the dollar.

Since the peg proposed, between 61½ and 62¾ cents, would nearly approach the necessary depreciation, the President is reported willing to stop there. He will, according to information obtained tonight, peg the dollar to the pound and settle back to await a rise in American commodity prices to nearly the 1926 level.

Price Rise to Come Slowly.

The fact that prices have not risen as rapidly as the President has progressed in the devaluation of the dollar has been cited by his critics as evidence of failure of the Warren plan. The President is reported in agreement with Prof. Warren that the price rise will not come as rapidly as the enforced cheapening of the dollar was

TOD SLOAN SAID TO BE DYING; WAS KING OF JOCKEYS

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—James F. [Tod] Sloan, 59, former king of the turf, and once rated as the greatest of all jockeys and favorite rider for the late King Edward VII., was reported dying in Los Angeles county hospital tonight. He is suffering from acute cirrhosis of the liver.

Sloan, who was reputed to have made more than a million dollars in racing, reached the height of his career in 1895 when he went to England and won famous races with unknown horses. His method of riding a horse high up on the withers instead of following the English method, upright in the saddle, revolutionized racing there.

He was married first to Julia Sanderson at the time she was as famous as a musical comedy star as was he as a jockey. Later he wed Betty Saxon Maloney, film actress.

During the last few years Sloan has been working intermittently as a movie extra.

TWO OF BANDIT GANG SHOT IN TAVERN HOLDUP

Sixty men and women were held up this morning by five gunmen in the Whitehall tavern in York road, one and one-half miles north of Elmhurst, in Du Page county.

Two of the bandits were shot by a special guard as they were making their getaway. They were carried into the robber car by their confederates. All escaped, going west later in Irving Park boulevard.

Almost all the patrons of the place were searched and robbed by the gang. It is believed the bandits got at least $1,000 in cash and a considerable amount of jewelry.

Maloy Missed by Kidnapers; Guard Seized

Three machine gunners prowling in the rear of 6806 Chappel avenue, the home of Tom Maloy, czar of the Motion Picture Operators' union, kidnaped the wrong victim last night.

They wanted Maloy. Instead they got his reputed bodyguard, George Graham, 28 years old, son of James Graham, chief engineer at the Criminal court building.

For a little more than three hours Graham was a captive while his kidnapers, chagrined over getting the wrong man, tried to inveigle $10,000 out of Maloy. They didn't, and so they let Graham go, observing that he "wasn't worth a quarter."

Mrs. Maloy Sees Kidnaping.

It was about 8:30 that the kidnaping occurred. Graham, who lives at 2372 East 69th street, had just driven Mrs. Maloy home from Racine, where she had visited her mother. Maloy was asleep in his home. Mrs. Maloy went into the house through the front door. Graham drove to the garage in the rear. There he was seized by the three kidnapers just as Mrs. Maloy emerged from the back door to give him the keys to the garage. She saw Graham being taken away and called the police.

One of the abductors fixed smoked glasses over Graham's eyes. The insides of the lenses were covered with tape so he could not see through them.

Graham was driven around for more than an hour, then led to a building and up three flights of carpeted stairs. Inside a lighted room the kidnapers looked at him.

He's "the Wrong Guy."

"We've got the wrong guy!" one exclaimed.

Out of the corners of his eyes Graham could see two machine guns on the floor.

"You should have wheels on them," he told his captors, and they laughed.

Then one of them asked him if Maloy "would stand still for ten grand for you." Graham said he doubted it. One of the hoodlums went outside. Within 15 minutes he made two telephone calls to the Maloy home demanding $10,000 ransom for Graham.

He apparently received unsatisfactory answers, for on his return to the hideout he told Graham, "You're not worth a quarter." With that the kidnapers put Graham into their car and let him out in 61st street near St. Lawrence avenue. He told his story at the Woodlawn police station.

METHODISTS GIVE COLLECTIONS FOR FIGHT ON R. O. T. C.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Part, and in some cases all, collection money raised in Methodist churches in Los Angeles next Sunday will be devoted to a fight against compulsory R. O. T. C. training at University of California at Los Angeles.

The money will be used to bring court suit against the university by Albert W. Hamilton and Alonzo Reynolds Jr., both sons of Methodist ministers who recently were expelled for failure to attend military training classes which are compulsory for lower division students.

Reynolds and Hamilton were expelled after the board of regents of the university had given a decision that the boys must take military training or "get out."

ALDERMEN BAN SALE OF RUM AT STAND-UP BARS

Six Month License Will Cost $250.

Straw vote in senate indicates opposition to any kind of state liquor commission, but Gov. Horner continues fight for control bill. Some bill may be passed by next Tuesday. Page 6.

An emergency ordinance regulating the sale of beer and hard liquor in Chicago after Dec. 5 was unanimously passed by the city council at 6 o'clock last evening. The ordinance anticipates the passage of a state control law by the legislature giving the city home rule on liquor regulation.

The new city ordinance provides that dispensers of liquor now operating under a city beer license need obtain no new license until after Dec. 31 and that the new license—to be issued only for the first six months of 1934—will cost $250. The ordinance prohibits the sale of liquor to be drunk by customers while standing at a bar or counter. This provision, however, does not apply to beer.

1 A. M. Closing Hour.

Under the ordinance no place which sells liquor shall have its doors open after 1 a. m. nor earlier than 7 a. m. on week days. The closing hour is extended to 2 a. m. Saturday nights. The opening hour is 1 p. m. on Sundays. Screens, curtains, and back rooms, which might obstruct the view of the premises from the street are taboo.

Immediately after the passage of the ordinance by a vote of 49 to 0, since Ald. James C. Moreland [41st] was absent from the council chambers when the vote was taken, Mayor Kelly signed the document. City Clerk Peter J. Brady has made preparations to have publication begin this morning.

This is done because the ordinance will not become valid until it has been published for ten days. Although under the law it will not be effective until Dec. 9, city officials said that licensed tavern keepers will be expected to comply with its regulations from the hour hard liquors can again be sold legally.

Prevents Chaos, Says Mayor.

While signing the ordinance Mayor Kelly said: "Chicago now has a liquor control law. It is in skeleton form and is not meant to be a permanent one. It can be revised at any time. Without an ordinance in effect, however, a chaotic condition would result after Dec. 5, if it were not passed.

"I want the legislature to know that Chicago is capable of handling the liquor business under home rule and if anything happened to destroy that impression it might result in the passage of legislation giving all power to a state commission."

During the debate immediately prior to the first roll call at which the ordinance was passed Ald. O. E. Northrup [19th] asked if the Ward bill and the Shaw-Poppenhausen bill now pending before the state legislature would allow local option to Chicago communities.

"Such provisions are in both bills," replied Mayor Kelly, "and anyway you will have the coöperation of the mayor in giving local option to those districts in the city that want it, through the nonissuance of licenses for those districts."

Must Sit on Stools.

During the debate the aldermen were told that the ordinance in its present form will allow drinks to be served over the bar to all persons seated in chairs or on stools. This will enable taverns, hotels, and eating places where bars now are installed to add chairs for their patrons and still serve over the bar.

Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th] expressed the opinion of nearly a dozen others when he announced his approval of the emergency ordinance, but added:

"While there is need for the temporary legislation, I want to go further into the question of the license fee, and I want to see if we cannot get beer at five cents a glass for the people."

One amendment which was added to the ordinance before its passage was proposed by Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th]. It suffixed the phrase, "nor to any one who is not of good moral character," to a provision which had read: "No license shall be issued to any person convicted of a felony." Several other amendments were referred to the license committee for more deliberate consideration.

No Flats to Be Licensed.

The ordinance prohibits the licensing of a liquor dispensary in a dwelling house, flat, or apartment in an effort to avoid beer flats. It prohibits the licensing of a dispensary within End Stockyard Strike; Pay Is Raised 10 Pct.

The strike of 8,000 workmen at the Union stockyards was settled shortly before 1 o'clock this morning when the employer organization agreed to a 10 per cent wage increase pending final negotiations.

Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago and chairman of the Chicago regional labor board of the NRA, was the prime mover in restoring peace.

Within a few minutes of the reaching of the agreement all pickets were withdrawn, banners taken away, and the workers were returning to their jobs. The agreement was regarded as a partial victory for the strikers, who had demanded a return to the 1929 wage scale, an increase of approximately 50 per cent over the pay they have been receiving in recent months.

Midnight Parley Settles It.

It was a midnight parley, arranged by Mr. Hutchins, that brought about the settlement. Earlier in the day a peace agreement providing that the men should return to work had been balked when the workers refused to do so without definite assurance that their wage increase demands would be met.

At 10 p. m. Mr. Hutchins gathered O. T. Henkle, general manager of the stockyards company; John Gorman, president of local 517 of the Live Stock Handlers' union, the organization leading the walkout, and several other union officials in the offices of the Live Stock exchange. At 11 o'clock Henkle signed the agreement establishing the 10 per cent raise.

Then Mr. Hutchins, accompanied by Gorman, William Collins, national union organizer, and Thomas Devero, a local union official, went to Union hall, 4187 South Halsted street. Some 300 union representatives were there. Mr. Hutchins outlined his proposals. Gorman, Collins, and Devero urged acceptance. A vote was taken by the men and the agreement was approved.

Six Conditions of Approval.

The proposals outlined by Mr. Hutchins were contained in a statement of conditions almost identical with a statement of conditions which the men had rejected yesterday in refusing to return to work. The earlier statement contained five conditions. This morning's contained six and it was the sixth one that halted the dispute. It provided for the 10 per cent wage boost. The conditions approved follow:

"1. All men are to be reëmployed without discrimination and returned to the positions they occupied at the time of the strike.

"2. The Union Stock Yard and Transit company is to enter at once into negotiations with representatives of the men for the purpose of as speedily as possible resolving the point in dispute between the men and the company. Where the decisions involve wage adjustments, any increase in wages is to be made retroactive from the date when the men returned to work.

Agree to Mediation Plan.

"3. During the course of the negotiations, if the parties are unable to agree on particular points, these are to be submitted to the Chicago regional labor board for mediation.

"4. Failing of mediation by the board, an arbitrator is to be selected, acceptable to both parties, for the final adjudication of any disputed points.

"5. The men are to return to work tonight."

"6. The company agrees that the employés pay envelopes will contain at least 10 per cent more money than the employés have averaged over the last three months ending Nov. 15. This arrangement is to begin when the employés return to work and continue during the period of negotiations."

Threaten to Close Yards.

While the meeting was still in progress and before the agreement was reached, officials of the Live Stock exchange announced, after a conference with strike leaders, that the stockyards would be closed to all shipments of live stock at 3 p. m. today unless the strike was settled in the meantime.

The strikers had agreed to permit packers and commission men to clean up the live stock received yesterday if it was done without the use of outside workers.

The commission men in turn agreed not to accept live stock after 3 o'clock and to notify shippers and farmers not to deliver any more stock to the yards until the dispute was settled.

The strike was called at 5 p. m. last Sunday. It affected members of local 517 of the live stock handlers; local 37 of the Sheep, Hog, and Butchers' union; local 118 of the Cold Storage, Hide, and Cellar Workers' union, and some twenty or thirty smaller organizations created with the rise of the NRA.

Two principal issues were raised. The men wanted more hours of work and also wanted the hourly wage scale raised from a 35 cent minimum to a 60 cent minimum and as high as 93 cents.

MISSOURI MOB STORMS JAIL; LYNCHES RAPIST

Fierce Battle Before He Is Seized.

Lynching Wave Spreads

Another lynching occurred last midnight at St. Joseph, Mo. The victim was the rapist of a young girl. A huge mob stormed the jail.

Meanwhile four alleged lynch leaders in eastern Maryland were captured by state troops and taken to the Baltimore jail. Later a mob in Princess Anne, scene of the lynching went to the Potter's field, dug up the body of the lynch law victim, an alleged Negro rapist, cut off its head and threatened to send the head to Gov. Ritchie as a "souvenir."

Gov. Rolph in California continued to receive praise and blame for his attitude toward the San Jose lynchers of two kidnapers Sunday night.

St. Joseph, Mo., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Lloyd Warner, 19 year old Negro, who confessed assaulting a white girl, was hanged and burned across the street from the courthouse tonight by a mob which battled peace officers and National Guardsmen to seize him in the Buchanan county jail.

Shooting broke out as the crowd surged through the jail to subdue a defense force of 40 officers. No casualties were reported, however.

Sheriff Otto Theisen estimated 7,000 persons made up the crowd which battered down the jail doors, regardless of tear gas, and swarmed through the building seeking the Negro.

Members of the mob shouted and cursed as they went about their work. A truck was used to break down one door. Many women and children were in the crowd.

Great Cheer from Crowd.

A great cheer rose as the Negro's body was raised by the rope. Men dashed to a nearby filling station and returned with gasoline for the burning of the Negro.

"I'm ready to plead guilty," Warner said today, asking an early arraignment on a charge of attacking the girl, 21, member of a prominent family.

Criminal Judge J. V. Gaddy, however, directed that the case be taken up tomorrow.

"I don't want to rush things," the judge said.

The mob began forming at dusk. Stones were hurled at the jail. A small group seized a five inch pipe and rammed it tentatively against the front door. The door held and the group, seemingly leaderless, desisted.

Tank Put Out of Action.

Gov. Guy B. Park ordered out the 35th Tank company, Missouri National Guard. Tanks puffed to the jail.

A tank driver who failed to lock himself in was removed from the machine and it was put out of action. Only a few troops were mobilized. State highway patrolmen were ordered in also.

But the crowd was too powerful. Hundreds crashed in through the unprotected rear door of the jail. Others smashed down the barriers of an areaway from the courthouse to the jail in the quest for the accused man. They raced through the corridors and along cell tiers. Tear gas filled the building as officers, some with masks and some without, discharged bombs. Fist fighting broke out as the officers strove vainly to hold back the mob.

Sheriff Speaks to Mob.

Sheriff Theisen gave up as the crowd was battering at the last door separating it from Warner. The sheriff came out in front of the building, raised his hand and began to talk, but few heard him.

The muscular Negro, striving to find some place to hide, was dragged from the building and beaten by the throng as it marched across the courthouse lawn.

Governor Declines to Comment.

Advised in Jefferson City of the lynching, Gov. Guy B. Park declined to comment.

"I have no comment to make," he said.

The crime with which Warner was charged is punishable in Missouri by death or life imprisonment. He was accused of abducting the girl as she was walking home from a theater Sunday night and dragging her into an alley for the assault. Bruised and beaten, she was found tied with her own stockings.

Police said Warner admitted an attack on a Negro girl six months ago. There was no prosecution in that case.

FIGHT WITH TROOPS

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The four men arrested by state troops early today as suspects in the Princess Anne lynching were brought to the Baltimore city jail a few minutes after 8 o'clock tonight.

At Annapolis Brig. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, after a conference with Gov. Ritchie, said tonight he sent the four prisoners to Baltimore "to avoid bloodshed at Princess Anne." He had intended to take them before a magistrate there.

"But if I had done that I feel sure there would have been bloodshed," he asserted.

Awaits Habeas Corpus Writ.

Attorney General William Preston Lane Jr., also speaking at Annapolis, intimated that he would order the four prisoners held until habeas corpus proceedings were brought to get them out.

"At a habeas corpus hearing," he added, "you can bring out all the evidence that you can at a magistrate's hearing, and the thing we have wanted all along is to get the evidence before the public."

In the meantime at Princess Anne, where a mob of 1,000 had stormed the armory in an attempt to free the prisoners, writs of habeas corpus for two of the prisoners were issued and signed by Judge Robert F. Duer. Sheriff Robert Daugherty left immediately for Baltimore with the writs.

"What's the use of our going back down there when we have the men we believe to be the ringleaders of the mob?" was Gen. Reckord's answer when asked if the prisoners would be taken back to Somerset for a hearing before a magistrate."

Legislators Are Stirred.

Maryland's official investigation opened tonight.

The Wicomico county legislative delegation assembly threatened to ask for a legislative inquiry unless action looking toward release of the four arrested men is taken tomorrow.

Delegate Arthur Brice, Democrat, asserted, "My feelings are too strong for publication."

Delegate Emanuel Gorfine of Baltimore said the "dignity of the state" required the governor's action.

"Under the circumstances," he said "the action taken was the only possible course unless we were to admit that law enforcement in Maryland had collapsed."

Four Men Seized.

Those arrested in the early morning raids near Salisbury were:

IRVING ADKINS, 30, a Saturday night officer at Princess Anne. There a writ of habeas corpus was issued in his behalf by Judge Duer.

WILLIAM H. THOMPSON, 33, a Princess Anne druggist, who had been a member of the coroner's jury conducting the investigation. Judge Duer also issued a writ for him.

WILLIAM P. HERN of Shad Point, a trucker.

WILLIAM S. McQUAY of Pocomoke City, a store operator.

Another of the alleged lynchers was sought on a government coast guard vessel and his arrest was expected at an early date.

Hack Off Lynching Victim's Head.

Princess Anne, Md., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—A mob of several hundred invaded the burial ground of the county poorhouse tonight, disinterred the body of George Armwood, Negro lynching victim, and hacked off his head.

Some announced grimly they were going to ship the head to Gov. Ritchie "as a souvenir" and token of their respect for his action in causing the arrest today of four alleged leaders in the Armwood lynching.

The crowd came in automobiles from all sections of the eastern shore.

Princess Anne Approves.

Sacramento, Cal., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Gov. James Rolph Jr., who refused to use troops to prevent the lynching of two kidnapers in San José Sunday night, read with interest today details of a clash between citizens of Salisbury, Md., and National Guardsmen who had arrested four lynching suspects.

One of more than eighty telegrams received from thirty states today commending Gov. Rolph's approval of the San José lynchings was signed "Citizens of Princess Anne, Md."

Gov. Rolph said it would be unbecoming of him to comment on Gov. Ritchie's action. He expressed relief that none of the "good citizens" of San José was hurt and that the injured Sheriff William Emig's condition is better.

Woman Makes Protest.

The California League of Women Voters, under the name of its president, Mrs. Harriett J. Eliel of Berkeley, sent a telegram to Rolph terming his condonation of the lynching a "plain violation of your oath of office, perversive of law and order and a practical invitation to future mob violence."

Donald Fisher, a salesman, was arrested in San Francisco as he sold a photograph of Holmes' nude body and was sentenced by a police judge to thirty days in jail.

TOUHY AND TRIO ARE ACQUITTED IN KIDNAP TRIAL

Rearrested on Chicago Indictment.

BULLETIN.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 28.—(Special.)—Roger Touhy and his three associates are to be taken to Chicago immediately to stand trial for kidnaping Jake the Barber Factor. They will be arraigned tomorrow in police court here on fugitive warrants.

A message from Attorney General Cummings at Washington said Mr. Cummings has ordered government officials to aid Cook county, Ill., authorities in the prosecution.

Mr. and Mrs. Factor, who have been here since last week, returned to Chicago tonight.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Four Chicagoans, Roger Touhy and three companions, were acquitted by a federal court jury today of the $100,000 William Hamm Jr. kidnaping.

It was the first defeat for the federal government in the kidnaping cases in which it has figured since passage of the so-called Lindbergh law at the last session of congress.

The string of convictions numbering the McElroy, Urschel, Luer and Boettcher cases was broken with startling suddenness by a federal court jury of ten men and two women when they exonerated Touhy, Eddie "Father" McFadden, Gustav "Gloomy Gus" Schafer, and Willie Sharkey.

Chief of Police Thomas Dahill, active in the search for Hamm's kidnapers after he was released early June 19 following payment of $100,000 ransom, criticized the verdict.

Understands San Jose Lynching.

"If this is the attitude the American juries take toward kidnapers, I applaud San José citizens for taking justice in their own hands." He referred to the lynching of two men who confessed abducting and killing Brooke Hart.

Joseph B. Keenan, special government prosecutor, said the government had done its best to "present all available witnesses and evidence, and if a jury of citizens decides to turn these men loose upon this community there is nothing we can do about it."

William Scott Stewart, chief defense counsel, said the verdict is "the sweetest story ever told."

None of the defendants betrayed any emotion when the verdict was read in the court of Judge M. M. Joyce. Afterward the government announced it would take steps for removal of the defendants to Chicago.

Show No Emotion.

The verdict was returned at 2:30 p. m., while Touhy and his companions sat unmoved under the alert eyes of armed officers posted at strategic places in a crowded courtroom. Outside, deputy sheriffs patrolled the corridors with shotguns ready.

T. O. Sundry, 72, Kenyon, Minn., farmer, was foreman of the jury, which included two women. The case was given to the jury yesterday at 6:45 p. m., after more than two weeks of hearing witnesses and taking testimony. Only 18 hours were needed to reach a verdict, of which about three hours last night and all of this morning were devoted to consideration of the case.

Hamm, who was held prisoner almost four days in an unlocated hideout, believed by police to be somewhere in Wisconsin, took the stand for the government but only was able partly to identify McFadden as "resembling" one of the captors.

He sat through the trial most court days as did Mrs. Touhy. Neither was in the room, however, when the verdict was read. Afterward Mrs. Touhy reiterated her husband's innocence and said, "The jury did right in finding him not guilty. That was my feeling right along. I am especially glad for the children—Tommy, who is 7, and Roger, 8."

None of Defendants Testify.

None of the defendants took the stand in their own defense and Stewart, aided by Thomas McMeekin, offered no defense for two of the defendants, McFadden and Sharkey. Alibis were presented in Touhy's and Schafer's cases, showing they were elsewhere than in St. Paul when the brewer was abducted.

Factor, also a spectator at the trial the last two days, said he was "shocked" over the verdict.

County Attorney M. F. Kinkead said the four would be arraigned tomorrow forenoon on the fugitive warrants based on the Chicago indictments in the Factor case. The warrants were served on the men today.

TWO RIVALS SEEK PETRILLO JOB AS MUSICIANS' HEAD

For the first time in eight years James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, will have opposition when election time comes around on Dec. 5. He is a member of the west park board. He has been president of the union for eleven years.

Two rivals are seeking his place. They are Angelo Cavallo, member of the orchestra at the Star and Garter theater, and Nuncio de Pasqualle, who plays at the Capitol theater.

Petrillo seemed unworried last night over the coming fight. He predicted that he would be reelected. Neither Cavallo nor De Pasqualle, he asserted, has any organization following. Cavallo, according to Petrillo, is being backed by an employers' association which is interested in seeing another man at the head of the union. Petrillo said that under his leadership Chicago musicians are the highest paid in the country.

Why Aren't You Married? German City Asks Women

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 28.—The mayor of Frankfurt today sent letters to all unmarried women employés of the city asking them why they have not taken a husband. Sixteen hundred bachelors on the city pay roll received the same questionnaire recently. The mayor failed to say whether he plans to act as cupid or to fire them and give married men their jobs.

Smash a Shop Window; Get Rings Valued at $1,500

Burglars threw a brick through the display window of the Royal Jewelry company at 1317 Milwaukee avenue last night and took diamond rings valued at $1,500. There were four men in the group, witnesses said. One stayed at the wheel of their car. Another stood near by with a shotgun. The two others smashed the window and scooped up the rings.

Thousands Saved

Two girl clerks frustrated the efforts of two gunmen to rob the West Side Investment and Finance company, 1618 West 18th street yesterday. The girls stepped upon an electric alarm button and released a tear gas bomb in the face of the robbers who fired several shots at them before fleeing. The girls, Betty Hruska, 23 years old, and Eleanor Holda, 25 years old, saved several thousands of dollars in the cashier's drawer.

JAILER DIES, BUT KEEPS PRISONER FROM ESCAPING

Topeka, Kas., Nov. 28.—(AP)—B. J. Davidson, night jailer in the Shawnee county jail, was shot and killed tonight in frustrating an attempt to escape by Cecil Thornburgh, 21 year old federal prisoner.

Jail officials said Thornburgh apparently had slugged the jailer with an improvised blackjack, taken his pistol and fired two shots into his chest.

Melvin Oakes, deputy sheriff, standing outside of the jail building, heard Davidson shout for help and started for the cell block. He found Thornburgh lying on a landing half way between the outer doorway and the cell block, pinned down by the dying jailer, still conscious and struggling to prevent the prisoner's escape. A trail of blood down the stairs indicated he had fought with the prisoner all of the way down.

Davidson died on the way to a hospital.

Mother Held as Kidnaper Will Fight Extradition

Mrs. Ingeborg Seaburg Mainquist, 30 years old, who was seized at the Municipal airport recently and held as a kidnaper of her 5 year old son, Jerome Jr., from her ex-husband at Red Oak, Ia., announced yesterday she would fight extradition to her husband's home. Her announcement was made as Sheriff D. K. Conkall of Red Oak arrived and sought to take her back. Mrs. Mainquist said she was on her way to Sweden when she was seized on a fugitive warrant obtained by her former husband.

FACTOR KIDNAP TRIAL PLANS TO BE LAID TODAY

Federal Prosecutor Will Confer with Courtney.

A conference between Joseph B. Keenan, assistant U. S. attorney general, and State's Attorney Courtney will be held in Chicago today. The Jake Factor kidnaping case will be considered. Advices from St. Paul last night were that Attorney General Cummings had agreed to a trial here of the Touhy gangsters on the charge of kidnaping Factor.

Mr. Keenan communicated with the state's attorney yesterday, immediately after the St. Paul acquittal, and announced that he would arrive in Chicago this morning. Other federal charges against the Touhys also will be discussed.

Other Charges Not Revealed.

Although the nature of the remaining government charges was not revealed, they are believed to have grown out of a recent mail robbery in St. Paul.

Touhy, William Sharkey, Gus Schafer, and Edward [Father Tom] McFadden, who were found not guilty yesterday, together with Albert Kator, now in custody in Chicago, have been indicted for the Factor kidnaping. This abduction is alleged to have netted the gang $70,500 in ransom money.

The belief was strong yesterday that the government would yield to the state authorities as the Factor case is said to be "iron clad." Factor has identified those indicted as the men who seized him when he left The Dells, a Morton Grove roadhouse, early in the morning of July 1.

House of Abduction Identified.

The gang hustled Factor off to a house in Glenview, according to investigators. This house has been found and identified by Factor as the place where he was held prisoner and tortured as the kidnapers dickered for the payment of ransom. Other witnesses are said to have identified the gangsters as men they saw going in and out of the house at the time Factor was held there.

Factor's friends are said to have paid $70,000 for his release, and a promise of another $50,000 was given by the captive before he was freed. Only $500 of the $50,000 was received by the gangsters. This amount was placed in a decoy package used as bait by the authorities in an attempt to capture the kidnapers in western Cook county on Aug. 16. The attempt failed and two Touhy gangsters got away with the package which contained the $500.

MOTHER'S KIDNAP SCARE REUNITES BABY'S PARENTS

The reported kidnaping of Helen Joy Devorak, 20 months old, early yesterday brought the reconciliation of her mother, Mrs. Kathleen Devorek, 24 years old, 4400 Drexel boulevard, and her father, Frank, a printer.

Mrs. Devorek rushed into the Hyde Park police station early yesterday and announced that she had returned home after visiting friends and found the baby gone. Her estranged husband, who lives at 1854 Loomis street, was questioned, but could give no aid.

As the police questioned Mrs. Devorek she brightened and exclaimed: "O, I know now. I just remembered that I took the baby over to my sister, Mrs. James Rush, 4223 Oakenwald avenue, for safekeeping."

Police found the baby sleeping at that address. The husband told police that "h guessed he'd better go home" and help care for the baby.

New York Real Estate Man Kills Self; Buried at Sea

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The Grace Santa Elena, arriving from New York, reported the suicide Nov. 20 of Frank Du Puy Veiller, 57, of New York. Veiller, a real estate man, fired a bullet into his head and jumped into the sea. His body was recovered, and on instructions of his brother, Bayard Veiller, playwright of Hollywood, it was given a sea burial.

NEGRO DENIES RAPING 2 WHITE GIRLS ON TRAIN

Tells of Threats at Previous Trial.

Decatur, Ala., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Heywood Patterson today denied raping Mrs. Victoria Price in the face of identification as one of the Negroes accused of rape in the Scottsboro case and said fear of mob violence led him to testify at an earlier trial that he had witnessed attacks but did not participate.

Patterson was the third witness called by the defense and under questioning by Samuel S. Leibowitz, chief of counsel, said he "didn't see a woman" aboard the freight train where the attacks were alleged to have occurred in 1931.

"Did you know of any woman being raped on that train?" Liebowitz asked.

Identified as Rapist.

"No, sah," Patterson replied, "if I had I'd a jumped off that train."

Patterson was called after the state had rested with testimony by Orvel Gilley who identified him as one of seven negroes Gilley said raped Mrs. Price and her companion, Ruby Bates, in his presence following a fight in which other youths were thrown from the train.

Patterson, on trial for the third time in less than three years, took the stand late today.

Patterson told of boarding the train, having a fight with some white boys and finally going over the tops of several cars to a gondola, accompanied by 10 or 11 other negro boys to "have it out" with the white youths who had been "throwing rocks at us."

Negro Describes Fight.

Describing the fight Patterson said "After we got over there [in the gondola] the boys had some rocks and a piece of iron."

"I didn't see any one put off, they jumped off. One white boy was hanging between the cars and some of the boys was trying to put him off. I and one of the Wright boys pulled him up."

Attorney General Thomas E. Knight, cross examining, asked Patterson as to his testimony in the original Scottsboro case, and if he had not said he saw the attacks, but did not participate, the defendant replied: "They told me if we didn't say we done it they would give us to the mobs. Even the National Guard boys got hot against us."

Tells of Threats in Courtroom.

Asked where these threats were made Patterson replied, "In the courtroom they was saying 'send all the Negroes to the electric chair. There are too many Negroes anyway'."

"The judge heard that," Knight asked, and Leibowitz repeated the question.

"I guess so; we boys heard it, and he was there," Patterson replied.

Patterson denied testimony read to him from the record of the first trial over the objections of Leibowitz.

DEPUTY SHERIFF SAYS SAMMONS OFFERED BRIBE

Testifies in Gangster's Trial in Indiana.

An Indiana deputy sheriff yesterday braved the scowls of James [Fur] Sammons and gave evidence concerning an attempted bribery by the gangster which may put Sammons in prison for life.

Deputy Sheriff John W. Cook of Lake county told the jury in Judge William J. Murray's court at Crown Point, where Sammons is on trial, that the convicted killer and rapist offered him $200 on Nov. 5 if he would release him from custody. If Sammons is convicted of the attempted bribery charge he will be tried under the Indiana habitual criminal act, which provides a life sentence for criminals convicted of three felonies.

Shows $3,200 Roll of Bills.

On the night of Nov. 5, according to the evidence given to the jury, Sammons staggered into a Cedar Lake, Ind., tavern owned by Victor Madason. He flourished a huge roll of bills, which was later counted and found to contain $3,200. After buying drinks for the house he became disorderly, fell against a stove and nearly set fire to the tavern, Madason testified.

Madason called the sheriff's office and Cook was sent out to arrest Sammons. As the deputy sheriff took the stand Sammons glared at him.

Cook declared that when he entered the roadhouse Sammons was seated at a table. He waited his chance, the deputy sheriff said, and then wrested from Sammons a pistol which the latter had been waving. On the trip back to the jail Sammons offered him $200, he said, to release him.

Charges Intimidation of Witness.

The day's hearing was enlivened by the charge by Deputy Prosecutor Floyd Vance that Madason, the first witness for the state, had been intimidated during the noon recess by Pat Sammons, a brother of the defendant. Madason, who was obviously frightened, was not questioned concerning what Pat Sammons had said to him, the judge ruling that the state could not cross-examine its own witness.

Sammons' defense will be that he was so intoxicated that he did not know what he was doing, his lawyers indicated in opening arguments. He thought Cook was a taxicab driver and was merely offering him money for transportation instead of a bribe, the lawyers declared.

N. U. BOARD TOLD OF PROGRESS ON U. OF C. MERGER

Call Faculty and Alumni Into Negotiations.

The proposed merger of the University of Chicago and Northwestern university went a step ahead last night when the Northwestern trustees voted to enlarge the membership of the merger committee and received a report of progress from the chairman, Melvin A. Traylor. The meeting, held in the Drake hotel, set a forty year attendance record, thirty-four of the forty-four trustees being present.

An announcement at the conclusion of the meeting that nine members each were to be added to the merger committee from the faculty and alumni of the university was taken to mean that the merger negotiations had reached such a stage that it was now necessary to take these groups into consultation. None of the new members was named last night and no date was set for the next meeting of the trustees, but they will gather again within a month, it was said.

No Hostility Reported.

The meeting was closed to reporters, but it was said that no vote was taken on the merger question. It was reported, however, that no "hostility" was shown. By unanimous vote three subcommittees were named to study the problem of merger from the educational, financial, and legal points of view.

The trustees appointed to serve on these committee are:

Education—James F. Oates, Mark W. Cresap and Dr. Ernest F. Tittle.

Finance—Vernon R. Loucks, Milton S. Florsheim and Fred W. Sargent.

Legal—Silas Strawn, N. W. MacChesney and Kenneth Burgess.

No report was presented to the meeting from the committee of three experts named by President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern to consider the educational implications of the merger.

These experts—Lotus D. Coffman, president of the American council on education; John C. Merriam of the Carnegie corporation, and Edmund E. Day of the Rockefeller foundation—have visited both universities for a preliminary survey, according to an announcement, and will continue their work about the middle of December.

The report of Mr. Traylor as chairman of the merger committee was not made public but it resulted in the addition of seven members of the board of trustees to his committee. The Northwestern committee has already held several meetings with a similar group from the University of Chicago and more sessions are in prospect.

N. U. Medical Students Protest.

Shortly before the trustees met at the Drake, Northwestern medical students held a merger protest rally a few blocks away on McKinlock campus. The rally was announced at noon. Early in the evening more than 200 students gathered on the campus and burned an effigy of President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago. Banners carried by the students left no doubt as to their opposition to the merger.

A casket borne high and initialed "N. U." forecast the death of Northwestern if the universities are combined. One banner carried the legend: "If John D. Can't Save Chicago, How Can We?" This referred to the support given the University of Chicago by the Rockefeller family.

Another placard showed a curious machine puffing steam and emitting diplomas. It was marked "N. U.-U. C., a Bigger and Better Diploma Mill!" Still another placard carried a medical drawing showing a skinless man holding his "hide" and underneath was an inscription: "Hutchins Saves His Hide!"

On another large sheet of cardboard some student had written a poem, expressing the them of "Down With the Merger," and promising to "Fight It to a Man!"

After the Hutchins effigy had been burned, the students paraded down Michigan avenue, carrying the banners and singing and yelling.

2 FRIENDS FIND THEY 'RE WED TO SAME WOMAN

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Speaking of coincidences — Richard Stackelberg came into Superior court today seeking an annulment of his marriage to Mrs. Ruth Cleo Stackelberg. This was his testimony:

"I was out riding one day with Glenn Martin when my wife passed us in another car. She waved. Martin waved back, so I asked him, 'Do you know that women?' 'Sure,' he replied, 'that's my wife.' 'That's strange,' I said. 'She's mine, too.'"

"Annulment granted," said the judge.

$75,000 BLAZE WRECKS BLOCK OF STOCKYARDS

Thousands See Fight to Control Fire.

Fire swept late yesterday afternoon over a square block of hog pens and loading chutes in the Union stockyards. The damage was estimated at $75,000.

A 4-11 alarm was sounded on discovery of the fire and hundreds of firemen battled for nearly two hours, with thousands of packing house employes looking on, to extinguish the roaring flames and to save the rest of the two square miles of stock pens and the neighboring processing establishments.

Flames Spread Swiftly.

The burned area lies between Racine and Packer avenues, 40th street and Transit avenue. The seasoned wood of the fences and the hay stored in small sheds along the railroad tracks in the yards furnished material for a swift spread of the fire. At times the flames reached a height of a hundred feet.

Shortly before 6 p. m. Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan announced that the fire was under control. The fact that the wind was light aided the firemen, who had stretched long lines of hose and poured vast quantities of water on the edges of the flaming area and on two adjoining plants, those of the Anglo-American company, an Armour & Co. subsidiary, and the Kollar Brewing company.

Marshal Orders Inquiry.

"We do not know what the cause of the fire was," said the fire marshal. "But there is a strike in the stockyards and we will investigate to learn whether there was incendiarism. There is a possibility that an electric line passing along the loading chutes short circuited and started the fire."

William J. O'Connor, assistant general superintendent of the Union Stock Yard and Transit company, said he was sure there was no intentional burning. In his opinion, he said, the fire was started by sparks from a passing railroad engine. Mr. O'Connor made the estimate of $75,000 damage.

Few Animals In Pens.

Because of the strike there were few animals in the pens that were burned. About seventy-five head of cattle were led to safety by packers' employé. Normally there would have been from 2,000 to 3,000 head in the affected section.

The alarm was turned in by Edward Keene, 6309 South Carpenter street, an employé of the Chicago Junction railroad. At the time the blaze was small, but it attained great proportions before the firemen arrived.

MEN CLIMB TREES IN WASHINGTON BATTLE WITH STARLING HOST

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—More than fifty men tonight climbed the sycamore trees along Pennsylvania avenue, routed pestiferous starlings by shaking tin cans filled with pebbles — and mounted guard to see that the birds did not return.

THE STARLING.

The starlings, singing merrily, flew over to F street and other convenient roosting places.

Before the tree climbing began, firemen were called to spray the face of the district building with water to expel the birds there.

The starlings moved over to the trees. The men hired from the ranks of the jobless for the experiment waited for ladders.

The starlings, massed like ripe fruit on the topmost branches, twittered defiance and contempt.

U. S. MAY ACCEPT ITALY'S TOKEN PAYMENT OFFER

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—President Roosevelt is considering a token offer of $1,000,000 from Italy on its war debt payment of $2,133,905 due Dec. 15.

As the chief executive accepted a proffer of $7,500,000 from Great Britain as part payment on $117,670,765 due next month, the more liberal offer of the Mussolini government is expected in informed circles to be approved.

To Pay Morgan in Pape- Dollars.

ROME, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Interest on the Italian government's Morgan loan, amounting to $5,000,000 and due Dec. 1, will be paid in paper dollars, it was learned today. The interest installment due June 1 was paid in the same way, but many financial groups believed an arrangement had been made for meeting the next installment in gold.

The $100,000,000 Morgan loan contains a gold clause, but Italian governmental officials contend that since the loan was contracted in New York under American laws, the gold clause is not obligatory.

U. S. GIRL QUITS GANDHI; CALLS HIM A "TYRANT"

Meets a 'Beautiful' Man; Now She Seeks 'Thrills'

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Nila Cram Cook, a former follower of Mahatma Gandhi, who recently disappeared from his seminary, arrived here today from Muttra with a determination to turn her back on that "rigid life" and realize her "new dreams."

"I don't care what others say," Miss Cook, who became a Gandhi disciple months ago, declared. "My heart is leaping for thrills. I want speed. I want to fly. I want to attend orchestra dances."

Describing the Mahatma as a tyrant in enforcing his rules, the young American woman said:

"One day Gandhi stated that he had not put a fence around the cantonment, and any girl could leave; so I took the hint and left while the others were busy at their prayers."

There's a Man in the Case.

She added that efforts had been made to persuade her to return, but that "I am finished with it; I took the seminary vow too seriously."

Miss Cook said she slept on a bed of bricks without blankets for eight months and that she wrote to Gandhi fully regarding her change of heart, including "the flutter caused in meeting a man with beautiful eyes and brows."

"I do not wish to be uncharitable," Miss Cook asserted, "but would rather draw the veil on the Ashram life and think of realizing my new dreams."

Driving an automobile taken on approval from a European firm, Miss Cook overturned seven miles from New Delhi after accelerating the speed to 70 miles an hour. She suffered bruises.

DAUGHTER OF POET.

Nila Cram Cook, the 23 year old daughter of the late George Cram Cook, Chicago poet, was converted to Hinduism early in 1932, several months after she had abandoned all to serve Mahatma Gandhi. She assumed the Hindu name of Nila Nagini Devi, or "the Blue Serpent Goddess."

She became a disciple and pupil of the famous Hindu teacher, Jaina Yogi, Shree Shanti Vijaia Maharaja, at his retreat in the hills of romantic Rajputana.

She had become known throughout India as the first "American Aryan," and her admission into the mysteries of the Brahmin community attracted much attention. Ordinarily Hindu laws do not provide for the conversion of a foreigner, but Miss Cook was admitted to the sect on the ground that, according to the priests, she had lived in India tens of thousands of years ago in another incarnation, and had only strayed temporarily from the spiritual realm.

When she joined the Gandhi followers she declared that life in her own country was "false." A year ago she announced her readiness to join the Mahatma in his next fast, but Gandhi dissuaded her. Last February she acted as a street cleaner in Bangalore to give proof of her humility.

ASK GOVERNOR TO APOLOGIZE FOR LYNCHING PRAISE

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Bishop William T. Manning called for a public apology from Gov. Rolph of California tonight for the governor's statement approving the San Jose lynching.

Declaring the governor's statement "strikes at the root of our whole system of government," the bishop said:

"The governor's action is a betrayal of his trust as chief executive and an affront to the state of California and to the people of the United States. He should retract his statement at once and publicly apologize for it or he should be removed from office."

The Rev. Samuel McCrea Cavert, general secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, urged Gov. Rolph to "acknowledge your fault as a responsible administrator of the law."

Police Search for Missing Fire Company Lieutenant

Three Insull Receiverships May Be Voided by U. S. Judge

A possibility that the three principal Insull receivership suits may be invalidated and that disciplinary action may be brought against the attorneys who filed the receivership proceedings was seen yesterday in a notice of court hearing and memorandum issued by Federal Judge Evan A. Evans.

The issue before Judge Evans, a member of the Circuit Court of Appeals but sitting in the District court, was raised last winter when application was made for receivers' and attorneys' fees in the Insull Utilities Investments, Inc., case. Attorney Samuel Ettelson, representing holders of debentures in this bankrupt Insull investment trust, objected to any allowance of fees on the ground that the receivership was precipitated by collusive action and that Calvin Fentress, the receiver, was "hand picked by Sam Insull and the Chicago bankers."

Judge Includes Three Cases.

Although the specific charges of collusion were made in the Insull Utility Investments case, Judge Evans in his memorandum yesterday ordered notice of the court hearing served also on the original plaintiffs and their counsel in the Middle West Utilities company and the Corporation Securities company receivership cases.

"It is apparent," said Judge Evans in his memorandum, "that if the charge of collusion is properly set forth in the objections and if the objections are ultimately sustained, the cost of the entire proceedings, including receivers and attorneys' fees, must be taxed against the various plaintiffs who thus brought collusive suits, and the court must take disciplinary action respecting counsel who brought said suits if it be shown that such suits were collusively instituted and to the knowledge of the attorneys.

"The imposition of such a burden upon the plaintiffs and the penalty upon the plaintiffs' attorneys cannot legally be imposed without said plaintiffs and their attorneys being before the court."

Court Interprets Memorandum.

Judge Evans declared that his memorandum should be regarded as a notice and not construed as an indication of the final order he will make. He said a date for the appearance of the attorneys and the plaintiffs would be set after their expression of a desire to be heard.

Judge Evans took the Ettelson charges of collusion under advisement and requested briefs last week after Referee Garfield Charles had certified his findings to him in the case. Following the receipt of the brief submitted by E. H. Cassels, attorney for Fentress, to which Mr. Ettelson has five days to answer, Judge Evans issued his memorandum yesterday for a hearing on the three receiverships.

The judge's reference to the possibility of declaring the receiverships invalid and taking disciplinary action against the attorneys indicated a desire to go thoroughly into the charges, often made by Ettelson, that the Insull receiverships "were framed at a secret meeting of the bankers and lawyers in Sam Insull's office."

Battles Claim for Fees.

Attorney Ettelson raised his objection and made his charge of collusion when Fentress made an application for fees of $10,000 for his services in Chicago and $7,500 as ancillary receiver in New York. Fentress also asked $5,000 for Allen & Dalbey and $5,000 for Cassels, Potter & Bentley, his Chicago attorneys, and $10,000 for Hines, Rearick, Dorr and Hammond, the New York counsel.

Mr. Ettelson objected to all these claims, with the exception of that for Cassels, Potter & Bentley, who came into the case some time after the receivership.

The petitioning creditors in the receivership cases were Howard Cherry in the Insull Utilities investment suit, the Lincoln Printing company in the Middle West Utilities suit, and Frank Schuenemann in the Corporation Securities suit.

If the receiverships should be declared invalid the Insull concerns would revert to their original status and in the case of Middle West Utilities company, which is not in bankruptcy but in equity receivership, Samuel Insull, a fugitive in Greece, would automatically be reinstated as chairman of the board.

How long Mr. Insull would be permitted to remain in that office is a matter of speculation. With Charles A. McCulloch and the late Edward N. Hurley, Insull was for a time co-receiver of Middle West, the Insull parent holding company, until he was forced out.

Sent to Jail for Failure to Pay Alimony Arrears

Mrs. Della Moeller, 10527 South May street, appeared before Circuit Judge Walter J. La Buy yesterday as complainant against her former husband, Charles, 5407 Cottage Grove avenue, a garage mechanic, who is $2,240 in arrears in alimony payments. He was sent to jail for six months when he said he could not settle. Mrs. Moeller said that five years ago she brought her former husband into court on a contempt charge for failure to pay $10 a week for the support of her son, John, 14 years old. He obtained a continuance, she said, and disappeared.

Two Sentenced for Theft of Electric Current

Dennis O'Leary, 35 years old, and Lawrence Bollinger, 22 years old, both of 7227 South Ashland avenue, were sentenced to the house of correction by Municipal Judge Alfred O. Erickson yesterday on a charge of having stolen $240 worth of electric current from the Commonwealth Edison company. O'Leary's sentence was for ninty days and Bollinger's for thirty days.

ROOSEVELT ON HIS WAY TOWARD PEGGED DOLLAR

Moving to Stabilize U. S. Money with Pound.

accomplished; that a period of months may be necessary for the price level to catch up.

There is some belief among the President's supporters that a temporary agreement at this time, under which England would join in fixing the dollar at its low value, might stimulate a price rise. The chief doubts heard are to the effect that England would not agree to give support to a program which would give the dollar such a trade advantage over the pound, but as a temporary matter it may be argued by the British that if the American price level increases commensurate with the devaluation of the dollar there would then be no trade advantage or disadvantage.

If the American price level reaches the 1926 level it is then expected that President Roosevelt will agree to a form of permanent stabilization, partly as was described in a statement issued last night by the critical Mr. Warburg.

Eventual Return to Gold Standard.

It was declared somewhat ironically here today that the President does favor an eventual return to a gold standard, such as Mr. Warburg espouses, but that he expects to reach it gradually and only after prices have reached the point he desires.

The gold standard under consideration would provide for the holding of all gold by central banks in bullion, with federal note issues to be redeemable in bullion for export only in the settlement of international balances. All nations would return to gold, including the United States and Great Britain. But Mr. Warburg believes that the resulting gold parities in international exchange should be fixed permanently, while, according to reliable authority, the President expects to give a keep hold on the American parity, so that if prices rise or fall in considerable degree the gold content of the American dollar might be altered from time to time to keep abreast of the changing financial conditions in the United States.

According to informed persons, Mr. Roosevelt has not decided definitely as yet just what degree of fluctuation he would permit, or how often the stability might be disturbed. He will await the further development of his program before attempting any final decision, it was declared.

Upholds Gold Buying Plan.

It was pointed out today that in preparation for the pegging of the American dollar, the President has obtained an opinion from the attorney general upholding the treasury's right to buy or sell gold, as was stated exclusively in THE TRIBUNE yesterday In order to sustain the dollar at a certain point it may be necessary at times to sell gold at cheaper levels, whereas up to now the process has been wholly in the direction of buying gold to cheapen the dollar.

The price of gold quoted by the RFC today was $33.85 per ounce, a rise of 9 cents over the $33.76 price which has been held steady for a week. This rise caused a flurry in the markets, because it was taken as an indication that the dollar attack was being resumed. However, informed quarters held to a belief that the rise was intended only to bring the pound back from a recent drop to $5.09. The future operations of the government, it was said, would be to raise the price offered for gold only to bring the dollar to a pound value between $5.25 and $5.35.

It was considered not improbable that England may prepare to join the United States in a price raising effort for England, which would result in cheapening both the dollar and the pound still further. The effect of such a maneuver, it is believed, would be to force France off the gold standard, and thus to pave the way for a general readjustment of all world currencies.

Where Pan-American Conference Meets

SECRETARY HULL URGES LATINS "NOT TO QUIBBLE"

Reaches Uruguay for Conference.

BY HAROLD TATAM.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Nov. 28.—The American delegation to the Pan-American conference, headed by Secretary of State Hull, arrived here at 10 a. m. today. The delegates were received by government functionaries as well as most of the delegates to the conference from other nations. The Americans were escorted to the Parque hotel, where 30 rooms are reserved for the use of the United States.

Hull issued a statement expressing his pleasure at arriving in Montevideo. He said he had temporarily abandoned pressing matters at home in order to attend the conference, which he said he considered of first rank importance to all the nations of the new world.

Warns Against Quibbling.

Hull said that "new generations will cite the name of Montevideo in connection with the achievement of a long-desired goal in relations between American republics."

The secretary stressed the importance of avoiding the introduction of trivialities into the discussions, which, he said, should be free from quibbling and hairsplitting. His hearers were well impressed by the frankness and directness of Hull's words and the absence of anything savoring of the platitudinous. Many of them voiced hope that other delegations might take a hint in this respect. The conference is scheduled to open formally on Dec. 3.

Elaborate police precautions taken to avoid untoward incidents failed to prevent a display by a few small groups of Reds, who carried red flags bearing the words "Fuera, Hull" [clear out, Hull]. Montevideo is a favorite stamping ground of extremist elements in South America.

Accorded Welcome by Crowds.

Crowds in the streets accorded the Americans a good welcome, but did not forget to give way to typical Latin-American pleasantries, such as inquiring of each other, "What big business are the Americans after this time?" They extended their semi-cynical jests, however, to all delegations alike.

Hull's outspokenness possessed the virtue of awakening public interest in the conference, which hitherto has evoked very little interest.

Rumors that Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh are en route to Montevideo have also served to arouse attention in the conference.

Spanish Ocean Flyer Sails for U. S.; Will Probe Crash

SEVILLE, Spain, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Spain's trans-Atlantic flying hero, Maj. Ramon Franco, left incognito for New York today on the cargo steamer Navemar. He is expected to reach the United States in ten or fifteen days and then to go to Cuba and Mexico to investigate the reputed crash death of the trans-Atlantic flyers Capt. Mariano Barberan and Lieut. Jose Collar, who disappeared early in the year on a flight from Cuba to Mexico after crossing from Spain successfully.

ICKES FINISHES TALKS WITH ROOSEVELT ON PUBLIC WORKS TASK

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Interior Ickes concluded three days of vacation and of informal talks with President Roosevelt concerning the public works program by departing for the capital late this afternoon. His leaving followed by a few hours that of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, whose visit culminated last night with the signing of the moving picture and twenty other codes.

Mr. Ickes' return to Washington left here Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and Eugene Vidal, assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics.

While the President got his hair cut he and Mr. Wallace discussed AAA matters. The President examined pictures of CCC camps sent him by Maj. Gen. King, commandant of the Fourth Corps area. Then a talk with Mr. Vidal followed, the assistant secretary presenting statistics showing how federal aid might best be extended to further commercial aviation.

Secretary Wallace said that he was watching the strike in the Chicago packing industry with interest and some concern. The situation had not reached a point, he said, where interference from Washington was deemed necessary.

NRA COST PUT AT 15 BILLIONS BY TECHNOCRAT

The NRA and the RFC together have cost the United States fifteen billion dollars since March 4, according to Howard Scott, who leaped into sudden fame as the leader of the technocrats little more than a year ago. Scott spoke last night to an audience of 500 in the Engineering building.

"The RFC," he said, "stuck a hypodermic behind the public ear. It didn't work, didn't bring purchasing power. Now the CWA is sticking a hypodermic at the lower end of the public back. This CWA is destined to become the greatest industry in the world. It will become all the little political rackets rolled into one major racket."

Scott spoke on "An Era of Plenty versus an Age of Scarcity."

SUICIDE VERDICT RETURNED.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict stating that Miss Eugenia Dodd, who swallowed poison at 5526 Everett avenue on Monday, and died soon afterward, had committed suicide while despondent over inability to find work.

STATE CONTROL OF CITY STREETS STIRS ALDERMEN

Mayor Counsels Against Delaying Projects.

Another phase of home rule, besides liquor control, engulfed the city council in a debate yesterday after Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt announced that the state proposes to pave sections of 21 streets within the city limits. The work will be financed out of a public works administration grant to the state for highway improvements.

For years the aldermen have welcomed state aid for street improvements, only occasionally giving thought to the control over the street, which the investment gives the state. This control provides that a water main cannot be placed in a state improved street without a permit from the state. Some authorities hold that the state also has the right to police these streets.

Bowler Opposes State Aid.

"I'm opposed to turning over any more Chicago streets to the state," objected Ald. James B. Bowler [25th]. "The city gets part of the gasoline tax now for street improvements and we don't need any more help from the state. The council might want to do something with a street some day only to find itself blocked by the state."

"The state has the right to designate any streets as state aid roads," Mayor Kelly pointed out. "Besides, we shouldn't delay these projects now because they will provide jobs for the idle." On the motion of Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the finance committee, the council went on record as favoring a 15 per cent reduction in the 1931 assessed valuation on homes and small flat buildings and directed Corporation Counsel Sexton to intervene in the case now before County Judge Jarecki for a hearing.

The council was informed that the deputy clerks of the Municipal court have filed suit to compel the city to appropriate for the salary reduction that was applied to them during 1933, and that the deputy baliffs of the court are ready to file a similar suit. If these suits are successful it is estimated that the city will lose approximately $300,000.

Charges Cement Monopoly.

An investigation of an alleged cement monopoly by the attorney general of the United States and by the United States senate was requested by Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th]. He declared that the municipalities of Illinois are being gouged by excessive prices for cement and that there is no competitive bidding between cement manufacturers.

An ordinance authorizing the issuance of refunding bonds in the amount of $15,008,000, prepared by City Controller Upham, was turned over to the finance committee.

The council adjourned to Dec. 6.

To Accept Baled Straw to Pay Tuition Fees at Butler

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Butler university today offered to accept baled straw in payment of tuition fees. C. B. Camp, purchasing agent, informed students that baled straw delivered to the fieldhouse would be credited against the tuition charges at the rate of $5 to $6 a ton.

Council Votes $2,500,000 to Create Civil Works Jobs

The city council yesterday passed an ordinance, upon the recommendation of Commissioner of Public Works Oscar Hewitt, authorizing him to purchase materials and supplies costing $2,552,599 which will be used upon more than 100 projects employing 33,921 men under the civil works administration reëmployment program. While the city does the purchasing, it will pay only half of the cost of materials.

Not all the projects suggested by the city to the CWA have been approved, Commissioner Hewitt pointed out, but the civil works administration has adopted a policy of paying for half the cost of materials of a project if such cost is not more than 25 per cent of the total cost of the project. The cost of labor for the city projects would be $9,662,982, all of which is to be paid by the CWA.

Indicates City's Willingness.

Passage of the ordinance will indicate to the CWA Chicago's willingness to pay for materials in connection with a project, Commissioner Hewitt pointed out. This readiness on the part of a municipality has been insisted upon by the CWA before it approves any suggested projects.

The first CWA pay checks were mailed yesterday to 12,950 workers in Cook county. The pay roll for these men will total about $250,000, it was announced.

An attempt yesterday to discover the policy of the civil works administration with regard to the employment of union men who have been unable to pay their dues was unsuccessful. Victor A. Olander, in charge of the registration of the unemployed, was in Washington and Edward J. Blair, his assistant, could not be reached.

Receive Many Complaints.

Hundreds of complaints have been received, it was learned, from union men who assert that they have been refused employment because of inability to pay back dues. One carpenter told of applying for a job and being told by a case worker to go to the carpenter's union and obtain a permit. His dues were five years in arrears and he was told at the union headquarters that he could not work unless he paid $125 to the union.

When he returned to the case worker, he was told, he averred, that he would be forced to wait until an open shop job was provided in some civil works project.

Reports that ward committeemen were attempting to direct the selection of employés for civil works projects were denied by administration officials. Picking of employés is entirely non-political, they declared. Instructions have been received from Washington, it was learned, pointing out that it would be "outrageous" if politics were allowed to enter into the program.

City Seeks PWA Loan.

The city council also authorized Commissioner Hewitt yesterday to seek a loan of $22,400,000 from the federal public works fund for the construction of a filtration plant for the water system of the city's south side. Of this loan, $5,000,000 would be an outright grant from the government and the remainder would be paid by the city. Commissioner Hewitt explained that the city would be able to repay the loan from the profits of the water system.

Grading of school grounds and painting of school buildings was begun yesterday by 750 workers under the CWA program. About half the laborers were assigned to the 23 acre campus of the new Lane Technical High school, upon which work was halted two years ago.

Start Suburban Projects Friday.

The Illinois CWA office announced that suburban communities in Cook county will start work Friday on projects that will give work to 259 men.

Of these 164 will be employed in Des Plaines, most of them in improving Weller creek for drainage purposes, and the remainder in civic beautification. Arlington Heights will hire 38. In Cicero, 39 will start improving the grounds of J. Sterling Morton High school. Orland Park will engage 5 and Niles Center 13.

On Monday additional projects, already approved, will employ 149 more. Winnetka will use 23 grading and digging ditches, school district No. 170 at Chicago Heights will hire 13, school district No. 35 at Glencoe, 6, and the village of River Forest, 107, who will overhaul and repair public buildings and beautify parks.

ROOSEVELT MAN BEATS G. O. P. MAN IN WEST VIRGINIA

Clarksburg, W. Va., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Andrew Edmiston Jr., young West Virginia Democratic leader and ardent supporter of the Roosevelt administration, was returned winner over Howard M. Gore, Republican, in a special election today. Edmiston held a lead of 5,085 votes over Gore, a former governor, who refrained from attacking President Roosevelt in his campaign, but criticized phases of the NRA.

The unofficial vote from 318 of the 383 precincts, representing more than three-fourths of the precincts in the ten counties of the district, was:

Edmiston	27,821
Gore	22,726

The election was to name a successor to Representative Lynn S. Hornor, Democrat, of the Third congressional district, who died recently while serving his second term.

Edmiston, a Weston publisher, a world war veteran and former chairman of the state Democratic committee, campaigned entirely on support of the national administration and all its policies. He was assisted by United States Senator Neely, Representatives Randolph and Kee, and former United States Senator William E. Chilton.

The Third district is considered normally Republican.

WALL STREET HAS LOST ITS POWER, BABSON ASSERTS

Urges End of Surtaxes as Step to Prosperity.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Wall street has lost its power and the nation must look to Washington rather than New York in its search for business facts in the next few years, Roger Babson, nationally known statistician, said today.

Sounding a note of optimism for the future but warning that the ones "truly guilty" for unemployment are the politicians who still find they can get votes by howling "soak the rich" he urged the elimination of surtaxes as a direct step toward prosperity.

The unemployed of the nation can lay the blame for their plight on the congressmen who have passed this "foolish legislation," he said. While the statistician's thrust at surtaxes was one of the main points of his address, he took occasion to picture the changing business outlook in detail and declared:

"Of course there is still a large amount of unemployment, but there are 4,000,000 more people employed today than a year ago," he said.

"Pay rolls are up considerably, which is resulting in a definitely increased purchasing power. Where three-quarters of the large corporations were operating in the red a year ago only one-quarter of them are in the red today. It is resulting in the resumption of dividends.

"People are impatient because they have not yet benefited from the federal public works program, but it is coming along and it is bound to be a great factor for progress in 1934. Furthermore, our foreign relations are in better condition and recognition of Russia is only the beginning of a reconciliation of the United States with other nations and a consequent increase in foreign trade.

"Washington will be a tremendous factor in determining business conditions in 1934 and for several years to come. Wall street has lost its source of power. It is useless to go to Wall street any more for information or forecasts."

WOMAN GIVEN FIVE YEARS FOR TRYING TO EXTORT $50,000

Newark, N. J., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—A middle aged spinster who sought to extort $50,000 from Aldis B. Squire, New Jersey banker, through threats of violence aimed at his socially prominent daughter, Aldys, 18, was sentenced today under the newly enacted Lindbergh law. It was the first conviction under the statute in New Jersey, where the kidnaping of Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr. laid the basis for its enactment by congress.

The spinster is Miss Flora Carol Ravens, 42, of Bloomfield, sent to the Federal Industrial Institution for Women at Alderson, W. Va., for five years by Federal Judge William Clark.

THE OLDER THE FISH THE LESS ITS FLAVOR

Don't buy old tasteless fish. Ask your fish dealer for 40-Fathom Fish which fairly flies from deep ocean to your dealer—always dripping with that fresh-caught flavor of the sea.

40-Fathom Fish are the cream of the catch—boned—all heads, tails, waste removed—the white tenderloin of the sea—ready for the fire without even washing—easy to cook as bacon.

You cannot tell whether fish are going to taste good when you buy them, neither can your dealer. Therefore, ask for 40-Fathom Fish which never fail to have that fresh-caught flavor of the sea. See that you get 40-Fathom Fish in the 40-Fathom wrapper with the name and picture of Old 40-Fathom on the wrapper. If fish is offered you in some other wrapper or in no wrapper as 40-Fathom Fish, don't buy it. Get 40-Fathom Fish in the 40-Fathom wrapper or refuse to take it.

CHURCH OFFICIAL DEFENDS SMITH, RAPS COUGHLIN

Declares Priest's Attack Is Unwarranted.

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Father Charles E. Coughlin's defense of President Roosevelt's monetary policies reechoed tonight in three dominating developments.

1. Alfred E. Smith, whom Father Coughlin described yesterday as the "outstanding Catholic layman in America," declared the Detroit priest made an "absolutely false" statement in charging that "my position on the monetary question was in any way affected by any loan from J. P. Morgan . . ."

2. Msgr. Thomas G. Carroll, chancellor of the Catholic archdiocese of New York, said the priest's attack on former Gov. Smith was "absolutely unwarranted."

3. Before returning to his Shrine of the Little Flower, Father Coughlin said he had further plans to defend the administration's money program, but said he would not address meetings in any diocese if the diocesan authorities did not approve.

Those Baloney Dollars.

The former New York governor—who decried what he termed "baloney dollars" and the "guinea pig" experimentation of the Roosevelt administration in a recent editorial—characterized as "absolutely false" Father Coughlin's story that Smith gave two Catholic bishops "to understand that he had received a large loan for his office building from Morgan."

"When Father Coughlin insinuates to his vast radio audience," Smith declared in a statement, "that I even spoke to Mr. Morgan or anybody connected with him about this or any other financial transaction, he is stating what is absolutely false. I have never talked with Mr. Morgan on any subject except our joint service under our appointment together by the mayor of the city on a committee to allocate state funds for unemployment relief.

"When a man presumes to address so great a number of listeners as Father Coughlin reaches, particularly if he be a priest, he assumes the responsibility of not misleading them by false statements or poisoning their judgments with baseless slanders."

Quotes Divine Commandment.

"From boyhood," Smith's statement continued, "I was taught that a Catholic priest was under the divine injunction to 'teach all nations" the word of God. That includes the divine commandment: "Thou shall not bear false witness against thy neighbor."

While the comment of Msgr. Carroll did not encompass such a possibility, it was indicated at the chancery office that Father Coughlin might not receive permission in the future to speak in this diocese.

"Father Coughlin ought to remember," Msgr. Carroll said, "that as a clergyman he has a rather privileged forum, which is accorded him by his position whether he accepts it as such or not, and that forum is not the place in which to attribute selfish notions to anybody."

Priest on Way to Detroit.

The priest boarded a train for Detroit before the Smith statement was made public. He made no reply to the chancellor's remarks except to say:

"I refuse to come into this diocese and start a quarrel. There are certain proprieties of gentlemanliness and etiquette among clergymen which forbid such a discussion."

Father Coughlin said he had neither talked with by telephone nor visited any officials of the diocese today.

"I came here with their knowledge," he added, pointing out that J. H. Rand Jr., industrialist and one of the members of the committee for the nation, had informed the chancery office of his visit to address last night's uproarious massmeeting in the Hippodrome at which the name of Smith frequently was booed.

DRAWS REBUKE FOR THREAT TO MUZZLE PRESS

Congresswoman Warns She'll Fight It.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Representative W. T. Schulte [Dem., Ind.] was rebuked today for a prediction attributed to him that the next congress would "muzzle the press" by his only woman colleague from that state.

Representative Virginia E. Jenckes [Dem., Ind.] wrote Schulte that although she would oppose any movement which tended to retard the plans of President Roosevelt and his administration, she would oppose also any action looking toward a censored press.

"My dear colleague," the letter said, "I have just finished reading newspaper accounts of remarks credited to you in which you are alleged to have made the following statement in an address before the Association of the Sons of Italy at Gary, Ind.

Schulte's Statement.

"'The next session of congress will give birth to some kind of legislation to muzzle the press which needs muzzling. In the fight to bring this country out of its worst depression we are not only going to have to deal with the Wall street thieves, but also with a subsidized press whose slogan just now seems to be stop Roosevelt.'

"While I am in hearty accord in opposing any movement which will retard the plans of President Roosevelt and his administration toward placing our nation toward prosperity again, I am greatly discouraged over your alleged remarks in which you advocate 'muzzling the press.'

"While there is great necessity of standing by the President, yet I wish to take this means of advising you, as your fellow colleague in the Indiana delegation in the house of representatives, that I will vigorously oppose any and all attempts, direct or indirect, to muzzle the American newspapers, regardless of whether they are right or wrong, regardless of whether they need muzzling or do not need muzzling.

See Press Public Safeguard.

"If we are to maintain the constitution of the United States and the free institutions which have developed under the protection of our constitution, then we must allow the freest expression of thought regardless of whether we are in accord with it or opposed to it.

"If we are to avoid a bureaucratic form of government which will lead to dictatorship, then we must allow the people to 'know the truth, and the truth will set us free.'

"The American newspapers are an important agency in bringing the information and the truth to the people. They have been largely responsible for the development of our nation by reason of making possible the widest discussion of problems affecting the weal and woe of our people.

Never Have Failed in Crisis.

"The American newspapers have never failed America in a crisis and they are, at the present time, standing loyally by the President of the United States in his fearless leadership in overcoming the economic depression. I pay tribute to the American newspapers, regardless of their political affiliation, for the loyal manner in which they operate, and in which they are supporting and cooperating with the President and his administration.

"My dear colleague, you need not fear that the American newspaper will violate this sacred trust and so it is with a feeling of deep regret that I must, at this time, advise you that if the above credited to you is genuine then please accept this as notice of my vigorous opposition to any and all such attempts which will be made in the congress."

BRITISH CABINET MEMBER FLAYS ROOSEVELTISM

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Attorney General Inskip, defending the government against a Liberal motion of censure, tonight delivered in the house of commons the first ministerial criticism of President Roosevelt's policy to be voiced in parliament. Angrily facing the Liberal and Labor benches, Inskip asked where was the constructive policy of the government's critics.

"Do you think the policy which has been adopted on the other side of the Atlantic would help this country. I am not sure that at one time the official opposition [Laborites] were not rather attracted by Rooseveltism. Will Great Britain choose the rash and hazardous experiment of trans-Atlantic minds or some gigantic financial speculation, or will it choose the persistent and thoroughly well proved methods which seem, at any rate at the present time, to be making steady progress?"

Eventually the Liberal motion was defeated by 434 to 58 votes.

LIBERTY PROVISO HELD ESSENTIAL FOR PRESS CODE

Newspapers Warned They Can Lose Rights.

Newspapers may lose their constitutional guaranty of freedom of publication if they accept the NRA code without a specific bill of rights proviso, it is stated in an opinion made public yesterday by the law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin.

This opinion, which was submitted to Col. Robert R. McCormick, chairman of the committee on freedom of the press of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, is in the nature of an answer to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, who has ridiculed the necessity of any such safeguard and at the same time has refused it, and is a warning to newspaper publishers who do not see any danger in coming under the NRA without such reservation.

Possible to Waive Rights.

The legal case of the newspapers is developed from an analysis of the general proposition that any one may waive his constitutional rights by not insisting upon them in the proper form and in the proper tribunal. If a constitutional question is not raised in the state courts, the opinion says, it cannot be raised on appeal to the Supreme court of the United States.

"The newspapers could, by reason and analogy," the opinion continues, "contract away the right of free publication."

An analogy is found in the act of a corporation which has a perpetual and special charter accepting the benefits of a new and limiting corporate law. By filing reports under the new law the corporation loses the benefits of its special charter.

Newspaper Code Discussed.

Many cases are cited in support of this, and the opinion continues:

"In the case of the newspaper code, we would, of course, insist that section 4 of NRA is unconstitutional when applied to the newspapers. If newspapers take the benefits of section 3 of the NRA they would undoubtedly be unable to contend that they did not also have to take the burdens of section 4. . . . If the newspapers, by entering into a code, admit that NRA is applicable to newspapers they would undoubtedly, without the proviso contended for, admit that the rest of the code is applicable to and binding upon them.

"As above stated, many constitutional rights may be waived or contracted away. Why should the newspapers be asked to take a chance upon a waiver in this instance?

The Question of Necessity.

"If the proviso is unnecessary to maintain the guaranty of the freedom of the press, it is at most surplusage which cannot in any way bind or fetter the government in its program. If the proviso is necessary to prevent a waiver, the government should not insist that it be eliminated—unless the government wishes to have in its hand a weapon which it could use to stifle the press.

"The very fact that Johnson is so insistent upon the elimination of the proviso would lead an unprejudiced observer to feel that he wishes to put the press on exactly the same plane as other industry [notwithstanding its special constitutional guarantees] so that in the event of hostility or adverse criticism emanating from the press he will be in a position effectively and summarily to gag it.

"Hundreds of disputed points will arise in the application of NRA and codes adopted thereunder. In the last American Bar Journal there is an article which lists some of the grave constitutional questions.

"For various reasons, everybody at present seems to have adopted the attitude of acquiescence. It seems to be the consensus of opinion that all constitutional rights fly out of the window when an emergency stands at the door. It seems to be the feeling that the courts will sustain the act and all codes adopted under the act. If injustice is done, or if, after the emergency has expired, we wish to get rid of these dictatorial powers, the people will look to the press and not to the courts.

"If the proviso is elminated, the question will arise whether the press cannot be licensed, and this question will have to be determined by the courts, which, we believe, are apt to decide close questions in favor of virtual dictatorships. If the proviso is included, the courts cannot, without stultifying themselves, hold that licensing of the press was ever contemplated in the adoption of the code."

Ford Dealer to Make a Fight If Denied a Contract by U. S.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The Ford-NRA controversy went to J. R. McCarl, the controller general, again today for settlement.

Only a short time after the war department had opened bids on 700 new trucks for the civilian conservation corps, R. L. Sabine, president of the Northwest Motor company of Bethesda, Md., a Ford dealer, filed a protest with McCarl against any award on the basis of today's bids.

In the protest Sabine reiterated charges he made last Saturday to Secretary Dern that a "studied effort" had been made to eliminate Ford products from consideration. He contended the bids the war department invited were for the same trucks originally asked by the department of agriculture.

Purchase Shifted, He Charges.

The latter department, Sabine asserted, had refused to award him the contract even though he had been low bidder, and because McCarl had previously ruled him eligible, efforts had been continued to exclude him as a Ford dealer by shifting the purchase over to the war department. War officials yesterday denied any attempts had been made to exclude Ford dealers from the bidding.

The Northwest company was not the low bidder today, but the specifications called for trucks of not less than six cylinders. Ford now manufactures only four and eight cylinder cars. The Chevrolet Motor company, bidding on a six cylinder unit, was approximately $40 below the Ford proposal.

But in the face of the Chevrolet bid of $629.29 as a unit price, and his own at $671.10, Sabine still claimed to be actually the low bidder on the grounds, he said he could deliver trucks to the government so much faster that a loss to the government would result from delay in delivery by other companies.

Almost Excluded by Terms.

"It was no surprise to find we were not low bidders on the war department's proposal," Sabine said. "In our protest to the secretary of war last Saturday we pointed out we were virtually excluded by the terms of the proposal.

"It is to be observed that it will cost the government over $43,000 to accept the low bid in today's opening over our low bid still pending in the department of agriculture.

"I would like to make it clear I have no quarrel with the rank and file of the war department."

CHICAGO RETAIL CODE COUNCIL IS APPROVED BY NRA

The Chicago district retail code authority, a council which will regulate the local retail industry's operations under the NRA, was formed yesterday following receipt of approval from recovery administration officials in Washington.

The first meeting of the new council, held in the Palmer house, was attended by 35 executives of the larger stores. Officers were elected and the Better Business bureau was appointed to make investigations of complaints of alleged violations.

The authority has a membership of 48 persons who represent 30 classes of retailing in Chicago. It excludes stores selling agricultural products, florist establishments and drug, jewelry, and cigar stores.

Elmer F. Wieboldt of Wieboldt Stores, Inc., was elected president; Elmer T. Stevens of Charles A. Stevens & Co., and Maurice L. Rothschild of Maurice L. Rothschild, Inc., vice presidents; Donald M. Nelson of Sears, Roebuck & Co., chairman of the executive committee, and Paul C. Fleer of the Davis company, secretary.

2,400 IN NETWORK OF EMPLOYMENT OFFICES IN U. S.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—The country has a network of 2,400 federal employment offices to place workers on jobs in private industry and public works, according to Secretary of Labor Perkins.

Of these employment offices 100 will be permanent. The others will not outlive the civil and public works projects, unless some are taken over by the states.

Up to date eleven states are cooperating under the Wagner-Peyser act, and twenty-two others are completing their arrangements.

SHOPS ALL OVER CHICAGO AND SUBURBS

SHOW HOW MILK CODE FAILS TO HELP FARMERS

Defense of Price Pact Opens at U. S. Hearing.

Attorneys for the agricultural adjustment administration declared yesterday that they believed they had learned the attitude of consumers toward the Chicago milk marketing agreement which raised the retail price of milk to 11 cents a quart and which seeks to outlaw cheaper cash and carry sales.

They accordingly closed that phase of their public hearing in progress since Monday in the Stevens hotel. Defenders of the milk code started to present their witnesses last evening and will continue today. Members of the city council subcommittee on milk, of which Ald. David L. Sutton [8th] is chairman, will also appear at the hearing today.

Obtain More Room.

The first two days' hearings were held in the north ballroom of the hotel, seating 600 persons, and the room was packed for every session. Because many were unable to gain admission to the hearing, today's session, it was announced, will take place in the grand ballroom, seating 3,000.

"It has been very impressive, hearing these consumers," said Jerome N. Frank, general counsel of the AAA and co-chairman of the hearing, "but there is no use hearing the same story again and again."

From the testimony of the first witnesses who appeared in support of the present milk code it was learned last evening that the farmers selling to a number of small milk dealers are not receiving the $2.10 a hundredweight for their milk set as the base price under the code, but only $1.75 a hundredweight.

Five Dealers on Stand.

Five of these small dealers were presented as witnesses by Attorney Loy N. McIntosh, who in addition to being their counsel is attorney for Sidney Wanzer's Sons, Inc., one of the "big four" dairy companies, and for the milk bottle exchange, which the big companies control. They all asserted that they were complying with the code, although three admitted they pay the farmers only $1.75 a hundredweight for base milk.

The deduction from the farmer's milk checks is accomplished in this way: The base price of $2.10 a hundredweight is paid for delivery at the country plant of the dairy company. The dairy farmer either hauls his own milk, usually a matter of a few miles, or hires a neighbor to do it.

But the small dairies have no country plants. They hire trucking companies to haul their milk to their city plants, paying them a flat rate of 35 cents a hundredweight. It was shown last night that this charge did not vary between one distributor who gets his milk 35 miles from his plant and another whose milk is hauled 116 miles.

Only $1.75 for Farmer.

The distributors are thus enabled to tell the government truthfully that they pay the code price of $2.10 a hundredweight for base milk without adding that the farmer gets only $1.75 of this.

Each of the distributors testified that he pays his union deliverymen $40 a week, and his inside workers $35 a week. Each testified that his business has fallen off in the last two years, and each blamed cash and carry milk stands, selling cut price milk.

Of each of them Attorney McIntosh asked: "If you paid the farmer the price paid by the cash and carry people, and paid the wages they said they pay, could you sell milk at the prices they do and still make money?"

Each answered: "Yes."

Describes Vendor System.

The examination of one of the small dealers, Thomas Traub, owner of the Peoples Dairy company, 2410 58th avenue, Cicero, put into the record of the hearing another method of milk merchandising.

Vendors are independent milk dealers who buy their bottled milk from a dairy company and sell it on their own delivery route. Their number has increased in two years from 120 to about 550 in Chicago, Attorney Elmer D. Hays, co-chairman of the hearing with Attorney Frank, said.

Traud said that he sells to 20 vendors, who take from 8 to 15 cases of a dozen quarts each a day. He charges them 82 cents a case, or 6 5-6 cents per quart, plus 2 cents for each bottle they fail to return. They sell for 11 cents a quart.

"Are you able to clear costs at that price?" Dr. Frederick C. Howe, head of the AAA consumers' council, asked Traub.

"No, I sell at a loss," was the reply.

"Why?" asked Dr. Howe.

"So I can stay in business," said Traub. "I've got an investment to look after."

"If you always lose," asked Dr. Howe, "what advantage is there to staying in business?"

"Other companies have this vendor system," said Traub. "I'm willing to drop it any time."

Loses $18,000 a Year.

Dr. Howe figured on a scrap of paper for a time and then said: "You lose about $50 a day, or $18,000 a year. Is that right?"

"Yes," said Traub.

"Well, what's it all about?" queried Dr. Howe.

"I don't know what it's all about either," shouted Traub, angrily, "but I don't think you know much about the dairy business. I'd like to have you in my business for one month."

Walter Scheutz, president of the Chicago Independent Milk Distributors' association, a recent organization of the 550 vendors, pointed out that the present code allows them a differential of one 1½ cents a quart between their purchase and sale price, and said that if the code were enforced, "we would be forced into the breadlines.

"Do you carry insurance on your delivery truck," Attorney Hays asked him.

"Yes," said Scheutz, "personal liability, property damage, fire and theft—and bombing insurance."

Applaud AAA Attorney.

Earlier in the day, the attitude of the consumer public, as represented at the hearing, was exhibited by the wild applause which greeted Attorney Hays' statement that the government is to make a new examination of the books of the milk distributors. He added that it is not satisfied with the information which the companies have furnished to date. This came during discussion of the testmony of Herman G. Seeley, newspaper editorial writer and former financial writer.

Speaking on behalf of the consumers, Seely made two points. The first was that the only exact information on the capital setup of any of the four major milk companies indicated the presence of watered stock in one of them. The other was that Chicago had once had an extensive system of cash and carry milk stores, selling cut rate milk, and that the system had been set up at the instance of the government itself, through its food administration, in response to protests against high milk prices during the war.

2 Are Family Concerns.

Two of the "big four" milk companies, the Bowman Dairy company and Sidney Wanzer's Sons, Inc., are family concerns which put out no financial information of value, Seely said. A third, Borden's Farm Products Company of Illinois, is but one unit of 91 operated by a holding company, the Borden company, a New Jersey corporation. But Seely put into the hearing record some new information regarding the acquisition in 1928 by the Borden company of the fourth of the "big four," the Wieland Dairy company, still operated as an independent concern.

Old financial manuals, Seely found, show that the year before the merger, the Wieland company had common and preferred stock and bonds outstanding of a total of $1,813,100. Two years later, manuals showed that as "part payment" for the Wieland Dairy company, the Wieland Ice Cream company and the A. J. Olson Dairy company, which the Wieland family also owned, the Borden company issued in 1928 its own capital stock of a par value of $3,815,000. Newspaper files show that at that time there were reports, never officially confirmed, that the Wieland family got a total payment of $5,000,000.

But when the Borden interests took over the Wieland company they incorporated it as a new corporation in Delaware. Seely testified that the capital stock of this corporation was $12,000,000, of which $8,000,000 was listed. The Wieland Ice Cream company, acquired as part of the same purchase, but not concerned in the fluid milk industry, was reincorporated at the same time with capital stock of $6,000,000, of which $1,000,000 was issued.

"Speaking for the consumers," said Seely, "we feel that when the cash and carry stores are closed a hardship is worked on the people least able to bear it. The story of the last few years has been one of the growth of large companies and the absorption of small ones."

"What has capital structure got to do with the price of milk?" Seely was asked by Don N. Gever, manager of the Pure Milk association.

"I only know," said Seely, "that Mr. Insull used to hold that it was necessary to get a certain return on his investments. There might be a tendency for the government to set prices on the basis of a swollen capital structure."

Already Has an "Audit."

"The government has already made an audit and announced what the price should be," declared Geyer.

"The only exception I take to Mr. Geyer's statement," interjected Attorney Hays, "is the use of the word 'audit.' The AAA has not made a complete audit of the books in Chicago, but it intends to do so. We were given figures, but that doesn't mean we were satisfied with them."

The applause at this statement was long and loud, despite Attorney Hays' effort to quell it with his gavel.

Regarding the history of cash and carry stores in Chicago, Seely testified that on Feb. 2, 1918, through its milk commission for Illinois, the federal food administration set 12 cents a quart and 7 cents a pint as the price of delivered milk in Chicago, and at the same time provided for the establishment of cash and carry milk depots, of which there were presently 750 in operation in the city. The price at these stations was fixed at 10 cents a quart, with a deposit of 5 cents on the bottle.

Distributors' Share Larger.

The spread between the 1918 farm price and the price to the consumer was also far greater than it is at present. When the government fixed the price of delivered milk in Chicago at 12 cents a quart at that time, it also set an average price for eight months, from November, 1917, to June, 1918, of $2.74 a hundredweight to farmers.

That was before the days of the base-surplus price system, and out of the 12 cents paid by the consumer the farmer got about 5.9 cents and the distributor 6.1 cents. Today, with a so-called blended price of $1.84 a hundredweight, after deduction of an 8 cent checkoff for the Pure Milk association, the farmer gets only 3.98 cents of the 11 cents paid by the consumer, while the distributor gets 7.85 cents.

ENGINEER, 51 YEARS ON SAME 15 MILE RUN, IS TO RETIRE

Cleveland, O., Nov. 28.—(AP)—If you look real hard at a large map of Ohio you may be able to see a point called Whisky Island, in Cleveland, where they unload the ore boats which ply Lake Erie. Just a mite downstate, maybe 15 miles, maybe a little less, you'll see another point called Bedford.

For more than 51 years J. B. De Silvey has been making that run as locomotive engineer for the Pennsylvania lines. For 51 years he has gone no further west than the island, no further south and east than Bedford.

Thanksgiving day will mark Hop's retirement on a pension, aged 70 years. Tomorrow he will make his last run, bunting a drag of cars down the yards with his switch engine. Then he will be through.

CITY LIQUOR LAW PASSED; BAN RUM AT STAND UP BAR

Fix License Fee at $250 for Six Months.

100 feet of a school, church, military or naval station, and it prohibits the sale of liquor to minors.

One paragraph specifically prohibits the use of the word "saloon" in any sign or advertisement of a dispensary. Another prohibits the licensing of any person who is a "manufacturer, distiller, brewer, bottler, wholesaler, jobber, or distributor, or any agent or representative of such." Still another paragraph prohibits the licensing of any one who has received financial or any other aid from the above classifications of persons.

Penalties are fixed at fines of not less than $25 nor more than $200 for each offense.

OPPOSES STATE BOARD

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Within sight of the end of the second week of its special liquor session, the Illinois general assembly wound up another day's work tonight with one solitary decision in its record.

That one was not considered startling but, in view of the gloomy outlook for action universally recognized for several days, the lone expression of attitude was held to be at least a hopeful sign that something may be accomplished by next Tuesday, the date accepted for federal repeal.

By a new form of test the senate tonight showed itself irreconcilably opposed to the idea of a state commission, whether it be a commission with executive and regulatory powers or merely an advisory body limited to research labors.

A Day of Uncertainties.

Enactment of a bill including such a commission would require 34 votes under the present conditions. But a "straw count" this evening showed only 23 votes for creating any form of commission. This was not a part of the proceedings but a test proposed by Martin B. Lohman [Dem., Pekin] toward the close of a long day, crowded with uncertainties.

Except for this one vote the day's business, it was admitted, was devoid of progress, although it witnessed considerable labor by both chambers and by Gov. Horner. The immediate result of the governor's activity was the senate shuffling up its two liquor control proposals in a manner that eventually produced laughter.

The Ward commission report carried with it the drafts of two bills, one embodying the state commission idea. When a series of conferences among senators of both parties concluded that simplification demanded the elimination of one of the proposals, the decision to slaughter what had been branded by its opponents as the city hall bill and to amend the second of the two by including in it the desirable features of the first.

The net result of the day's work was believed to spell an end to Gov. Horner's efforts to put through his own variation from the home rule idea espoused from the beginning by Senator Harold G. Ward.

Resents Story of Rift with Kelly.

The governor's attitude, expressed to newspaper men during a press conference late in the afternoon, was that he had the utmost reluctance to interfere with the deliberations on the third floor of the statehouse, where the two chambers were in session, but that he felt, as did other observers, that emergency methods were required if Illinois were not to be left stories of "controversy" between himself and Mayor Kelly of Chicago.

"'Controversy' is entirely the wrong word," he said. "We are aiming toward the same goal. Mr. Kelly and I have been and will continue to be friends. There may be a difference of opinion, but our purpose is the same. He believes in making this entirely a local problem. I feel that the state must retain control for the purpose of making any changes in the system which later may prove advisable. I in the lawless class with the abolition of federal control.

He resented extremely newspaper am not advocating any one bill as the complete method of meeting the problem."

The governor said about the same thing earlier in the day when, completely at loggerheads, leaders of both houses conceded that drastic action had become necessary. Each house had named a special committee of 15 for the purpose of trying to work out a single bill in place of the two that were offered following three months of work by the Ward commission. Throughout the day both representatives and senators had been attaching amendments of various descriptions to the two commission bills. But the net result was that neither had even a quorum support, while a two-thirds vote must be obtained for any bill to be effective as soon as acted upon by the governor.

There was still a little talk about "the big black satchel"—its presence or absence—as the inducing cause for the present situation. There was still a total lack of anything like evidence in this field, but the gossip had a deterrent effect, it was believed, in both houses.

So far as could be learned, but few lobbyists were trying to take a hand in the proceedings.

Chicago Heights Adopts $200 Liquor License Law

The city council of Chicago Heights yesterday passed an ordinance for liquor control, to be in effect after Dec. 6. This ordinance requires a license fee of $200 for each saloon for the period ending May 1, 1934. The closing hour for saloons will be 1 a. m.

Distillers Put Under Code; U. S. to Rule Liquor Industry

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—Liquor distillers today came under a code setting up federal control of their industry while brewers won government consent for unlimited plant capacity and production.

President Roosevelt signed the distillers' code in Warm Springs, Ga., yesterday to become effective today in preparation for repeal on Dec. 5.

The code creates a federal alcohol control administration of five government officials to be appointed by President Roosevelt probably within 48 hours. Harris E. Willingham, head of the alcoholic beverage section of the farm administration, is slated to be a member, and Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol, was mentioned as director.

Rule Until Congress Acts.

This administration will supervise the brewing, importing, rectifying, and blending industries until congress enacts permanent post-repeal regulatory legislation. Codes for these branches of the liquor industry are to be promulgated by the President before next Tuesday.

A spokesman for the organized distillers said today the industry as a whole had no intention of signing the code, but would abide by it until congress acted unless it was felt that an action of the federal control administration interfered with constitutional rights.

Meanwhile the farm administration has laid aside temporarily, at least, the marketing agreement proposed by the President's interdepartmental alcohol committee. The agreement split the grain and molasses alcohol beverage distillers last week over a provision that only American grain might be used in the manufacture of whisky and alcohol for blending.

Argues for Brewers.

What steps the administration will take to force the industry to use domestic grain to benefit the farmer after repeal was a subject discussed at Warm Springs yesterday by Secretary Wallace and President Roosevelt.

Prof. H. B. Dareau of New York university, economic advisor to the brewers, argued for the elimination of a section in the government drafted code for plant capacity and production control.

Head of Investment Firm Accused of Embezzlement

William H. Hertz, president of Hertz & Co., Inc., investment bankers, with offices at 105 West Adams street, which is now in receivership, was charged with embezzlement of $117,597.55 of the company funds in a warrant issued yesterday by Judge Jay A. Schiller. The warrant was obtained by Valle Ford, who described himself as an official of Hertz & Co. Hertz, interviewed at his office at 546 West Harrison street, said that he was innocent of the charge, which was placed "to embarrass him."

FOES OF CUBAN PRESIDENT SPURN PEACE OVERTURE

Ambassador Welles Due in Havana Today.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 28.—Conciliatory efforts by the government to reach some agreement to restore political peace in Cuba without foreign participation were climaxed tonight with complete failure, according to government spokesmen and opposition leaders.

Col. Carlos Mendieta, Nationalist leader, definitely refused even to consider assuming the provisional presidency "until I have learned what instructions were given Ambassador Welles by President Roosevelt."

President Grau San Martin received word from former President Mario G. Menocal, who is in Miami, that he would not consider any conciliation based on Grau as president and Col. Fulgencio Batista as head of the army. Menocal is said to insist upon the restoration of Carlos Manuel de Cespedes as president and reinstatement of all former army officers now in prison.

Says U. S. Plans Ultimatum.

A spokesman for the ABC society, chief supporter of Grau, said he has irrefutable information that Welles' instructions are to "give the Cubans a 15 days' ultimatum—ten days to get together and iron out difficulties and five to set up a government supported by all factions and in which all factions would be represented."

The spokesman added that this will be the last chance for the Cubans to settle their troubles by themselves and that if President Roosevelt's hopes have not materialized by the end of the 15 days, Jefferson Caffery, who will arrive as a representative of the United States before Welles departs about the middle of December, will discard the hands off policy for immediate forceful action, climaxing probably with armed intervention or at least with the island's military occupation. Welles will be here tomorrow.

Ruben de Leon, student directory leader, announced that the proposed anti-Welles demonstration would not be held "since he will depart within 15 days."

Four Wounded by Bomb.

A 62 year old woman, a 12 year old child and two men were seriously wounded today by a bomb explosion which seriously damaged the home of Dr. Jose Pendras. A second bomb rocked the city and virtually demolished a garage on Amistad street. There were no casualties. Five smaller bombs exploded throughout the city today.

IL DUCE TO SEEK RELIGIOUS PACT WITH LITVINOV

ROME, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini will act as a mediator for the Christian world, it was learned today, when he suggests to Maxim Litvinov, soviet foreign commissar, that religious liberty be restored in Russia.

Mussolini and Litvinov in forthcoming conversations will explore the possibility of using the soviet-American recognition agreement, recently effected by President Roosevelt and the soviet official, as a stepping stone to freedom of religion for all and, if this should be impossible, for all foreigners, at least for Italians.

The possibility was seen that Mussolini might be able to arrange conversations between Litvinov and Pope Pius.

LEGISLATURE IN NEWFOUNDLAND GIVES UP RULE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 28.—Newfoundland's legislature, made up over? whelmingly of members of Prime Minister F. C. Alderdice's party, today voted 23 to 2 to surrender the dominion's independence and become in effect a British crown colony. The legislative council is regarded as certain to ratify the action tomorrow.

The surrender, which is for an indefinite period, took the form of an address to the king, who was asked to be "graciously pleased to set up a commission government" in Newfoundland, as proposed in the recent report of the royal commission which investigated Newfoundland's tangled financial affairs and found the dominion bankrupt.

WOMAN ASKS IF HUEY LONG SCARES SENATE

He Suddenly Appears to Assail Witness.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Senator Huey P. Long today temporarily took charge of the senate committee hearing into the election of Senator John H. Overton. Long hurled defiance and sensational charges at his critics from the witness stand. As he ended a woman anti-Long leader arose and asked: "Is the United States senate afraid of Huey P. Long?"

The committeemen announced a luncheon recess and a bedlam of partisan shouts from the spectators was the only reply.

Long Attacks Witness.

Swaggering down the aisle today Long electrified the hearing by demanding to be heard in his own defense. He said he had three witnesses to prove Sam D. Hunter, a "gas well thief from north Louisiana" had attacked him and not Senator Overton with "hearsay testimony and untruths."

Long marched back and forth before the rostrum as the crowd cheered.

Long said he had heard that Sam Hunter had sworn that Huey Long had threatened to close his gas wells and send him to the penitentiary if he did not contribute $5,000 to the Overton campaign.

"I did not know Sam Hunter was alive during the senatorial campaign," he said. "The law does not provide even for a jail sentence for conservation violations. It provides for a fine and debarment from business within the state."

Long further charged Hunter had contributed $135,000 to the campaign fund of Dudley Le Blanc, anti-Long candidate in the gubernatorial race, because "Hunter wanted the severance tax repealed." Long said he was surprised yesterday when he heard Hunter said he had contributed only $75,000 to Le Blanc.

Woman Jabs at Senators.

As Long stepped from the stand, Mrs. Hilda Phelps Hammond, chairman of the women's committee of Louisiana, rebuked the committee for permitting Senator Long to "make a stump speech for an hour." She asked about fear.

Amid the noise Senator Long picked up his hat and walked out.

Capt. R. P. Webb, head of the Monroe office of the department of conservation, denied he had collected ten per cent from his employés for the Overton campaign. Recalled in the afternoon by Chairman Tom Connally [Dem., Tex.], he was asked if he knew a man named "Porter" and he said he did.

"Do you remember a check for $20 on a Monroe bank dated Oct. 7, 1932, made payable to Ruth Webb, your daughter, with a notation in one corner 'ten per cent of September's salary for Overton's campaign fund?'"

"I think he wrote that after he got the check back," Webb replied.

DISPUTE TESTIMONY OF CHIEF WITNESS AGAINST BENTLEY

Pontiac, Ill., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The prosecution today hastened to the defense of Wesley B. Shrigley, its star witness against Asher Earl Bentley, who is on trial for the murder of Miss Aldine Younger, after defense attorneys had attacked his testimony. As the arguments continued, court attachés said it was probable the case would not reach the jury until late tomorrow. Shrigley had testified he saw a couple struggling on the highway near the spot where Miss Younger's body was found, her skull crushed apparently by an automobile wheel.

The witness said one of the persons appeared to fall and then he saw an automobile drive slowly over the prostrate form.

The defense counsel, contended the injuries were such as would be caused by an automobile traveling at a high rate of speed.

JAPAN MAY ASK U. S. FOR DIRECT NAVAL PARLEY

TOKIO, Nov. 29.—[Wednesday]—(AP)—Direct discussions on naval affairs between the United States and Japan in 1934, preliminary to the 1935 conference for which the London treaty provides, were indicated officially today as a strong possibility.

A foreign office spokesman said Foreign Minister Koki Hirota believes that the most effective and most hopeful way to approach the difficult situation anticipated in the 1935 conference would be a preliminary bilateral discussion on naval differences between the two powers.

Therefore, the spokesman said, "after the foreign minister consults with Ambassador Debuchi measures may be taken to apply this belief practically."

SCHOOLS TO ASK CRITICS TO HELP TRIM '34 BUDGET

N. U. and U. of C. Educators to Get Invitations.

Educators at the University of Chicago and Northwestern university will be invited to advise the Chicago board of education on trimming the 1934 school budget to fit its shrunken revenues. This was announced last night by James B. McCahey, president of the board.

Mr. McCahey asked Supt. William J. Bogan to draw up a list of educational experts to whom the invitation will be sent.

Among those who may be invited to appear before the board are Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago; Charles H. Judd, dean of the college of education at the university; Prof. Henry C. Morrison of the college of education, an expert on school finances; Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university, and Augustus R. Hatton, professor of political science at Northwestern.

Among Board's Critics.

Of this group President Hutchins and Dean Judd openly attacked the economy program adopted by the school board on June 12. President Scott criticized several of its features. Prof. Morrison praised the board for most of the measures taken, and Prof. Hatton said that the moves made by the board were "bad politics."

It has not been determined whether the experts will make their suggestions in an open board meeting or in an executive session. This decision may rest with the educators.

"If these men can give us some constructive suggestions," asserted McCahey, "on how we can bring our budget within our means without endangering education in Chicago they will have done a great public service."

The preliminary estimates on 1934 budget appropriations and the taxes and other revenues to balance them were studied yesterday by McCahey and school officials including Howard P. Savage, business manager; Frank S. Righeimer, special counsel for the board; and Harry H. Brackett, auditor.

Ask for a Revision.

The officials were asked to make a revision of their budget estimates by 11 o'clock this morning. The results will be discussed at the board meeting this afternoon.

Under the law the business manager must have the preliminary estimates completed on or before Dec. 1. Then the board starts whittling down the appropriations to conform with the anticipated revenues. The budget will be finally adopted probably late in January.

Earlier in the day Mr. Bogan announced that all of the 1,257 teachers who were temporarily out of work because of the economy program will have regular teaching certificates by Dec. 14. These teachers have been taking special courses at the Normal college. Certificates have already been awarded to 637 of the group.

The certificates are expected to aid the teachers in obtaining positions under the joint plan of the federal and Illinois emergency relief organizations. It is expected that between 1,000 and 1,500 unemployed teachers in Chicago will conduct special classes financed by the relief funds.

DOUBLE HEADED VERDICT ACQUITS GIRL IN SHOOTING

A jury in Judge Benjamin P. Epstein's court returned two verdicts last night to make certain the acquittal of Miss Genevieve Gunda, 24 years old.

She was charged with assault to murder her former sweetheart, Sigmund Kately, 30 years old, of 3032 West 41st street. She shot him on April 17, 1932, after finding him in the company of another woman at 35th street and Archer avenue. He recovered from his wound.

Miss Gunda's defense, offered by Attorney Thaddeus Toudor, was that she was temporarily insane at the moment of the shooting.

The jurors accepted this defense. Their first verdict found that Miss Gunda was momentarily insane at the shooting, but had since recovered her sanity. This was a legal acquittal, entitling Miss Gunda to her freedom. The second verdict was a flat "not guilty," having the same effect.

"We wanted to be doubly sure that Miss Gunda would be freed," said one of the jurors explaining the two verdicts.

Woman Starts $73,500 Suit Against Coal Firm Head

Molita M. Keener, 36 years old, 420 Diversey parkway, yesterday filed the praecipe of a $73,500 damage suit in the Circuit court against Herbert C. Wolf, 431 Oakdale avenue, head of the Methe-Wolf Coal company. Attorney Phil R. Davis, counsel for Miss Keener, said that his client and Wolf had been friends for eleven years. Three years ago, he said, she was severely injured in an auto accident while riding with Wolf. Soon afterward, the attorney said, Wolf married Miss Theresa Cosgrove. Miss Keener agreed not to sue him for breach of promise to marry, the attorney said, when Wolf agreed to pay her $35 a week. The payments ceased last September, according to the attorney.

44 Foot Lizard Will Be Seen in Toy Parade Tomorrow

STORES EXPECT CHRISTMAS RUSH TO BEGIN TODAY

Merchandise Is Ready for Early Shoppers.

Several million dollars' worth of new Christmas merchandise is awaiting the shoppers from Chicago and the surrounding territory who start early on their annual hunt for Christmas gifts in the loop stores, merchants said yesterday.

Every department store where inquiry was made reported a complete supply of Christmas wares. Their stocks were obtained early this year, to make up for Thanksgiving's being a week late. Whereas Christmas shopping ordinarily begins the day after Thanksgiving, the impetus given early shopping this year is expected to produce a throng of forward looking buyers today.

Sales Forces Increased.

Several stores already have added considerably to their sales forces, one store reporting several hundred additional employés. Others are accepting applications, and probably will put on extra salesmen and saleswomen next week.

Christmas decorations make festive the main floors of the large loop stores, while show windows display holiday merchandise. Toy departments with their Santa Clauses have attracted parents for more than a week. Christmas gift bureaus and sections where Christmas decorations are sold all have fresh stocks.

The head of one of the large State street stores declared that the new Christmas merchandise in his store had been bought in advance of the rise in prices, and was offered at a much lower level than would be possible if it were bought now.

Expect Increase Over 1932.

"We have three-fourths of a million dollars' worth more merchandise on hand than we had a year ago," he said. "This is due to our desire to buy stocks before the rise in prices set in and also to an anticipation of a larger volume of business."

Buying was marked in the toy department of his store during the last week, he said, and was noticeable, although less so, in other sections of the store.

Christmas stocks were complete 10 days early this year, but the remaining number of shopping days after today numbers only 20, it was pointed out.

Opens Toy Season

Gargantuan dragons, folk of Mother Goose fables, gorgeous floats, and bloated animals from the toyland zoo, will form the advance guard of the Christmas toy parade which will bob and clown its way through loop streets tomorrow morning. During the afternoon the parade will wend its way over north side streets.

The parade, announcing the opening of the Christmas toy season in the city's department stores, will start at 10:30 o'clock. It will form at La Salle street and Wacker drive, march east on the drive to State street, turn south there to Harrison street, east again to Wabash avenue, turn north to Congress, cross to State street and head north to Wacker drive where it will disband. The north side parade will form at Ravenswood and Lawrence avenues, head west to Damen avenue, north to Foster, east to Ashland, south to Montrose west to Lincoln and north to Lawrence avenue.

TAX RECEIVER APPOINTED FOR 35 PROPERTIES

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $301,523, making a total of $91,482,043 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
Nov. 28.....$	15,658 $	31,551
Uncollected	16,224,658	43,246,509
	1930.	1931.
Nov. 28.....$	67,309 $	187,005
Uncollected	68,723,855	68,993,957

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $4,521.

Thirty-five income bearing properties were ordered into receivership yesterday by County Judge Jarecki. The judge appointed County Treasurer McDonough receiver to collect taxes totaling $74,000 for 1928, 1929, and 1930. Attorneys for other property owners paid $92,000 in court to forestall receivership action.

PRESIDENT LAUDS 'KEEP CHICAGO AHEAD' PROGRAM

As business men yesterday were proceeding with plans to stimulate business and keep employment on the upgrade in accordance with the program sponsored by Mayor Kelly to "Keep Chicago Ahead," the mayor received a telegram from President Roosevelt congratulating Chicago on its spirit and initiative. The telegram read as follows:

"May I convey through you to the people of Chicago my congratulations on the spirit and initiative typified in your drive slogan, 'Keep Chicago Ahead.' Your great World's Fair has given your city a flying start for the program you are undertaking. With a united effort and every citizen doing his part success is assured. We are on our way and there is no place for laggards. I know Chicago will do her part."

The drive opened yesterday morning with the display in stores and business houses all over the city of posters portraying a blue eagle in the background with Miss Columbia with widespread arms uniting labor and capital. Plans have been made to distribute many thousands of the posters during the week and millions of pamphlets giving information as to the purposes and aims of the "Keep Chicago Ahead" movement.

DELAY TAKING OF DEPOSITION IN HALL SUIT

Because her physician, Dr. Harold S. Hulbert, declared that she was too ill the taking of the deposition of Mrs. Byrd Arnold Smith of Evanston in the alienation suit of Mrs. Howard Willett against Mrs. Mary Cave Hall was postponed yesterday until Dec. 14. Mrs. Smith, a psychologist consulted by the Willett family two years ago, has been bedridden for months from injuries received in an automobile accident.

Miss Alice Greenacre, attorney for Mrs. Hall, appeared at the Smith home at 1307 Grant place in company with Attorney Frank M. Loews, described as an expert on evidence, and Police Magistrate James J. Barber of Evanston. Mrs. Willett arrived with her attorneys, Bennison Bartel and Henry Balaban, only to be informed that no testimony could be taken until the patient's condition had improved

OLD RANDOLPH ST. AWAITS NEW LIFE IN SUPERHIGHWAY

Market Area Now Just a Clutter of Vehicles.

BY HAL FOUST.

Randolph street just west of the loop, once a thriving market district, has been slumping in commercial importance during the last fifteen years. And now, on the eve of its rebirth as the site of Chicago's first elevated highway, the street is suffering further degradation. Motorists have converted the broad pavement into an unregulated public parking lot.

An inspection of this old produce market district yesterday showed passenger cars parked and locked in double rows on both sides of the street car tracks that occupy the middle of the 120 foot street. In other spots the cars were mingled with farm wagons and vegetable trucks in front of the establishments of produce merchants who have remained in the superannuated buildings of Randolph street while others have moved to the new South Water market in 14th and 15th streets.

Banana Dealer Complains.

"They stand here all day," said a banana dealer, pointing to the row of cars in front of his shack. "Guys leave their cars here while they're at work in the loop. The cops should do something."

No policemen were seen on the inspection tour. Horse drawn wagons, peddlers' carts, grocers' delivery cars, and farmers' trucks tangled themselves among the parked automobiles in a confusion that gave a false impression of activity. Motor traffic was moving in the street car tracks only, and occasionally this was interrupted by a parker moving in or out.

Millions of dollars were spent in 22 years to develop this broad plaza, 6,000 feet long from Union park to Des Plaines street. Its value to society decreased when new marketing facilities were established with the construction of Wacker drive.

Clutter Discourages Traffic.

Through traffic never found its way into this potential througfare due to the clutter of hucksters' wagons. A short distance away Washington boulevard carries an overload.

City planners for the last decade have looked at the plaza as the groundwork for a Place de la Concorde or a Place Vendome. It has the expanse between its curbs, and the old buildings are in such a condition that the cost of their removal would be little. Wrecking them would make way for public buildings, museums, theater, and monuments.

Dr. Miller McClintock, director of the Harvard university traffic research bureau, in his recent two year study of Chicago's motor transportation facilities, saw in the Randolph street plaza a site for an elevated highway to serve the area where the curse of congestion is most acute, the western approach to the loop.

Plans Now Being Prepared.

State highway engineers, under orders of Gov Horner and Director Kingery of the department of public works, are now preparing plans, specifications and estimates for such a structure. It would connect with the one-way boulevard system at Union park and with ramps running east from Des Plaines street to the Randolph, Lake and Washington street bridges.

On Dec. 10, or thereabouts, the state will apply to the federal government for a grant of easy money to cover 30 per cent of the cost of labor and materials.

WOMAN GOVERNOR OF TEXAS SAYS SHE'S TIRED OF POLITICS

Austin, Tex., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, the only woman to serve Texas as governor, has decided she is tired of politics. In a formal statement today, she said she would not again aspire to the office.

Her husband, former Governor James E. Ferguson, did not say what he would do. There had been talk that he might run for the United States senate, against Tom Connally.

Ferguson, who was impeached as governor, is eligible to get his name on the ballots as a candidate for the senate.

Mrs. Ferguson's term will expire in January, 1935. She has been a candidate for governor four times. She first was elected in 1924.

Cabaret Entertainer Dies After Fall from Building

Miss Mabel Gordon, 24 years old, a cabaret entertainer, died at the county hospital yesterday of injuries incurred Nov. 20 in a plunge from a seventh floor fire escape at 4108 Kenmore avenue, where she lived. According to her roommate, Miss Betty Kaufman, the entertainer had been despondent over lack of work.

Boy Mistakes Poison for Bottle Full of Candy

Coldwater, Mich., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Henry, son of Paul Sieland, Tekonsha, near here, picked up what he thought was a bottle of "candy" in an alley while en route to first grade school class today. Henry was generous. He gave some to his classmates, Junior Cummins, Howard Granger, Duane St. Clair, and Russell Schroll. Their teacher, Miss Catherine Garrett, found the bottle was labeled bichloride of mercury. Her timely action, according to Dr. R. E. Plune, will save the youngsters' lives.

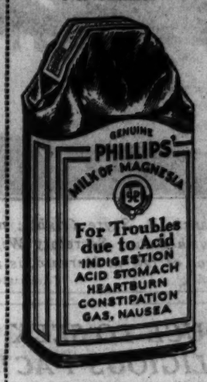
How to Find Out If You Have Acid Stomach

And Quick, Easy Way to Correct It

The Signs of Acid Stomach

Nervousness	Neuralgia	Indigestion
Auto-intoxication		Nausea
Frequent Headaches		Sleeplessness
Feeling of Weakness		Mouth Acidity
Loss of Appetite		Sour Stomach



WHAT TO DO FOR IT

TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed.

OR—Take the new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets—one tablet for each teaspoonful as directed above.

Some 80% of the people of today have Acid Stomach, according to many authorities! This because so many foods, comprising the modern diet, are acid forming foods.

Headaches, stomach pains after eating, "gas," "upsets," "biliousness," are the usual indications. So you can easily tell if you have Acid Stomach.

You Can Quickly And Easily Correct It

But if you do have it, don't worry about it. Today it can be corrected in a very simple manner. Just do this. It will alkalize your acid soaked stomach almost immediately. You will feel like another person.

TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed. Or—you can take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets; one tablet for each teaspoonful of the liquid.

What This Does

That's all you do. But do it regularly. EVERY DAY.

This acts to neutralize the stomach acids that foster your "upset" stomach, that invite headaches and that feeling of lassitude and lost energy you feel.

Everywhere people are doing this—doctors advocating it. Try it. Results will amaze you. Your head will be clear. You'll forget you have a stomach.

BUT—be careful that you get REAL milk of magnesia when you buy; genuine PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia. See that the name "Phillips'" is stamped clearly on the label.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM

Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

DR. WYNEKOOP'S INDICTMENT TO BE ASKED TODAY

Prosecutor Will Rely on Five Witnesses.

An indictment charging Dr. Alice Wynekoop with the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta, will be sought before the grand jury this morning.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty last night designated five witnesses on whose testimony he will rely in an effort to show that the woman physician killed Rheta with the dual motive of collecting $12,000 insurance and relieving her son Earle of an unwanted wife.

The prosecutor was undecided whether to ask Earle's indictment also. Mother and son are in the county jail on murder warrants, Dr. Wynekoop as a principal and Earle as an accessory before the fact, a distinction which the prosecutor declares insignificant, since Illinois law holds principal and accomplices equally guilty in a murder case.

Predicts Quick Indictment.

So far as the mother alone is concerned, Mr. Dougherty indicated that her indictment would be a short and simple matter. He said he thought the grand jury session would take "no longer than five minutes."

The state's witnesses will be Police Capt. John Stege, Deputy Detective Chief William V. Blaul, Lieut. Thomas L. Duffy, Assistant State's Attorney John M. Long, and Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, director of the Criminal court behavior clinic.

His principal evidence, Dougherty said, will be the statement that Dr. Wynekoop gave in the presence of his five witnesses last Friday when she "confessed" killing Rheta with an accidental overdose of chloroform and firing a bullet into the lifeless body to simulate a slaying by a robber.

Ignores the Repudiation.

That Dr. Wynekoop has since repudiated her statement and now denies giving chloroform, using a gun, or knowing anything of the manner of Rheta's death, Dougherty regarded as insignificant. He said that she not only had signed the statement of her own free will, but had publicly attested its truth at the coroner's inquest in the presence of her lawyer.

And yet, having established the authenticity of the document, Dougherty admitted it will be his task to demolish the statement partially and attempt to show that there could have been no accidental asphyxiation, but that Rheta died of the bullet wound. He will lay stress on Dr. Wynekoop's admission during questioning that she paid for Rheta's insurance and was aware of her son's dissatisfaction with Rheta as a wife.

While Dougherty was preparing his case reports came from the jail infirmary that Dr. Wynekoop was ill. The doctor has long suffered from a heart ailment and is alleged by her attorney, Frank Tyrrell, to have been exhausted by 70 hours of questioning before her "confession."

Noting her weakness yesterday, Matron Mary Kennedy summoned one of the jail physicians, Dr. Francis W. McNamara, to her bed. After an examination Dr. McNamara gave this diagnosis:

"Her condition is worse than yesterday. Her blood pressure is very high. For a woman of 62 years it should be between 155 and 160. Today it is 220. Her pulse, too, is rapid, and she complains of congestions in the lungs and heart region.

Orders a Careful Watch.

"She has a bad bronchial cough, but so far is not running a temperature. She must be watched carefully and have her temperature taken every four hours. I have ordered a liquid diet of soup, milk, and such.

"I would not say her condition is alarming, but she requires careful attention. She has hardening of the arteries, which is a complication. Mentally she is calm and shows no signs of hysteria."

Last evening another jail physician, Dr. Constantine Theodore, examined Dr. Wynekoop and reported that she was resting comfortably and was able to take hot broth and toast. She had no fever and there was no cause for alarm over her condition at the time of his examination, Dr. Theodore said. Earlier reports that her temperature was 103 and that pneumonia had set in were denied by jail officials.

Trip to Peoria Postponed.

Stanley Young, nephew of former United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, and Earle Wynekoop's alibi witness for Nov. 21, the day of Rheta's death, was to have taken detectives to Peoria yesterday afternoon to prove that Earle filed a telegram to his mother from there at 3:47 p. m. on the fatal day, just seventeen minutes after the supposed time of the killing.

Young reported to the state's attorney's office from the Johnson home ready for the trip, but met so much delay in getting the police to start that the journey was postponed at his suggestion until this morning.

RED CROSS HELPS GIRL IN 1925; SHE OFFERS AID NOW

Miss Adella Shimansky, 22 years old, a telephone operator, visited the Red Cross roll call headquarters at 333 North Michigan avenue yesterday to offer her services as a volunteer in payment for help given her by the Red Cross eight years ago. She lives at 118 South Clinton street, Oak Park.

"If the Red Cross will examine its files they will find that they adopted me when I was left an orphan in the Murphysboro tornado of March 18, 1925, which claimed 600 lives. Had it not been for the Red Cross I would have had a hard time getting my education."

Adella was 14 years old, she said, when the tornado struck Murphysboro. Her father was killed and their home destroyed. The girl was taken under the wing of the Red Cross and a trust fund established which enabled her to pay her board and tuition during two years in high school. Later she obtained a job with the Oak Park telephone company and worked her way through the last two years of high school and through Xavier college.

"I am so thankful for the start which the Red Cross gave me that I want to do all I can to help the roll call drive," she said.

The Chicago chapter of the Red Cross is seeking 250,000 memberships to carry on its work. Mr. Nicholson urged Chicagoans to join today so that the quota membership may be reached by tomorrow, when the roll call closes.

Sues Film Company for Injury of Her Son

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—A suit demanding $50,250 for damages allegedly suffered by six year old Theodore Platt was filed against Fox Film corporation today by the boy's mother. It is asserted he was knocked off his scooter by other children used in filming a scene for a picture and was trampled and seriously hurt.

Mexican Police Kill Nine Agrarian Leaders at Rally

5 OF BROKERAGE FIRM INDICTED ON FRAUD CHARGES

Five members of the firm of Walter L. Joyce & Co., defunct brokerage concern, which formerly had offices at 39 South La Salle street, were indicted yesterday by the federal grand jury on charges of using the mails to defraud investors of $250,000. Bond of $5,000 each was set for the defendants by Federal Judge James H. Kilkerson.

The defendants are Walter L. Joyce, president; Julius J. Horvath, secretary and treasurer; William Dean, sales manager; and two salesmen, Hugo Wurlitzer and Raymond Jennings.

Assistant United States Attorney Warren Canaday and Post Office Inspector V. E. Albertis said the Joyce company had been operated as a legitimate concern until two years ago. At that time, Prosecutor Canaday said, the company was reorganized and Wurlitzer, Dean and Jennings joined the company. Then, according to Canaday, high pressure methods were introduced, and investors were induced to trade good securities for worthless stock.

VALLEE DIVORCE PLEA BEFORE JUDGE TAKEN UNDER ADVISEMENT

New York, Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Mrs. Fay Webb Vallee's motion to restrain Rudy Vallee from going to Mexico to institute divorce proceedings was taken under advisement today by Supreme Court Justice Isidor Wasservogel after a hearing during which opposing counsel was repeatedly advised to "stick to the subject."

Hyman Bushel, counsel for Vallee, at one point in the proceedings declared that if Vallee were restrained from getting a divorce outside this country he could get one "right here in New York. We have the evidence."

"We have such perfect confidence in our client," said Benjamin Hartsteing, counsel for Mrs. Vallee, "that if such a move is attempted we are prepared to fight it."

BEAUTY SHOP HUSBAND ASKS FOR ALIMONY

Ralph Love, 4842 North Hoyne avenue, partner with his wife, Jennie, in the Madame Love Parisian Beauty Shops, Inc., of New York and Chicago, yesterday appeared before Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort and asked that his wife be directed to pay him $100 a month temporary alimony. His petition, filed by Attorney Norman Becker, is based upon a new Illinois statute which permits husbands to collect alimony.

"This man once owned a prosperous string of beauty shops," said Attorney Becker, "but his wife has gained control of all the paying shops while he has kept the poor ones. He needs the temporary alimony until the court passes upon the cross bills for divorce this couple has filed against each other.

"I don't like the idea of having wives pay alimony to husbands, but in this case, where the wife has all the income, it might be equitable," replied Judge Desort. "I'll rule on this case next Friday."

ACTS TO COLLECT HIS $6,439 LAWYER FEE FROM OLD DOC TILTON

Davenport, Ia., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Irwin Walker, Chicago attorney, moved today to collect a $6,439 judgment for attorney fees against Lester [Old Doc] Tilton of Clinton through the federal district court here.

A transcript from the city court of Calumet City in Cook county, Ill., was filed her by Davenport attorneys who declare that they propose to attach property belonging to Tilton.

Tilton was filed $1,000 yesterday by Federal Judge Charles A. Dewey in Des Moines, on a conviction in the court here for violation of the pure food and drug laws in the use of ointments and other preparations of his own in the treatment of various ills, including cancer.

SEPARATED BY LAW, MAN MEETS WIFE ON FERRY

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Husband and wife, yet separated by the law, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hampshire ride the ferryboat Agoming between the American and Canadian Saults.

Nearly every night the ferry crew and the passengers see them—a young couple, sitting quietly, holding hands in a corner of the public cabin. They sit together thus for many trips each time they meet.

Young Hampshire boards the boat first, on the American side; he is an American citizen. Mrs. Hampshire, who is a Canadian, meets him at the end of the passage and they cross, back and forth, until the ferry's last trip at night.

The husband was deported from Canada to the United States. The wife, who is not an American citizen, is barred from the United States.

So they meet on the ferry and hold hands—that is within the law.

Lorraine Manville Gould Wins Nevada Divorce

Reno, Nev., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Lorraine Manville Gould, New York heiress, motored to Fallon, Nev., from Reno today and was divorced there from Clarence F. Gould, former stage comedian. Mrs. Gould was identified by her attorney, H. R. Cooke, as heiress to the fortune of the late Thomas Manville, asbestos manufacturer. Only court attaches and attorneys were aware she had been divorced until several hours after the decree was granted.

3,000 Police Reviewed in Annual Inspection

Deputy Police Commissioner John H. Alcock yesterday reviewed approximately 3,000 city policemen in Grant park at the foot of Monroe street in the first of the annual winter inspections of uniforms and side arms. The men, uniforms, and arms were in fine shape, according to Mr. Alcock. The remainder of the force will be inspected, he said, probably early next week.

KNEE-ACTION WHEELS

jar and bump and bounce abolished

MARKING its 25th Anniversary, General Motors pioneers another great advance in motoring comfort—the abolition of jar and bump and bounce.

After more than two years of engineering research and after thousands of miles of testing on the Proving Ground, a radically new method has been worked out for joining the front wheels of the automobile to the chassis. The effect is to make it possible for each wheel to step over a bump or a hole so that the wheel instead of the passenger takes the jar. We have called this "giving the car Knee-Action Wheels."

This is no minor improvement over the cars of 1933, but a revolutionary change in automobile design, worthy to rank with the introduction of the self-starter by Cadillac in 1912, the adoption of Four-Wheel Brakes by Buick in 1924, and the abolition of drafts by Fisher in 1933. Go as soon as you can and drive a 1934 Chevrolet, Oldsmobile, Pontiac, Buick, La Salle or Cadillac.

To attempt to describe the difference in comfort, especially on the back seat, is impossible. Steering is effortless; safety is much enhanced; the life of the car lengthened. Just the right amount of ventilation reaches you through the controlled no-draft ventilation of Fisher; just the speed that suits you rolls silently beneath your wheels. The ups and downs are so nearly banished by the Knee-Action Wheels that your movement is not a ride—it's a glide.

HOW KNEE-ACTION WHEELS WORK

Your present car is stiff-legged. Stiff front springs are rigidly joined by an I-beam front axle. So when you hit a bump the front of the car bounces, the rear pitches, and you are jarred.

See how serenely a man meets a bump. One knee bends easily, lifting its leg. The other leg is not affected; equilibrium is undisturbed. The knee, not the body, takes the jar.

Now, 1934 — no more I-beam axle, no stiff springs. The wheel, flexibly mounted on its own soft spring, rises and falls like a knee to soak up the shocks, while the car glides on.

GERMAN CHURCH OUSTS MILITANT HITLERITE BISHOP

Forced to Quit Governing Body of Protestants.

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The militant leader of the Nazi German Christians and a colleague resigned under pressure from the German church cabinet, the governing body of Protestant groups.

The two, Bishop Joachim Hossenfelder and Dr. Friedrich Werner, the cabinet's legal counselor, took the broad hint of the minister of the interior that their aggressive policy of dragging politics into the church and tolerating "flagrant heretics" threatened to wreck the Evangelical church.

Both have been accused of ousting Jews from Protestant church offices, condoning the recommendations of some Hitlerite German Christians that the Old Testament be eliminated and the new revised, and of creating Nazi controlled authority.

Bishop Under Fire.

Bishop Hossenfelder particularly had been under fire for weeks as the Nazi churchmen and their more conservative opponents engaged in an increasingly heated controversy over Semitism, leadership, and suspension of dissident pastors, and suggesting scriptural and dogma changes.

Simultaneously the announcement was made of the indefinite postponement from Dec. 3 of the consecration of Dr. Ludwig Mueller as reichsbishop. He also has been attacked by conservative churchmen, but it was thought he had no part in Bishop Hossenfelder's resignation, for he considers himself bound by close ties of friendship and politics to the Nazi leaders.

There was much specultaion in Protestant circles whether Hossenfelder would accept the situation or whether German Christians in north Germany and Thuringia would now secede—after threats of doing so—and form a religious body of their own.

Mueller to Fill Vacancies.

Dr. Mueller was said to be inclined to fill the vacancies in his cabinet by the appointment of Bishop Hans Meiser of Bavaria to replace Bishop Simon Schoeffel of Hamburg, the Rev. Carl Koca of Westphalia to supplant Hossenfelder, and Dr. Herbert Conrad to the reich's ministry of the interior in place of Werner.

Bishop Schoeffel was recently forced to resign by Dr. Hossenfelder.

These suggested cabinet members are known as "positive Christians"—those who fully endorse the holy writ in its entirety.

The choice of the three men would be acceptable to the faction of former Reichsbishop Friedrich von Bodelschwingh, leader of the opposition to Hossenfelder, who insisted, however, that Bishop Mueller's whole cabinet be called an emergency ministry, with Dr. Mueller as the provisional bishop.

The Von Bodelschwingh section now challenges the legality of the Bavarian senate of Sept. 27 at which Dr. Mueller's name was advanced as reichsbishop, and insists upon the convocation of a new senate comprising delegates all of whom have previously pledged themselves to accept the Bible as the sole foundation of the church.

Bishop's Defeat Visioned.

Whether such a senate would again elect Mueller as bishop was considered exceedingly doubtful, since many circles believed Mueller compromised himself by a too close friendship with Hossenfelder.

Until recently the Evangelical church council included Bishop Schoeffel, Dr. Heinrich Weber of Muenster, representing the reformed church members; Dr. Hossenfelder, Dr. Werner, and Bishop Mueller.

It was pointed out that Bodelschwingh and his followers did not oppose the Nazi political administration, but challenged the negation of freedom of conscience in the questions of religion, morality, and law.

The belief was expressed that the reich's government realized that the opposition group represented the real churchgoers and the real believers in the Christian religion.

Nevertheless the observers continue to ask the question, shall Chancellor Hitler become the apostle of Christianity in Protestant Germany? And is the Bible to be cut in half and only the New Testament made available to the German Christians?

A perusal of Nazi literature demonstrates that the Hitlerite theologians are by no means agreed on what the religion of the third reich is to be.

Calls Hitler Nation's Savior.

Pastor von Stein, speaking at a field service of Nazi peasants Oct. 1 at Quedlinburg, said:

"Germany was dying a death of hopelessness. Then God took pity. He called a savior into action. That savior's name is Adolf Hitler."

Church Councilor Richard Leutheusser of Saalfeld in a speech delivered Aug. 31, formulated the relationship between Jesus, Hitler, and the German Christians as follows:

"Christ has come to us through Adolf Hitler. He was the decisive personality when a whole people was ready to go under. Through Hitler's energy, his honesty, his faith and his idealism the Savior found his way to us. Every happening is of twofold nature: Internal and external. Today we feel it; the Savior has come to us.

A number of death notices are on record, in which the relatives of a deceased person asserted that the departed died "in the faith in Adolf Hitler."

Declares Christ Is Only Leader.

On the other hand, Dr. Adalbert Faulsen, on being appointed bishop of the Lutheran Church of Schleswig-Holstein, stated as a Nazi German Christian that "the gospel of Jesus Christ will continue to constitute the only foundation upon which the church rests."

And Reichsbishop Mueller, on taking office said at Wittenberg:

"In the new, united, German Evangelical church one and one alone shall lead: Jesus Christ."

The question of whether or not the Old Testament, being of exclusively Jewish origin, shall continue to be recognized as a part of holy writ is causing much debate in German Christian circles.

International attention was focused upon the province of Schleswig when the Nazi governor ordered the story of Abraham sacrificing Isaac to be taken out of the school curriculum because the view there taken of God is un-German. On the vigorous protest of various denominations, especially the Catholic, the order was rescinded on the grounds that it was not up to a secular governor to rule in matters ecclesiastical.

Assails Old Testament.

A more radical proposal than either of these comes from another Nazi German Christian, Herr Pichottka, divisional leader of the Nazi church movement. Speaking at Potsdam on Oct. 14, Pichottka said:

"The Jewish and the Germanic conceptions of God are sharply at variance. The Old Testament advocates a flatly utilitarian philosophy which has nothing in common with the highly moral conception of Germanism.

"Instead of the stories of the patriarchs, which, after all, are merely the folk lore of a people bent upon profit and business, the German fairy tales and sagas must be brought home to the German youth. From them deep religious thoughts may be drawn.

"Luther was unable to complete his work of freeing the Germanic spirit from the fetters of a Jewish-Roman church. It is the task of our generation to complete this great work."

The most radical proposals of all were those made by Dr. Reinhold Krause, leader of the Berlin German Christians, who on Nov. 13 declared the Old Testament must be eliminated altogether, the New Testament should be abridged, and Ghetto churches must be established for non-Aryan Christians. His suggestions were promptly denounced as heresies by Bishop Mueller, however, and Krause was removed from office.

The German Christian who departs this life can have his choice of a special German compartment in heaven or a valhalla, depending upon which of two interpretations of Nazi Christianity, both offered by accredited members of the Hitler party, he accepts.

Bishop Beye of Brunswick, speaking at the funeral exercises conducted under the auspices of the state of Brunswick for Albert Rose, a Nazi, promised a valhalla for members of his party.

"We who knew Albert Rose," he said, "know as National Socialists and as German Christians: There is a valhalla for the deceased of the third reich. If there were no such Valhalla, then death after years of contest would have no meaning."

Speaks of German Heaven.

Councilor Leutheusser, speaking at a convention of the Thuringian German Christians, declared:

"Heaven in recent years was represented as a sort of pan-Europa. Jesus, however, says, 'In my Father's house there are many mansions.' He has one for us Germans, too. The German heaven is part of a big heaven in which other peoples may also have their homes."

GERMANY FIRES LAW PROFESSOR; A MEMBER OF THE WORLD COURT

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

KIEL, Nov. 28.—Dr. Walther Schuecking, director of the institute for international law of the University of Kiel, German member of the world court and former member of the rechstag, was curtly dismissed today on the ground that his previous political activity did not guarantee his wholehearted enthusiasm for the national socialist state.

The main offense of Dr. Schuecking apparently is that he was a member of the German peace delegation at the Versailles conference.

Others of his activities regarded by the Nazis with suspicion are his acting as a corresponding member of the American Institute for International Law, as chairman of the League for International Understanding, and as deputy chairman of the League of Nations union. He has likewise written a number of books advocating organization of peace through law.

With him also was dismissed Dr. Otto Opet, another law professor, specializing in questions affecting inheritance, the family and the position of women.

NAZIS TAKE OVER NEWS AGENCY OF NEWSPAPER KING

Merge It with Official German Bureau.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—The Telegrafen Union, the news service of Germany's newspaper king and ardent monarchist, Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, was amalgamated today with the official Wolff service. It is believed this is the first step toward the elimination of Hugenberg's press from its position of influence.

The editor of Chancellor Hitler's Voelkische Beobachter, Maj. Wilhelm Weiss, was appointed managing director of the news service, strengthening the Nazi control of news distribution.

Publish Same Reports.

For months the Wolff and Telegrafen Union bureaus published the same reports as the government controlled radio without even trying to change the phrasing of the messages. German newspapers carried the spirit of uniformity so far that in a number of cases they failed to alter the tense used in the reports issued from official quarters, even if the official versions were predictions and the events had taken place by the time the newspapers appeared on the streets.

Police today confiscated the property of Theodor Wolff, for many years editor of the Berliner Tageblatt, because he was a Jew. Wolff fled to Switzerland shortly after the Nazi revolution. The police described him as an "enemy of the state."

Ten alleged communists were sentenced to death in a Dessau court today for killing a storm trooper in Hecklingen last February. The prosecutor demanded the death penalty for the eleventh, but the court imposed a six months' sentence. Only two of the sentenced men were found guilty of the shooting. The others were condemned to death because of an alleged "intention to kill," which they deny.

Kurt Gerber, a laborer, was beheaded at Breslau today for killing Walter Doktoe, a storm trooper, on Oct. 25.

Series of New "Crimes" Bared.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

FRANKFURT-ON-MAIN, Germany, Nov. 28.—What one has to do to get into a concentration camp in Germany is explained to its readers by the Frankfurter Volksblatt, local Nazi newspaper.

Analyzing a score of recent cases of individuals interned at the Osthofen camp, the Volksblatt draws up a list revealing an unsuspected series of new crimes. Here they are:

Six inhabitants of the township of Alsfeld were arrested for "exhibiting an anti-national state of mind."

Two others were seized for "having declared in the course of a trip that they would like to go to Russia, where working conditions are more favorable than in Germany."

Professor Is Seized.

An unrevealed number of persons were interned for having distributed communist leaflets near a labor camp at Homberg and for "having invited their comrades to follow them to Russia in order to see better days."

One professor from the University of Giessen was arrested for "having referred slightingly to a storm troop reserve corps in a letter to a colleague."

A Jewish lawyer was nabbed for "having approached in an immoral fashion a Christian girl."

Two Jewish merchants were taken in custody for "having manifested an attitude which led the population to take action against them."

Robbers Fail to Open Safe in Indiana Bank

Sullivan, Ind., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Robbers failed today in an attempt to open the safe of the State bank at Fairbanks, in the west part of Sullivan county.

HITLER TO DISSOLVE LABOR UNIONS; CALLED ORGANS OF MARXISM

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—The Nazi government moved today for dissolution of the German labor unions which a year ago had 7,000,000 members and property worth hundreds of millions of marks. The unions, which were seized by the Nazis on May 2, were the strongest and richest in the world. Their secretaries occupied key positions in the government and ruled Germany from the Socialist revolution in 1918 to the Nazi revolution in 1933. The unions are to be liquidated and dissolved as organs of that "Marxist class warfare."

They will be replaced by two parallel organizations which will embrace all workers with "fist and brow," employers and employés, in a united German Aryan and Nordic community under the motto "common interest before self-interest."

One of these organizations is the German Labor Front, which all good Germans are urged to join. It will conduct Nazi propaganda. The other organization, which will regulate all "material questions" such as wages and working conditions, will consist of "estates" which are to form the "state of estates." Each estate will represent an industry, trade or profession, and its working organization will be a chamber in which will be represented employers, manual laborers and office employés.

SALESMAN ENDS LIFE OF 'FAILURE' WITH SHOTGUN

Ernest Rowles, 38 years old, salesman for a coal company and son of E. W. A. Rowles, head of the school furnishing company bearing that name at 2500 Prairie avenue, sat yesterday in a room in the Congress hotel writing a note in which he said: "I am just another failure. I have unpaid bills amounting to $3,000. I am tired of life and of being a week-end husband." Then he fired a shotgun into his body, dying a few minutes later at St. Luke's hospital.

For several months Rowles had lived with his wife, Vivian, and 10 year old daughter, Ann, in his parents' home on 93d street in Palos Park.

Police found two notes, one addressed to his wife, and the other to an undertaker. In the first, after calling himself "a failure," he added that he had tried to purchase a pistol with which to end his life, but that he had been able to buy only a shotgun. In the second note, that to his wife, he wrote: "Forget about everything and try to be happy. Don't let Ann grow up to think that the almighty dollar is god."

BUTCHER DIES OF RABBIT FEVER; DAUGHTER IS ILL

Joseph Sindelor, 49 years old, owner of a butcher shop at 5344 South Richmond avenue, died at the Holy Cross hospital yesterday, a victim of tuleremia, or rabbit fever. His daughter, Beatrice, 21 years old, who also is stricken with the fever, is under the care of a physician at her home. She is expected to recover. Both father and daughter were stricken two weeks ago, one day after they had cleaned a number of rabbits preparatory to their sale in the shop. Both Sindelor and his daughter pricked their hands with sharp edges of the rabbit bones during the cleaning process.

RAILWAY WORKER KILLED.

John Mackel, 55 years old, 14549 Harvey avenue, Harvey, a car inspector for the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad, was crushed to death yesterday by a freight car in the yards at 147th street in Dolton.

HITLER REQUESTS GUARANTEE OF AN ARMY OF 300,000

Hands France Terms for Return to Parley.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—THE TRIBUNE learns from well informed circles that negotiations for an understanding between France and Germany on the question of disarmament are progressing.

Chancellor Hitler in his recent conversation with Andre Francois-Poncet, French ambassador to Germany, said that Germany is willing to return to the conference table if it is guaranteed an army of 300,000 men, 200 airplanes, six inch guns, a few tanks and a few fortifications on the eastern border. Germany is ready to internationalize transport airplanes, provided bombing planes are abolished by all armies.

[The German reichswehr [regular army] now has 100,000 men. In addition Germany has millions of unarmed men in unofficial semi-military organization which France wishes to classify as "troops." This Germany refuses to do.]

The main discussion centers on the length of the transition period to be granted Germany to transform the reichswehr from a long term to a short term army.

France Ready For Direct Talks.

PARIS, Nov. 28.—(AP)—France is ready for arms talks directly with Chancellor Hitler of Germany through ambassadors, foreign office officials indicated today, but all decisions, they think, must be made in consultation with others of the war time allies.

Premier Mussolini's pressure to utilize the four power peace pact signed by France, Germany, Italy, and Great Britain, and the British disposition to mediate, it was said, tend toward direct negotiations because France is anxious to avoid little group meetings where it would be urged to sign on the dotted line.

"We are willing," the foreign officials said, "to talk direct, through Rome or at Geneva in an effort to prevent an armament race. But direct negotiations or conversations through the good offices of Mussolini must wind up in Geneva. It is not within the province of France alone to tear up the treaty of Versailles or to definitely settle disarmament terms."

Asks Hitler to Submit Aims.

Joseph Paul-Boncour, French foreign minister, recently invited Hitler in a speech in the chamber of deputies to set forth what he wants by diplomatic channels.

French opinion, as expressed by the press, is very cool to Hitler's bid for face-to-face talks with France. There were a few who counseled acceptance of the chancellor's offer, but most of these, the press reports, have been chilled by subsequent publication here of a document allegedly issued from Berlin to German diplomatic representatives abroad as a guide for propaganda purposes.

This document, as published, said the one objective of German diplomacy was to separate France from its allies and try to alienate England and France, for the "irreconcilable adversary of Germany, of democratic Germany as well as National-Socialist Germany, is France."

Seeks Revision of Treaty.

The memorandum, according to the newspaper which printed it, informed German agents that the central foreign policy was revision of the Versailles treaty by negotiation, but nothing should be neglected "in view of the possibility that Germany might be forced to employ another method to gain its right."

Paul-Boncour, however, his intimates said, remains open to any suggestion calculated to bring an end to the present fears of an armament race as a result of Germany's withdrawal from the disarmament conference and from the league.

Recent attempts by Poland and Germany to iron out their difficulties were seized upon by French Nationalists as evidence that Germany was executing the policy set forth in the purported propaganda memorandum.

MUSIC
is a natural outlet for your children's energies!

PRACTICALLY all children have a natural desire to express themselves musically. Wise parents recognize this tendency in their children and provide instruments that will help develop it fully.

If your children show a desire to play a musical instrument, provide them with the one that seems best suited to their temperament.

Buy the best instrument you can afford. Buying a good instrument does not mean buying an expensive one. Well-made used instruments in good condition are often as suitable for the beginner.

The market for good used instruments in Chicago is the Musical Instruments column in the Tribune Want Ad Section. In this column are offered pianos, stringed instruments, brasses, wood-winds, and special instruments such as piano accordions. Read the offers in this column.

SEES RUSSIANS UNABLE TO PAY CASH FOR 5 YEARS

Seek Long Term Credits for Purchases.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ABOARD S. S. CONTE DI SAVOIA, Nov. 28.—In spite of the denial by Maxim Litvinov, soviet Russian foreign commissar and other Russian representatives that the soviets were seeking long term credits on their recent visit to the United States and their assertion that Russia would soon be purchasing on a cash basis, I am in a position to state positively that Russia is at the present moment seeking credits on large orders of from eighteen months to two years.

One of these orders is for 38,000,000 worth of pipes and casings for oil wells and has been offered to an international cartel in which American manufacturers participate. The American share would be between two and three million dollars. The soviets are demanding eighteen months' credit "straight," which means that no initial payment will be made and that no money at all shall be paid until the end of the eighteen months.

U. S. Firms Hesitate.

The European members of the cartel have accepted the terms in principle, but the American members, chief of whom are the United States Steel corporation and another Pittsburgh firm, are hesitating on the question of credit.

Persons in close touch with soviet finance tell me that all Russia's available cash for two or three years is pledged to Germany for goods supplied. Last February large credits in Germany fell due and were met by borrowing from Germany. The amount borrowed was 140,000,000 marks, of which 60,000,000 marks were blocked and could be used only inside Germany. They were given as a concession at 35 per cent below the market exchange price.

The Russians used 15,000,000 marks at once and the rest remained in Germany to meet obligations falling due in 1933, 1934, and 1935. In return, the Russians have pledged their entire oil export for the latter two years as additional security to meet their obligations for those years.

Seek Further Concessions.

At the present moment, I am informed, Russian agents are sounding the Germans about further concessions and assistance for payments due in 1934. This simply means another loan and the figure is put at 700 million marks.

It has been hinted in Washington that the Russians will be unable to pay any cash for American goods in 1934 and 1935 and that there is no reason to hope for better American trade with Russia unless a loan can be floated for at least five years at a reasonable interest rate. Such a loan, of course, would require the consent of congress and the Russians were told that such consent was extremely unlikely. In fact, they were told that President Roosevelt had strained his power over congress when he appointed an ambassador to Russia without first asking for an appropriation to pay and maintain him and his staff.

The actual Russian trade position is shown by the following table extracted from Russian official reports. The figures are in gold rubles, worth 50 cents each, and show a heavy deficit in Russian foreign trade over the last thirteen years.

"Soviet Russian trade [in rubles, at prices of 1913].

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Nov. 28.—China's chaotic internal affairs became more confusing and unpredictable today, when the China Forum, organ of the Chinese communist party, repudiated the 19th route army's so-called People's republic in Fukien province. The China Forum said the Fukien movement is nothing more than a Socialistic counter-revolutionary effort designed to protect landlords against property confiscation.

A communist spokesman admitted that while a tacit nonaggression agreement exists between the Fukien rebel government and the neighboring soviet government in Kiangsi province, the aims of the two groups are diametrically opposed. He warned that if the Japanese intervene in Fukien province, as they have threatened to do, they will expel American and British interests and set up a base in south China for the creation of another Manchukuo.

Nelson T. Johnson, American minister to China, who has been investigating the south China situation, left Hong Kong for Shanghai today. A Japanese military bulletin issued at Tientsin charged that Johnson is taking advantage of the recent Russo-American rapprochement to prevent further activities by Japan in the far east.

DEMANDS BRITAIN FIND NEW HOME FOR ASSYRIANS

Archbishop Battles for Tribesmen.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The archbishop of Canterbury tonight raised the question of what Christian England should do about the Assyrian tribesmen who are among the oldest converted people on the earth.

Viscount Hailsham, minister of war, in a reply said that he intends to help just as much as other members of the league of nations.

Several hundred Assyrians were massacred recently by Iraq troops on the Syrian border. Since the termination of the British mandate over Iraq, the Assyrians have formed a minority people under the direct jurisdiction of the league of nations and the case is at present under consideration at Geneva.

Archbishop Denounces Massacre.

The archbishop asserted that the case of the Assyrians is one involving British honor and that the tribesmen have always enjoyed protection from all holders of the archbishop's office. He bitterly denounced the recent massacre.

"I have seen accounts from persons who were present," the archbishop said, "and I have heard it was more shocking than anything that occurred during the war. I have read a letter from an independent and trustworthy person by no means friendly to the Assyrians in which he said that such an exhibition of savage fanaticism is probably seldom seen."

He demanded that a new place of settlement be found for the Assyrians and he asked the British government to advance whatever money is necessary.

Saved from Annihilation.

Viscount Hailsham asserted that the Assyrians, who were living in the Ottoman empire at the outbreak of the war entered into hostilities at the instance of Russia. Since then, he declared, Britain has saved them from annihilation at great expense, but that the government had never agreed to be responsible for them after the Iraq mandate expired and Iraq was admitted to the league.

The minister of war asserted that in the recent disturbances the Assyrians attacked first and that had they been successful a war would have resulted. Both sides were equally to blame, he said, adding that Britain is willing to contribute toward the resettlement of the tribe but will not accept individual responsibility.

Mar Shimun XXI, youthful hereditary patriarch of the Assyrians, is now in London as the guest of the Rev. Canon John Douglas.

LINDBERGHS PLAN TO HOP TODAY ON MYSTERY FLIGHT

PORTO PRAIA, Cape Verde Islands, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh revealed tonight that they expect to take off early tomorrow morning from Porto Praia. They did not disclose their destination. Porto Praia is regarded by airmen as the best hopping off place on trans-Atlantic flights to South America.

Drops Plan for Senegal Hop.

DAKAR, Senegal, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh tonight abandoned a plan to fly from Porto Praia, Cape Verde islands, to Dakar, but he did not disclose his next destination. In a wireless message to authorities here he thanked officials for making preparations for his arrival and accepted their suggestion to avoid Dakar because of the presence of yellow fever.

He did not indicate whether he planned to fly to St. Louis, Senegal, farther up the coast, as medical authorities had suggested.

Austria Expresses Regret Over Shooting of German

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—The Austrian minister today called on Baron Konstantin von Neurath, foreign minister, to express his regrets at the killing of a German soldier by Austrian border guards last week. It was also learned that Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss of Austria has expressed regrets to the German minister at Vienna and promised to punish the guards after a complete investigation of the shooting.

3 PLANES NEARLY EQUAL RECORD, CHICAGO-NEWARK

New York, Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Strong west tailwinds enabled three New York bound United Air Lines passenger planes to make the fight from Chicago to Newark airport today within a few minutes of the record time for racing planes.

The first to arrive made the trip in 3 hours 17 minutes. It was piloted from Cleveland by W. F. Spencer. Tommy Thompson flew the distance in 3 hours 19 minutes, and Paul Reeder in 3 hours 18 minutes.

James Haizlip established a time of 3 hours 15 minutes for the 736 mile flight two years ago. The three planes, averaging about 213 miles an hour, or 165 miles cruising, together carried 25 passengers, as well as mail and express. Spencer's plane made the trip from San Francisco in less than 18½ hours.

JURY HEARS SON OF CLARK WIDOW TELL OF KILLING

Woodbury, N. J., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Nervous, but apparently sensing the seriousness of the situation, six year old Sheldon A. Clark III. told the Gloucester county grand jury today of the slaying of his father, which he witnessed and with which his mother is charged.

Without being questioned he related what he saw the night of Nov. 20 in the billiard room of his father's mansion in Paulsboro when Sheldon A. Clark Jr. was shot after he is alleged to have broken a billiard cue on his wife's head.

Meanwhile Mrs. Audrey Adaire Clark, former actress, still in a hospital where she was taken with a severe head injury after the slaying, said she hoped she will have a "speedy trial."

"I don't want this shadow hanging over me," she said. "It will be a relief when it's all over, no matter how it ends."

Clark, who was 34, was the son of Sheldon Clark of Chicago, senior vice president of the Sinclair Refining company. The Clark family has assured Mrs. Clark's attorney of coöperation in the case.

In addition to the boy twelve other witnesses were heard.

MESSENGER ROBBED OF $903.

William Schwemsberger, 3804 North Damen avenue, a messenger, was robbed of $903 yesterday by two armed men as he was entering the offices of the Rindsberger Manufacturing company, 18 East 24th street, by whom he is employed.

Furniture Companies Ask Writ to Restrain Strikers

Twelve large furniture companies yesterday filed a petition for an injunction to restrain members of the Upholsterers International Union of North America from interfering with operation of factories owned by the twelve concerns. The petition was filed in the Superior court by Attorney Louis Jacobson. The petition asserted that 1,200 men of local No. 18, and 300 women of local No. 113 of the upholsterers' union, had been on strike here since Sept. 25.

"Chicago about 1833"—reproduced by permission from a full color drawing by Walter H. Conley

Chicago Refuses to STAY DOWN

1833 "I wouldn't give six pence an acre for the whole of it."
—Major Stephen H. Long (surveyor of the Illinois-Michigan Canal route in 1823), referring to the present Chicago Loop district

1841 "As regards Chicago, everything has changed mightily since you left. Property has depreciated monstrously. It often happens that property which sold for hundreds, even thousands, is not now worth even ten dollars. Those too who were the richest when you left are of the poorest now."
—Wm. B. Ogden (first mayor of Chicago), in a letter dated Jan. 25, 1841; original in the Chicago Historical Society Collection

1857 "The effects [of the panic of 1857] on the real estate market were fearful. The depreciation of prices in corner lots was great in the winter of 1857, but it was much greater in 1858 and 1859, as payments matured which could not be met. They (property owners) found that they could not sell even at a ruinous sacrifice. Great numbers of workers left the city for want of employment."
—Colbert & Chamberlain "Chicago and the Great Conflagration"

1876 "In the entire history of land dealing, there has not been a reverse which has lasted so long or caused such depression as the one under which the market has labored for years—years strewn with the wrecks of fortunes and the destruction of hopes."
—Real Estate and Building Journal, December 30, 1876

1896 "It is an evident proposition that the real estate market is at a standstill."
—from The Chicago Tribune, Oct. 11, 1896

1933 This Company offers no predictions for the future, but it firmly believes that the past record of Chicago real estate merits special study at this time. This record is the answer to the pessimism that prevailed in such years as 1841, 1857, 1876, 1896—and 1933. In it there is courage and inspiration for real estate ownership. It proves that panics, wars and fires have not been able to stop the city's growth. It shows that after every depression Chicago's aggregate land value has recovered and gone ahead.

This is No. 12 of a series interpreting the basic facts about Chicago land values. The series have now been reprinted in portfolio form and may be had on request.

INFLATION IS LARCENY.

Currency inflation is grand larceny on a national scale. Those who favor it do so because they want something for nothing. Their rhetoric cannot conceal their purpose from any one with half an eye open.

A man borrows the money to build an apartment house. The venture fails. He now wants inflation because it will permit him to keep the building while repudiating the major part of the debt. He does not want the building to belong to the man who paid for it.

Another man buys a farm on borrowed money. Perhaps he paid too much for it in the light of subsequent events. Perhaps he is not a good farmer. At any rate, he cannot meet his debt. He wants inflation because it will enable him to repudiate the major portion of his debt while keeping his farm away from the man who paid for it.

A government has lived beyond its means so long and so far that its credit is at the point of exhaustion. It has committed credit suicide. It wants inflation because that will relieve it of some of the burden of the debt and permit a continuance, for a time at least, of its extravagances. The motive is larcenous. The inflation is calculated to steal the money lent in good faith by those who had saved it and enable the politicians who do the spending to avoid the consequences of their folly.

Currency inflation remedies nothing and cures nothing in a country like ours in which there is an ample supply of currency for the transaction of business. It is true that there is a disparity today between raw material prices and the prices of finished goods, but a currency inflation would not remedy that situation but might well aggravate it.

In the first line of the victims will be all those who have any money saved and all those who are working for wages and salaries. Inflation steals the money of widows and orphans protected by insurance policies. It steals from savings bank accounts. It steals from the prudent investor, and the more conservative his investment the greater the theft. Inflation penalizes the man who has put aside money for sickness and old age. Those who are living on their savings will have to tighten their belts.

We have tried to squander our way back to prosperity. That failed. Next we may try to win back prosperity by means of the grand larceny called inflation. That also will fail and the failure will be disastrous in proportion to the extent of the inflation.

There is no law which requires any one at any time to borrow money. When money is borrowed it is with the definite understanding that it must be repaid, and if it is borrowed on mortgage it is with the definite understanding that whatever is pledged must be returned if the loan is not paid. The fact that the value of money rises and falls is well known to every one, borrowers and lenders alike. That is one of the risks of business which will only be aggravated if inflation is invoked whenever the shoe happens to pinch the borrower. The inevitable result will be a scarcity of money available for lending in the country which goes in for inflation, and that, in turn, must result in higher interest charges and more exacting terms for all future borrowers.

Where larceny is common, insurance rates rise. Wholesale thievery makes for wholesale poverty.

There are, of course, various types of inflation, some of them possibly beneficial. Currency inflation, achieved by paying the government's deficits with money printed for the purpose, is only ruinous. Every time it has been tried it has resulted disastrously for the nation which was victimized. Borrowers and lenders alike have generally been pauperized. As long as the threat of this kind of inflation hangs over the country there will be no substantial business recovery.

It is to be hoped that the inspired statements from unnamed officials in Washington that currency inflation is not to be attempted will be followed, without delay, by unequivocal declarations to the same effect by the responsible officials, under their own names. It has been the absence of such a clear statement of policy which accounts pretty largely for the business recession of recent months.

SECRETARY HULL'S MISSION.

The trip of Secretary Hull to South America is a commendable official enterprise and we are confident will result in improvement in our relations with our South American neighbors. They will find in the American emissary an authority in tariff relations as well as a negotiator whose representations are to be relied upon and whose friendly intent is genuine. The adjustments conducive to the benefit of our own and our neighbors' commercial interests are in some respects difficult, but they can be accomplished through the spirit of intelligent good will, of which Secretary Hull is a sincere exponent. We hope and believe he will be able to convey to the governments he visits a sense of the importance of mutually helpful economic relations for the present and future progress and prosperity of both Americas. It is not questionable that closer relations between them will open possibilities of mutual benefit which ought not to be foreclosed by misunderstanding and unfounded distrust.

The United States has a fund of financial and economic resources of which South America can avail itself with the greatest advantage. Mistakes have been committed in the past, but they can be corrected and should not be permitted to prevent the development of sound policies and mutually beneficial relations.

THE CALIFORNIA LYNCHING.

The California execution of justice on the murderers of Brooke Hart in San José must be looked upon with mixed feelings. The worst concomitants of American lynching were missing. Racial prejudices were not at the bottom of the mob fury. Primitive emotions were there, but they were aroused by the character of the crime and of the criminals. The governor had given a quasi sanction to what the mob was threatening to do. Opinion had outlawed the killers as completely as if that were still a legal process generally retained in the code.

This opinion was obviously based upon the conviction that there was no possibility that the administration of justice could fit the punishment to the crime and that proposes a thesis which cannot lightly be set aside. It need not be assumed that a jury could have acquitted the prisoners or even have allowed them to escape with their lives on trial, although juries often shirk their responsibility and courts often fail. Every week the evasiveness of juries allows criminals to escape the punishment which was their due and the punishment they dread most of all.

The juries do not stand up to their responsibilities. They yield to the weakest men in the box and succumb to a sentimental frailty which cannot be just because it has not the moral character to face a distasteful duty. It would be stretching the probabilities to assume that there was any conscious reckoning of American administration of justice in the minds of the Californians who wanted to execute it themselves upon two killers of extraordinary turpitude, but there is a feeling almost innate in American instincts that criminals will escape their just deserts. There is an apprehension of the shrewdness of attorneys, the weakness of juries, and the complexities of law.

The spasmodic determination of enraged men breaking into jail to fasten a noose about the neck of a prisoner is a poor substitute for the quieter determination of average citizens in a jury box to give the accused fully and justly what the evidence shows he deserves. Spineless men on the jury and enraged men on the curbstone give America two elements which may have a direct relation to each other. Weakness obstructs the law and fury outrages it.

RUSSO-AMERICAN REPRESENTATION.

Carveth Wells, traveler, author, and lecturer, does not share the evident complacency of Mr. Roosevelt toward the possibilities of communist mischief making through the establishment of diplomatic relations with the soviet government. "Russia," he told a Chicago audience last week, "will now send a swarm of consuls to be located in every considerable city in the country. They will form a nucleus of soviets and local communists. When the time comes for a general strike—and it will come—the communists will be all ready for it."

Mr. Wells has traveled much and recently in Russia and is informed at first hand of conditions and methods there. Any one who knows the activities of Russian communist emissaries in China and elsewhere will give weight to his warning. In the present state of our country citizens who do not favor the abandonment of the American system of free government will not welcome an influx of communist agents. We have more than enough admirers of communism, of men and women who have seceded from Americanism and are telling us on every occasion that democracy has failed. They do not represent the American people who have not discarded the principles which have directed and fostered the unique progress of the United States and who, we are confident, resent the selection of a radical and a friend of the communist tyranny at Moscow to represent them.

The appointment of Bullitt is justified on the theory that it is expedient to choose a representative who is persona grata, but the sophistry will deceive no one. It is not the practice nor is it wise to send to a foreign country a representative who prefers the institutions of that country to his own. Common sense will foresee that such a representative will not represent us, but rather the country he prefers. Americans also will seriously ask themselves whether the selection of such an emissary does not express a sympathy with the régime of communism which is manifest even in the domestic program of our present government. The inference is at least consistent with the utterances of several of the protagonists of the self-styled new deal.

The senate would do well to consider whether it ought to consent to an American representation at Moscow which is so enthusiastically welcomed by the bolshevik régime.

CHICAGO AND HER VISITORS.

[Beaumont, Tex., Enterprise.]

Opened under circumstances that caused some uneasiness to its sponsors, A Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago closes a success. If it is possible to maintain the greater part of the Exposition in a standby condition until next year and to renew a sufficient number of concession contracts, the decision to reopen the Fair will enable a good many people who were not able to visit Chicago this year to see an equally good show in 1934. The experiment is at least unique. And it may be tried with future expositions.

The Chicago Fair may hope to profit financially by reopening. If the 1933 standards are maintained in all departments, attendance next year should be large enough to justify a resumption of the Fair. It put a good deal of money into circulation, only a small part of which went directly to the Fair itself. Chicago was the greatest beneficiary, and in more ways than one.

Visitors to the Fair must have spent a good deal of money in Chicago for hotel accommodations, in stores and other places. But Chicago has benefited even more, perhaps, by proving that she is not as bad as she has been painted. Some timorous Americans actually thought it would be unsafe for them to visit the "loop" lest they be caught in a hail of gangster bullets.

Crooks and criminals were about, of course. They always flock to big expositions, but the alleged gangster peril of Chicago was found by more than 22,000,000 Fair visitors to be nonexistent, so far as they were concerned. Chicago is, in fact, less crime-ridden, in proportion to its population, than many smaller cities of the country.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WELL, OF COURSE, a lot of people when they sit down to their Thanksgiving turkey will carefully remember the words and will silently recall the courage of those who settled this country when it was a wilderness, of those who founded this nation, the steadfastness of those who in every succeeding generation have fought to keep pure the ideal of equality of opportunity and hold clear the goal of mutual help in time of prosperity or in time of adversity. They will be grateful for the passing of dark days; for the new spirit of dependence one on another; for the closer union of all parts of our wide land; for the greater friendship between employers and those who toil; for a clearer knowledge by all nations that we seek no conquest . . . and they'd keep right on being thankful as the proclamation directs, item by item, but some big hungry bozo at the end of the table is going to spoil everything by butting in with a voice that can be heard three blocks: "Hey, gimme the drumstick and a big slice o' tha white meat."

PARADISE ENOW.

Give me true friends, good books, both new and old,
An afternoon of talk, serene and long;
Then add an hour for dining, one for song,
And you may take all else. My bag of gold,
My silver plate—let these be freely doled
To those who lack the prize of loving friends.
True comradeship enjoys, proud wealth pretends;
Life's choicest treasures are not bought and sold.
Thus shall I go, untroubled, down the years:
If riches fail, my friends may heed my plea,
And if I reap a heritage of tears
Their words will calm my grief. If life should be
By Prosper blest, my days devoid of fears—
With loyal friends, earth will be heaven for me.

NO! And indeed a thousand times no! It is not true that pickets are walking around the Linebook office wearing large placards inscribed, "The Linebook Is Unfair to Organized Poets." Poets never organized for one thing. A real poet bounds free as air, leaping lightly from cliff to cliff on the heights of Parnassus. However, the denial of the rumor, while absolutely unnecessary, gives us the opportunity of calling attention to the fact that the Linebook bursts forth upon a somewhat bored and weary world a week from next Friday, thus, we hope, cheering up one and all considerably. And the price is 10 cents on the hoof, 18 cents by mail. Order early and often or forever hold your peace.

Now she loves you as you love me
As I love some one new;
Now such is life, and whathehell,
And what is one to do—?
But can't you see why stoplights

When I love him, and you love me,
While she keeps loving you?

NEW CLUBS are starting up so fast that it's hard to keep track of them. In the days of Theodore Roosevelt he founded two associations, the very famous Ananias Club and the Malefactors of Great Wealth, to which he consigned a great many famous people; at least they were famous after they got into one of the clubs. Franklin Delano, the second of the Roosevelt dynasty, has founded three, the "Forgotten Man Club," the "Chiselers" and the "American Tories." Al Smith has incorporated the Bologna Dollar and the Guinea Pig clubs. And there'll be more. There's a new one starting every day.

"NO SUCH THING as Unwritten Law in England."—Headline. Tut! Tut! But what about fried herring for breakfast? Try to get a breakfast in England without fried herring. And English coffee? It wouldn't seem possible that everybody in England would make such uniformly bad coffee if there hadn't been an act of parliament compelling them to. So it must be an unwritten law. And mutton at every meal. A visitor would be certain that every innkeeper and householder in England was commanded to serve mutton every meal or be arrested and sent to the Tower for life, but no such statute can be found. And what about tea at 4 o'clock every day? And writing a letter to the Times? And not speaking to any one unless properly introduced except in case of earthquake, avalanche, tidal wave or other act of God? What, no unwritten law in England? The place is full of 'em.

BLUEBEARD'S CLOSET.

I have a closet where dark things hide,
Worries, and hurts, and sneers.
All of my troubles I thrust inside
With the ghosts of my wasted years.

But often a word unlocks the door,
Or a note from a bygone strain
Will break the bolt, and out they pour
To wring my heart again.

Oh, for a lock that would hold them tight,
And a bolt that would not break!
Oh, for a dungeon deep as night
With bars no song could shake!

But there is no door—no bolt—no key—
Can ever lock the past from me.

OBESITY IN ART.

THE pictures of nudes and the underdressed in the Art institute exhibit show a preponderance of obese people. The ultramodern artists seem to like to paint women who are the subject of pituitary obesity.

In obesity due to this cause the distribution of fat around the body is very uneven. The legs, below the knees, are apt to be thin and shapeless. Fat on the lower back and abdomen is laid down in great overhanging rolls. If there is excess of fat on the legs it is in the region of the thighs and particularly the external and posterior aspects thereof.

The disproportion between the size of the body and of the legs, the arms, and the neck, the lack of symmetry and the violation of the lines proper for the human figure go to such extremes in some cases of pituitary obesity as to give the appearance of a deformity.

The great frequency with which this type of obesity is encountered in pictures by modern artists, using present day people, and the infrequency or absence of similar paintings and drawings in the pictures painted several hundred years ago raises a question as to what may be happening to the pituitary gland. Is there a world-wide degeneration in this highly important gland?

A similar comparison made between modern paintings and those made three to seven hundred years ago, a comparison based on evidence of thyroid disorder, raises a question as to whether the thyroid today is more nearly normal on the average than it was about six hundred years ago.

The pictures of persons painted several centuries ago not infrequently show obesity. But the distribution of fat shows that the obesity was of two types. Some were illustrations of thyroid obesity, and others of obesity due to high living, overeating, and lack of exercise.

The babies in the old pictures show the obesity caused by overfeeding. The figures of fat adults usually show obesity of the same type, though some show thyroid and gonad disorders. None, or few, painted in the early days show evidence of pituitary disorder.

SLEEPING IN DAY.

R. A. H. writes: I have worked nights for years and trust the following suggestions will help a brother in distress:

1. Small, soft rubber eardrum protectors inserted in the ears and worn during daylight sleep will cut down disturbing noises from 50 to 90 per cent. These protectors are the same as those worn by swimmers and can be purchased at drug stores. They should be lubricated with a small amount of cold cream, that they may slip into the ears easily. They should be washed each time before using. After a time they increase in size, but can be trimmed down with a pair of sharp scissors. A pair of protectors costs 25c cents; should last six months or longer. If there is too much air pressure on the eardrums upon inserting the protectors, partially remove same to relieve pressure and then reinsert them lightly.

2. A mask made of black satin and held in place over the eyes by means of a narrow, flat strip of elastic will aid wonderfully in simulating darkness. This mask should be made of some soft, close woven cloth, with the black satin sewed over it. It should be tailored so that there is not much cloth covering the nose, but sufficient material covering the eyes to exclude all daylight.

3. A number of other things will help, among them being dark curtains for the bedroom, a comfortable bed and pillow, sleeping in a back room away from the street, and the avoidance of constipation.

TOMATO JUICE.

B. R. writes: Is tomato juice given to a man about 80 years old beneficial or not? He takes two glasses daily, each glass containing 6 ounces. Do you advocate the use of tomato juice and, if so, kindly tell me the benefits derived?

REPLY.

Tomato juice is a fine source of vitamins and minerals. It is especially rich in vitamin C. It cans well. It is good for the old as well as for the young.

COLD FEET.

H. M. B. writes: I have trouble with my legs. They are always cold and especially at night when I go to bed I have a hard time getting them warm.

REPLY.

Wear flannel pajamas with foot attachments, or wear woolen stockings with ordinary night clothing. Very bad cases may require more radical treatment.

"HOME MADE WILL."

Chicago, Nov. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is the following will valid when written in the handwriting of the maker on a printed form purchased from a stationery store?

I, Elsie Smith, will and bequeath my stocks and bonds and all my money in my savings accounts, my household goods, to my brother, John Smith. To my sister, Betty Smith, I will my mutual life insurance policy.

JACK JONES [notary seal].

Witness: Kate Johnson.
Witness: Phil Brown.
John Smith."

2. Deceased's name does not appear at the bottom of the will where the notary fills in his name by mistake. Is the name of Elsie Smith in the body of the will sufficient for a signature? All spaces below on the will for signature are filled in. 3. How long can a sole legatee and sole executor of a will take to probate? 3. Can heirs force him to start proceedings of probate over his wishes? 4. If so, is this a big expense? 5. Would a judge, in your opinion, look upon this as a valid will? 6. Could a jury be called in case of intention or facts to be tried or proved? E. T.

1. If one of these forms is executed in accordance with the recital that precedes the space for the signatures of the witnesses, it will ordinarily be "valid," but this leaves open the possibility that the wording may be such as to fail to carry out the intention of the testator or the intention may have been unwise. If, for example, under the wording of your insurance policy the insurance is payable to a named beneficiary rather than to the estate of the insured, then the will would be inoperative as to the insurance. It is nearly always advisable to employ an attorney to pass upon the plan and to see that the will is properly executed.

2. The Illinois wills act requires that a will be "signed by the testator" . . . or by some person . . . by his . . . direction."

In Bamberger vs. Barbour, 335 Ill. 458, our Supreme court held that a will substantially like yours was not admissible to probate without oral evidence that the testator intended the name in the body of the instrument to be his signature. You may be able to make the necessary proof, but the irregularity invites litigation which may cost many times as much as an attorney would have charged to see that the job was done right in the first place.

3. No, in the sense that he can decline to serve. Yes, in the sense that if he declines, they can procure the appointment of an "administrator with the will annexed."

4. Only the usual expense.

5. It is an open question. See 2.

6. No, as to the Probate court proceedings. Yes, as to a possible will contest in the Circuit court.

1. Yes.
2. This would be usurious.
3. Yes. We suggest that you tell him that unless he gives you the receipt you will report the facts to the state's attorney for prosecution.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN.—Tariffs and customs duties which have been piled up between Great Britain and the Irish Free State have caused the development of smuggling on what appears to be a gigantic scale.

It is on the border separating northern Ireland from the Free State that this is most noticeable. In northern Ireland the tariffs set up by the Free State operate similarly as with Great Britain and vice versa.

Free State tariffs on boots and shoes and dress goods are very high and the goods of this description made in the Free State lack the smartness and finish of those imported. Consequently women in particular frequently pass over the border to Belfast to make their purchases of fashionable goods.

In bringing them home the most extraordinary devices are resorted to to avoid the customs officers. Sometimes they are brought in over roads not authorized for such traffic. Violators face heavy fines or even imprisonment.

In the opposite direction, to avoid the heavy British tariffs on Free State live stock, cattle owners often resort to novel expedients to get their cattle inside the northern border. Once accomplished, it is difficult to prove smuggling, as cattle are so much alike. The punishment in case of capture is forfeiture of the cattle and heavy fines or imprisonment. Because of the possibility of being jailed, owners of large herds of cattle often employ men to do the smuggling at a fee if the operation is successful. In case of failure the person who undertakes the job has to face the punishment.

Recently police inside the northern border seized 200 sheep for whom no owner could be found. These were forfeited to the British government.

Pigs are frequently put across the border at remote corners where police patrols cannot be always present.

A curious situation has arisen recently in connection with pigs. There is no tariff against pigs coming into the Free State from the north. In consequence of the northern government fixing too high a price for pigs in the north the northern pig buyers refused to buy there, but went to the Free State, where they bought cheaper.

The result of this was that northern farmers sent their pigs into the Free State markets, where they were bought by northern buyers and taken back to the north, where they counted as Free State exports. The result of this was that the quota of pigs which Britain had agreed to accept during October was filled mainly by northern pigs, while the Free State farmers, when the quota closed, had no market at all.

FROM A SMALL MERCHANT.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—Perhaps some of the controlling throne occupying geniuses who sit in Washington telling business how to work itself out of the depression can tell me and many other small business men who have been led and driven, cajoled and coerced into the NRA., why it is that the price of milk can so effectively be controlled, even to the revoking of licenses, and yet nothing can be done for other lines.

I am in the retail tobacco business. Today cigarets were advertised by a large drug chain at one dollar a carton. As the day progressed they were being sold in the loop as low as 98 cents per carton. These cigarets cost me $1.03 per carton. If I can sell them at one dollar there is a tax to the state of two cents which brings my cost to $1.05, or a loss of five cents per carton. On top of this I must pay the city one hundred dollars a year to sell them.

I am not alone in this puddle. Every tobacconist is in the same boat. The price of cigarets to the dealer is standardized or is supposed to be. The retail sales code, ballyhooed as the small man's salvation, has been an empty gesture as far as we are concerned.

Undoubtedly the same minds that developed monetary plans and other plans of the New Deal could make a go of business under this situation. Lesser mortal that I am, I cannot.

LOOP INDEPENDENT.

DIVORCE LAWYERS.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—During the last few years a small group of divorce shysters has grown up in this city. They are regarded with suspicion by all reputable members of the profession. Despite this, however, they are given constant publicity by newspapers and in this way are held up to the public, who do not know them, as leaders of the bar. As a matter of fact, not one of these belongs in the third rank in their profession. These lawyers obtain the publicity which they constantly received partly by connivance with the newspaper reporters and partly by incorporating in their suit unusual and extraordinary happenings, which usually have no basis in fact and are never of any importance whatever in the proceedings, but its only use is to justify a newspaper story.

It is my belief that the newspapers should discourage these cheap practices by refusing to publish the stories of these cases and particularly by refusing to mention the names of the attorneys involved in them. JOHN E. CRAHEN,
Of the Chicago Bar.

INTERNATIONAL HOUSE.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—We, as neighbors, welcomed University of Chicago's new International house on the Midway as an asset to the university and a contribution towards the social, intellectual and economic life of the community.

By opening the doors to persons not bona fide students, the administration has not only reduced the use of its facilities to its members but has entered into direct competition for rooms and board with privately owned apartments and restaurants. With its endowed building, exemption from taxes and NRA code and other subsidies the house can offer accommodation at much lower terms to nonstudents than private interests and subsequently it has drawn many American patrons within its walls. All through the summer it has housed transient guests [nonstudents], conventions, World's Fair visitors. Now its movie program, which is open to the public, is being advertised in direct competition with neighboring playhouses.

The semi-occasional sign in the building restricting the facilities to members and their friends has not discouraged outside people from frequenting the dining rooms, lounges, barber shop, gift shop and other revenue bearing facilities. Many restaurants and apartments in the neighborhood are empty and are suffering from this unfair competition from an educational institution. This situation has worked a severe hardship on the community which has a reciprocal interest in the welfare of the university.

THE FOUNTAIN OF CREATION.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Now that civil administration appropriations, through the wisdom of our government, are being made available for long delayed and much needed improvements in city beautification, why cannot Chicago, through the south park commission, raise a united voice to request money for the installation of Lorado Taft's great masterpiece, "The Fountain of Creation," at the eastern end of the Midway? The plans for this majestic group to match "The Fountain of Time" at the west of the Midway have been in readiness for several years, awaiting only the necessary funds.

Bellmawr, N. J., Nov. 18.—I am anxious to know if it is possible to show the Star of Bethlehem in the Adler planetarium during the time of Christmas, the date of the Savior's birth, and Twelfth Night, when the Magi visited Him bearing gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh. Bethlehem is situated in longitude 32 degrees 12 minutes, latitude 31 degrees 42 minutes. "AN AMERICAN INSTITUTION"

ACCUSES POLICE OF TIEUP WITH CAPONE'S GANG

Murder Trial Defendant Makes Charges.

CRIMINAL COURT.
John Doe, 40 years old, confidence game, sentenced to one to 10 years, and Sam Fortuna, 18 years old, burglary, sentenced to one year to life by Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

A tale in which the police and a south side politician were linked to the booze peddlers of the old Capone gang was told yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge James F. Fardy. The witness was Crawford Wilson, 50 years old, Negro, and former owner of a restaurant at 30 West 22d street.

With his son, Frank Wilson, 17 years old, and another Negro, Eddie Price, 49 years old, Wilson is on trial on charges of murdering James J. Madden Jr., 8105 South Sangamon street, a city sidewalk inspector, on Aug. 23, 1932.

Madden was shot to death in front of the restaurant as he rode in an automobile with Policemen Louis Starr and Patrick McInerney. The elder Wilson testified yesterday that he shot in self-defense after McInerney had opened fire on him. He said the exchange of shots followed a bombardment of the restaurant by two men, whom he believed to be policemen, as they rode slowly by in another car.

Lays Trouble to Rum Feud.

Wilson told the jury that the trouble in which his restaurant was bombed and windows broken three time grew out of a squabble between rival liquor dealers.

Wilson told the jury that a man named "Dago Joe" had come to him and said that he represented the Capone gang. Ordered to buy booze, Wilson said he demurred and took Joe with him to appeal to Fred Morelli, a precinct captain and secretary to Dennis Cooney, south side vice lord.

"You go along and buy from Joe," Wilson said Morelli told him, "and we'll give you police protection."

Things went smoothly, with "Joe" delivering two cans of alcohol daily at $15 a can, Wilson said, until Jan. 1, 1931, when a man named Walter Leonard came to the restaurant.

"You've got to buy from me now," Wilson quoted Leonard as saying. "There's been a big powwow and this district has been given to my boss, Guzik."

Linked to Phil D'Andrea.

Wilson said that "Joe" represented Phil D'Andrea, Capone bodyguard, who was sentenced to six months for contempt of court when he appeared at the income trial of Capone carrying a revolver. "Joe" later appeared at the restaurant, Wilson said, and admitted that the syndicate had ordered him to turn Wilson's business over to Leonard.

"My trouble began," Wilson told the jury, "in April, 1932, when I decided the price of alcohol was too high and quit taking it from Leonard or any one else. On May 1 three uniformed policemen came in and told me to close up."

"I took them to Morelli and he told them to leave me alone or he'd run them out of the district. Then on July 28 a man came in and drew a revolver, but I got the drop on him and ran him out. Then I went to the Frolics café and got Policemen Peter Bernacchi and James Coleman. We rode around the district until we saw the man.

"Bernacchi said to me, 'Why, that old James J., an officer.' Then he said to the man, 'You should stay out of our district.' They told me to go home and they would hold the man for investigation. That's the last I heard of the case. I appealed to Dennis Cooney and he said he'd take care of things."

Policeman Is Witness.

Bernacchi, called to the stand by the state, said he remembered the case, but did not recall that he had recognized the man as a policeman. Wilson said that on the night of the shooting a car drove by the restaurant and two men, who he believed were policemen, fired several shots through the window. A minute later, Wilson said, another car drove up and McInerney opened fire. McInerney, called as a rebuttal witness, denied firing at the Negro and said that Wilson and his two companions opened fire without warning.

JUDGE CHANGES CHARGES IN AN AUTO THEFT CASE

Municipal Judge John Gutknecht in the Boys' court yesterday changed charges of theft of an automobile against two youths to lesser charges. He then placed one defendant under the supervision of the court and sentenced the other to one year in the Bridewell with a promise to vacate the sentence if the youth's behavior is good until Feb. 23, when he again will be taken into court. The changing of charges was recently condemned by the Chicago Crime commission in a report on automobile thefts.

The youths whose cases were disposed of yesterday by Judge Gutnecht are Frank Matilazas, 17 years old, 6323 South Morgan street, and Kurth Clemens, also 17, of 4454 South Talman avenue. The automobile theft charge against Matilazas was changed to "driving an automobile away without the owner's consent" and he was sent to the Bridewell. The theft charge against Clemens was reduced to disorderly conduct and he was placed under court supervision until Aug. 22, 1934.

Matilazas and Clemens were arrested on Nov. 15 while they were seated in an automobile at 18th street and Lowe avenue. The car had been stolen from James Wing, 6921 South Paulina street.

FORGET WORRY AND BE WELL, SAYS PROFESSOR

Dr. A. C. Ivy, professor of physiology in the Northwestern university medical school, speaking yesterday at a meeting of the North Central Kiwanis club at the Drake hotel, advised relaxation and escape from worry to axoid digestive disorders.

"It would be easy for me to tell you to stop worrying," Dr. Ivy told his audience, "and to avoid things that cause worry, strife, and care. This is impossible for a busy man or woman, but I believe there is a way out.

"First, teach yourself to forget your worries and responsibilities for brief periods at least. Every one knows that a sense of responsibility is acquired and may become a habit. I think it is an excellent habit, unless carried so far that you permit it to interfere with your health and the happiness of others."

Exhibits Arrive

More than half of the 13,500 head of pure bred live stock to be exhibited in the International Live Stock exposition, opening in Chicago's stockyards next Saturday, were detrained and placed in their gayly decorated stalls at International amphitheater last night.

Included in the arrivals were shipments of fine horses from Belgium and Scotland. The exposition, with its five million dollars in farm animals and crops, will close Dec. 8.

At the same time hundreds of samples of unusual farm crops, including grains and hay, were being mounted for the International Grain and Hay show running concurrently with the live stock show and supported by leading Chicago business concerns. Canadian provinces are sending the best of their crops to vie with American breeders' selections.

Several carloads of fine saddle and harness horses have been expressed from New York, it was announced by O. T. Henkle, chairman of the horse show division, which will offer prizes in some 147 classes during the week. The eastern horses will be pitted against those from the middle west and from California and Oregon. Saturday night's horse show will be restricted to Chicago and nearby stables.

Last National Guard Unit Quits Illinois Coal Fields

Taylorville, Ill., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The last National Guard company was withdrawn from the Illinois mine fields today.

LOS ANGELES HIT BY GALE; REPORT HEAVY DAMAGE

Film Barge with 26 on Board Periled.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Winds of gale force, accompanied by hail and sprinkles of rain, lashed Los Angeles and the neighboring coast line today, causing much damage to buildings, oil derricks, and shipping.

At Newport Beach a barge, the Paramount, on which twenty men and six women passengers were fishing, lost its anchor and for a time was in imminent danger of being wrecked.

Fail to Reach Craft.

A sea anchor was quickly rigged by the crew and it served to hold the craft three-quarters of a mile off the beach. Unsuccessful efforts to reach the Paramount and take off the passengers were made during the afternoon.

At San Pedro the U. S. cruiser Chester, flagship of the navy scouting squadron, was forced to run for the open sea when her anchor dragged under the pressure of a 48 hour wind. Fishing fleets were driven from the Catalina banks and steamers northbound failed to keep their schedules.

Derricks Are Toppled Over.

In the Signal Hill oil fields three derricks were toppled over, one falling on and wrecking a cottage. A church steeple and several signboards in Long Beach were blown down.

In the vicinity of Los Angeles the precipitation was light. Rain is much needed here, as there had been from July 1 up until today only .35 of an inch, as compared to a normal fall of 1.96 inches.

The storm brought a swift fall in the temperature, unofficial thermometers registering 42 or 43. Last Saturday the city had sweltered in readings of 91, the climax of a heat wave. There have been seven of these heat waves since early summer.

ICEBREAKER LEADS FLEET OF 15 SHIPS DOWN ST. LAWRENCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 28.—Preceded by Canada's crack icebreaker, the N. B. McLean, which broke up the thin ice covering the river, fifteen ships, including the liner Duchess of Bedford, slowly made their way down the St. Lawrence toward the Atlantic today. Below Quebec conditions were improved and it was believed the ships would reach the sea without further difficulty. One freighter, the Voluntas, went aground during the day. Forty lake vessels were trying to reach Montreal by way of the canals, but were finding it difficult.

Two Cents City Rate Boosts Postal Receipts

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Postal receipts have picked up since the lowering of the city drop letter rate from 3 cents to 2 cents. Acting Postmaster General Joseph C. O'Mahoney said today receipts in twelve cities in which a survey was made last week showed an increase of 1.89 per cent over the same week a year ago, when the 3 cent rate was in effect.

When you brush your teeth use a dentifrice that is SAFE AND EFFECTIVE

IF READING the claims of various toothpastes has frightened and confused you, it's time to come back to common sense. It is true that neglect of your teeth and gums is likely to cause serious troubles. But with regular examinations by your dentist, supplemented by the 5-way protection of Squibb's Dental Cream, you can be confident that your teeth are as safe as human care can make them.

Squibb's cleans the teeth thoroughly and polishes them safely, with absolute freedom from grit. It gives all the help any dentifrice can give to prevent bleeding of the gums, and it does this by safe cleansing, not by the use of astringents or other irritants. It combats the germ acids that cause tooth-decay. And its use is true economy.

Squibb's Dental Cream has a delightful minty flavor that leaves your mouth cool and refreshed. Children really enjoy brushing their teeth with it twice a day. And you can rest assured that it is just as safe for them as for yourself because it is made by Squibb.

Don't put off the happy security of knowing your teeth are well guarded. Tubes of Squibb's Dental Cream are sold at drug stores everywhere.

The Danger Line is the area where the thin edge of the gum encircles each tooth, forming tiny ledges, difficult to reach by brushing. Here food particles collect and bacteria multiply, generating acids. Not one, but all your teeth are endangered by unhealthy gums. When you use Squibb's Dental Cream, you force into the sheltered areas countless antacid particles which combat the germ acids and protect the gums.*

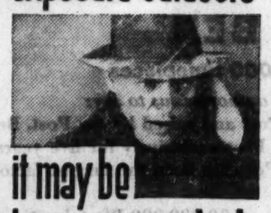
If you're bothered by exposure outdoors



it may be because you lack good resistance!

Is miserable winter weather your bugaboo? Does it usually result in illness for you?

Then begin right away to protect yourself! Guard against exposure, of course. Bundle up well before you go outdoors.

And in addition to outward precautions, build up your resistance! It's the way many thoughtful people are managing to stay in good health.

Among the factors you need to keep up your resistance are Vitamins A and D. If you suffer from exposure, you should make it a special point to get an abundance of them every day.

They are so easily obtained now! With Squibb Adex Tablets-10 D.

Squibb Adex tablets are made from halibut and cod-liver oils and Viosterol. They offer you the vitamins from all three of these valuable, health-giving sources. Each tablet contains 1000 units of Vitamin A, 2450 units of Vitamin D. In this respect, they differ from any other vitamin concentrate you can get.

Start with them now and keep it up regularly. Thus you will get the greatest benefit from their resistance-building qualities.

Now at any reliable drug store. Squibb Adex Tablets-10 D.

Thanksgiving's Arrival to Find Society at Ball

Wives of Five "B. and B." Members to Receive.

BY JUDITH CASS.

IT will be Thanksgiving, undoubtedly, before all of the 400 who will attend the Bachelors and Benedicks' ball will have left their wraps in the dressing rooms adjoining the Gold ballroom of the Congress and have gone down the receiving line, for the invitations to tonight's ball set 11 o'clock as the time for arrival, and unless precedent is upset it will be at least an hour later before the party is well under way.

The five young women who will receive will be there by 11, however, with their identical shoulder corsages of white orchids tipped with purple pinned to their very newest formal gowns. Gold and purple ribbons, the colors of the "Bs and Bs," will tie the flowers, and tiny ribbons of the same bright colors will hang from the gardenias that the "Bs and Bs" will wear in their buttonholes.

Receiving will be Mrs. Dexter Cummings, wife of this year's chairman; Mrs. John Simpson, Mrs. Luther Hammond Jr., Mrs. Robert S. Pirie and Mrs. Paul McBride.

The wives of the other three married men on the committee—W. Irving Osborne Jr., Ralph Isham and Frederic McLaughlin II.—will not be at the ball. The bachelors who will be hosts are Joseph C. Belden Jr., Malcolm W. Stevenson, Gardner Brown, Donald R. McLennan Jr., A. Watson Armour III., Dustin Grannis, James O. Heyworth Jr. and Gaylord Donnelley.

Profits to Go to Community Fund.

There are to be no elaborate decorations tonight nor any floor show during supper, but even so the committee does not anticipate that after expenses are paid there will be anything left over to be donated to the Community fund. Three years ago the "Bs and Bs" gave $1,200 to the unemployment relief fund, but they do not hope to equal or come anywhere near that amount this year. Two years ago they omitted their annual Thanksgiving eve party, but last year they gave it again to the delight of all the younger crowd.

No debutantes ever are invited and only a few of "last year's" girls. Those who made their debuts last year who will be among the dancers tonight are Miss Honore White, Miss Helen Marie Castle, Miss Nancy Traylor, Miss Mary Reed, Miss Jean Schweppe, Miss Barbara Eldridge, Miss Louise Dewey, Miss Lydia Swift, Mrs. Edgar Stanton Jr. [Rosamund Baker], Miss Ethel Dixon, and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey Jr. [Marjorie Goodman].

There will be a number of dinner parties before the ball, some of the hosts and hostesses being Mr. and Mrs. Cummings, the James H. Douglases, who will entertain for the Adlai E. Stevensons, who are arriving from Washington today, the Niblack Thornes, and the Bruce Thornes.

Though not styled a repeal party, the members of the Casino will undoubtedly mix a bit of post-prohibition gayety with the buffet supper they are to have next Tuesday evening. The annual election of officers is the raison d'être for the party. Invitations were in yesterday's mail.

Tavern Repeal Party Wins 300 Reservations.

With the 300 available reservations already spoken for and a waiting list numbering several dozen, the Tavern is anticipating an evening of riotous fun Tuesday when it celebrates the repeal of prohibition. Such names as Alfred Shaw, John Wentworth, John R. Winterbotham, George Senseney, and Burford Porter . . . a few of those who will be hosts to large groups . . . insure a socially interesting evening.

St. Nicholas . . . not the domestic old fellow who brings the Christmas presents, as Charles Collins explains, but another holy man of great influence in the ancient times, special patron of vintners, coopers, and wine tasters . . . is to be the patron saint of the party. Dinner will be served from early until late and special decorations will welcome "the new birth of freedom."

The John Roots are to entertain several guests. And so will the John Holabirds, Preston Boyden, his brother, William C. Boyden; Mr. and Mrs. Wirt Morton, the Howard Ellises, the George Woodruffs, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip B. Maher.

Virginia Thatcher Is Debutante Today.

Today's debutante is slim, blue eyed Virginia Thatcher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. William Thatcher. At a 1 o'clock luncheon this noon in the Crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel she is to make her formal bow to society.

Miss Thatcher is one of perhaps two or three debutantes of this season [Lucy Harrison is another] who represent fourth generation Chicago families. It was in 1837 that Miss Thatcher's great-grandfather, David Cunningham Thatcher, came to Chicago to settle.

Another party has been announced to make life gay and frivolous for all of the year's debutantes during the Christmas holidays. At noon on Dec. 22 Miss Barbara Ann Sargent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester F. Sargent, will be presented to society at a luncheon in the Crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel. Most of the 75 guests will be Miss Sargent's debutante and post-debutante friends.

A date during the holiday season has been chosen especially that Miss Peggy Sargent, who is a freshman

Smiling Helpers for Benefit

Miss Barbara Graf and Miss Isabel Gordon will be among the attractive young women selling cigarets and gardenias at the International ball to be given Saturday night in the Gold room of the Congress hotel for the benefit of the Northwestern university settlement. Mrs. Arthur M. Raymond, Mrs. Herman Friestedt, Mrs. James R. Offield, Mrs. Melvin A. Traylor, Mrs. Ernst Von Ammon, and Mrs. Norman J. Westerhold are co-chairmen of the committee in charge of the affair.

The Stage

A revue called "Lady, Be Nice" is announced for a première in the Blackstone theater Dec. 15 under the auspices of the general committee of the Benefit for Unassigned Chicago School Teachers organization. Allan Robertson is staging the production and is seeking to enlist the services of the following revue and cabaret players: Frances White, Mitzi Mayfair, Ann Pennington, Sheila Barrett, Frank Haggard, Gilbert Wells, Florence Brady, the Collette Sisters, the Wheelen Twins, Donald Novis, Louise Groody and the Lambert ballet.

John Galsworthy's drama, "Escape," will be staged by the Hull House Actors guild in the Hull House theater, on Friday and Saturday evenings, Dec. 8 and 9. Edith de Nancrede, who has been directing Hull House theatrical performances for thirty years, will rehearse the cast.

Beverley West, sister of Mae West, will be the chief personality on next week's stage program at the State-Lake theater. She will appear as the star of a revue containing 35 entertainers. This will be her first appearance in Chicago since she played a small rôle in the bar-room scene of Mae West's "Diamond Lil."—C. C.

Mrs. Leslie Benson, Former Chicagoan, Arrives from Europe

New York, Nov. 28.—[Special.]—The first Europeans to come here avowedly to profit by the fall of the dollar were aboard the Berengaria, which arrived today.

Mrs. Leslie Benson, formerly Miss Leslie Foster of Chicago, wife of Maj. Rex Benson, British business man and polo player, declared that many who would not think of visiting the country in ordinary circumstances, planned to forego customary visits to European holiday centers to enjoy advantage of the monetary situation.

Viscount Astor, arriving on a three weeks' business trip, said visitors who came merely for financial gain were involved in a hazardous undertaking, because of the uncertainty of exchange developments.

Other passengers included the countess of Suffolk and Berkshire, the Right Hon. Gladys Cecil, Lady Guernsey, Lady Baron, wife of Sir Louis Baron, and the Right Hon. David Herbert, son of the earl of Pembroke.

Sandra Shaw's Betrothal to Gary Cooper Announced

New York, Nov. 28.—[Special.]—The engagement of Miss Veronica Balfe, who is known in talking pictures as Sandra Shaw, to Gary Cooper, screen actor, was formally announced tonight by Miss Balfe's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shields. They gave a supper dance for Miss Balfe and Mr. Cooper at their residence, 77 Park avenue. Miss Balfe, who is just 20 years old, attended the Todhunter school. She was introduced to society here two years ago and since then has lived mostly in California.

Old Favorite and New Given by Symphony

De Lamarter Introduces Work by Turina.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Those who went to Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon registered a debt of sincere gratitude, two debts, in fact, to Eric De Lamarter, who is conducting the Chicago Symphony orchestra until Mr. Stock finishes his vacation tomorrow.

One was for continuing to list the symphony by Scriabin called "The Divine Poem," one of the finest works of its kind and growing finer after a dozen years of acquaintance. The other is for introducing Joaquin Turina's "Sinfonia Sevillana."

This latter is almost a novelty to Chicago audiences, and except for the fact that Mr. De Lamarter conducted it in a concert of the Civic orchestra early this year, would be completely so. It deserves widespread hearing. Instead of being a technical symphony, as its name would indicate, it consists of three pieces all in the carnival spirit, and especially Spanish carnival, sounding thereby a little livelier and full of color and high spirits than any other kind of carnival.

Here are Spanish tunes, serenades, dances of a kind to delight the soul. And it was in that mood that Mr. De Lamarter conducted them, making no particular demands upon the power of enjoyment.

In fact it was a concert sincerely intended for enjoyment. Joseph Vito, the harpist of the orchestra, was its soloist, playing Ravel's Introduction and Allegro before the intermission, and a group of short pieces after it. Mr. Vito, it would seem, knows everything that there is to know about the harp, its dashing, intricate technic, its many kinds of tone, its entire capabilities as a solo instrument, and is a brilliant executant in addition. He is in serious need of a composer who will write for the harp as well as he can play it. If such a combination could occur, it would be world beating.

Charles Wakefield Cadman is headed this way through the middle west in a huge bus filled with scenery, costumes, and talent. He will be here on Saturday afternoon to direct two of his one act operas, "Willow Tree" and "White Enchantment," at the Union League club. The works will be sung by Helen Freund, soprano; Constance Eberhardt, contralto; Arthur Kraft, tenor, and Eric Russel Cooke, baritone. Mr. Cadman himself will be at the piano during the two performances.

Some Yuletide Gifts Seen in Jewelry Shops

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Early Christmas "finds" in the imported jewelry collections! . . . indescribably beautiful Italian filigree bracelets, earrings, brooches, and necklaces. Frosty, white lacy stuff that looks like fragile lace, more white than silver with a shimmering luster that only this filigree jewelry boasts.

Rigid bracelets an inch or so wide give the appearance of stiffened hoops of cobweb lace, tiny white daisies, with clear yellow centers, form a short precise row for a brooch, a single daisy for each earring and a chain of yellow eyed daisies for a necklace.

Then the lustrous gold affairs in the same fragile loveliness to burnish and glow against brown or black or emerald dresses . . . perfect foils for the fashions of 1933. Until you have seen them you will have forgotten the lure of filigree at its best.

In the same collection are old silver pieces . . . romantic lockets with space for a couple of pictures, ovals with faint traceries of old fashioned whirls and whorls as only the designers of granny's day could decorate, a small square to hold two tiny photographs suspended on a linked chain . . . a round necklace that looks like chain mail . . . and old, old lockets with dents and the tarnish of time.

Then . . . the newest wisecracking jewelry, the new repeal stuff with which to celebrate the end of the dry era. Silver metal bracelets copy the charm bangle bracelets with four little composition bottles and a shaker jangling companionably and convivially together. . . . Imbibers and teetotalers alike will use the revival of the barfly, a two inch long crystal fly with green eyes, decorative as a pin to hold down scarfs and wide lapels.

North Suburbs Greet Hockey Teams Today

U. S. Women's Tournament to Be in Evanston.

Because the United States touring team and the Northeast and Southeast teams are arriving in Chicago today for the United States national woman's field hockey tournament, which is being played off at Dyche stadium over this week-end, a good many young Winnetkans will be playing chauffeur from town to the country and from their homes to the stadium all day long.

A great deal of interest in field hockey has been aroused in and around Chicago just recently, for the sport is a bit more of a novelty here than it is in the east. However, the New York and Philadelphia papers consider the tournament of such interest to their readers that they have arranged for daily stories of the matches. Today and tomorrow—tomorrow morning especially—will find hockey conscious Chicagoans and suburbanites headed for the stadium with blankets over their arms and heads filled with curiosity.

Miss Anne Townsend, captain of the United States touring team, and Miss May Fogg, its manager, will be staying in an apartment in Evanson, but outside of these two popular visitors all of the players will be put up at homes along the north shore.

Many Players to Be Guests in Homes.

Mrs. Hallett W. Thorne, president of the Midwest Hockey association will have as her guest Miss Suzanne Cross, who wears the light blue jersey of the touring team. The first Northeast team, which sports gay orange colored jerseys, will be represented by two members in the homes of Mrs Ayres Boal and Mrs. Laird Bell. The dark blue of the Northeast's second team will be in and out of the homes of Miss Jean Ward, Mrs. George B. Massey, Mrs. Sanger Hinchman, Mrs E. V. L. Brown, and Miss Harriet Leonard. Miss Leonard is in charge of "placing" the visiting players.

Miss Jean McConnell, Mrs. Massey, Mrs. Ralph Hobart, and Miss Lucy Jane Hedberg will be some of the hostesses to the Southeast team, whose color is yellow. Other hostesses are Mrs. Cornelius B. Watson, Mrs. Philip W. Moore, Mrs. Howard T. Walsh Miss Amy Bygrave, and Miss Theresa Rew.

Miss Margot Atkin has invited Miss Gretchen Schyler, Miss Mary Conklin Miss Agnes Rodgers, and Miss Catherine Kendig for Thanksgiving dinner tomorrow night, and there will be numerous other small parties wherever the players are staying.

Men's Teams to Play Saturday.

Members of the men's team, which will play the North Shore first team at 2 o'clock Saturday, are Thornlike Howe of Boston, who played hockey for Harvard and who has moved to Winnetka recently, where he is living with Bob Millett, another member of the men's team; "Bill" Davis, Hallett Thorne, Pierre Bouscaren, George B. Massey Jr. and his brother Loren, Bill Sullivan, Jose Alonzo, Ayres Boa, Jr., and Warner Washburn.

Tea will be served every afternoon in the stadium for the visiting players with girls of the local midwest teams in charge. Several members of the recently organized Town and Country hockey team, including the Misses Elizabeth Bunting, Lydia Swift, Barbara Eldridge, Bobette Boysen, and Betsy Needham, will be there.

At the hockey association banquet at the Indian Hill club Friday night the new United States team will be chosen. The game between this team and the United States reserve team will be one of the high lights of the tournament. It will be played at 2:45 Saturday afternoon, directly following the North Shore versus the men's team match.

Envoy's Daughter to Wed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 28.—Miss Irene Helen Robbins, daughter of Warren D. Robbins, United States minister at the Canadian capital, is to wed Alexander Cochrane Forbes of Boston, Mr. Robbins announced tonight.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

A CHICAGO debutante was driving through the Virginia hills with her fiancé in his lavender roadster on their way to the hunt club after the ceremony of blessing the hounds at the little church in the valley. He commented that he would give all his stock in midwest futilities for one tall mint julep.

Query—Appropriate—Definition—Salesman.

"Perhaps some one in this valley has a mint bed," she suggested.

The gas station attendant had no suggestions, so she inquired of a patriarch leaning over a white picket fence festooned with honeysuckle.

"What's that, lady?" cupped the old man.

"Have you a mint bed?" she repeated.

"No, lady, but there's a woman across the street who takes strangers and another one down a piece," the old fellow answered.

MARY DONAHEY was going to a wedding after the Midland Author luncheon Saturday and said she wanted to take the bride an autographed book. Turning to John Strachey, British economist and guest of honor, she asked which of his books he thought she should take, and would he autograph it?

"The American matriarchy being what it is," Mr. Strachey replied in his Oxford English, "I should be inclined to suggest 'The Coming Struggle for Power.'"

MR. STRACHEY, lecturing at Mandel hall the other evening [and a much younger man than we had expected to see!], gave two concise definitions of Fascism and communism.

"Fascism is a movement to preserve by violence the private ownership of the means of production," he said. "Fascism does not take one dollar's worth out of the hands of the capitalists."

"Communism is a movement to abolish the private ownership of the means of production and to put them in the hands of the workers."

PEOPLE who heard Mr. Strachey and George E. Sokolsky lecture the other day before the Chicago forum were a little surprised when they discovered a man named Strachey was the radical and one named Sokolsky was the conservative.

A GERMAN wine salesman, representative of one of the famous wines in the world, called on a Jewish restaurant owner the other day.

"What wine does Hitler drink?" asked the restaurant owner after a little conversation.

"I don't know. I'm a Jew myself," responded the wine salesman gloomily. [Hitler is reported to be a teetotaler, in case you care.]

Two Charming Exhibits Open at Arts Club

Works of Jacques Villon and Serge Lifar Shown.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Arts club opened two interesting exhibits yesterday. Paintings and etchings by Jacques Villon are installed in the round gallery, the little gallery and the hall. The large gallery is given up to sketches and paintings from the collection of Serge Lifar, the dancer, depicting costumes, curtains, and stage settings from "Twenty-five Years of Russian Ballet."

Jacques Villon is one of three brothers. Perhaps the most famous is Marcel Duchamps because his "Nude Descending the Stairs" has made history in modern art since its first showing twenty-odd years ago. To prevent confusion in personalities, Jacques and a sculptor brother, later killed in the war, took their mother's maiden name and have been known by that, Villon, throughout their art careers.

A piece of sculpture, "The Song," two women carved from wood, is shown in the round gallery.

Obviously with Duchamps for a brother, no member of the family could be but modern in his tendencies. Jacques Villon supports the theory. His paintings, delightful in color, illustrate with accuracy the first steps modern art took. Cubes, planes, elimination, suggestion, abstraction, all these various parts of the modern pattern are represented.

Over and through even the weirdest of the conceptions flows a stream of lovely harmonizing color. Greens and blues have rarely been as tenderly and sympathetically developed. One canvas, "Atelier Mecanique," stands out vigorous in its own right, clever and definitely related in its manner to its matter.

The second exhibit, "Twenty-five Years of Russian Ballet," is rich with amusing and picturesque details and incidents. Painters of note, Matisse, Sert, Rouault, Miro, Picasso, and Pedro Pruna, sign many of the sketches. The curtain of dance is unrolled before us with agility and humor backing its beauty. The ballet stage in its wealth of imaginative moments is revealed, frozen beauty, waiting for music and dancers to bring it to life. There is, too, an instructive side to this exhibit as well as a purely artistic one.

The exhibitions will continue to Dec. 23.

New Harold Teen Movie Based on Success of First

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—One of the department heads at Warner studio was talking: "In the movies it is a good recipe when a story has once proved a big hit to make it again. O, sure, we will change the title or shift the characters or give things a new location, but the important thing is after something has met high public favor to give it to the public again. So we have big hopes for our talkie re-make of 'Harold Teen.'"

The high school age comic strip characters are being brought to camera life a second time at Warner's with a cast headed by Hal Leroy, 19 years old, dancer-musical comedian from New York, and Patricia Ellis. Miss Ellis plays Mimi, a character reminiscent of the first sweetheart whom Carl Ed, cartoonist, introduced for Harold preceding Lillums. "Lillums" has not been definitely cast, but Gloria Blondell, Joan's sister, may get this rôle.

Murray Roth will direct the picture.

Mervyn Leroy's bride-to-be, Doris Warner, daughter and niece of the Warner brothers, is partly responsible for the story being remade. She advised acquisition of the talkie rights and took part in the deal. So it looks as if at some date it may be "Warner Brothers, Daughter and Niece."

Joan Crawford from New York writes friends here that she got "the greatest kick" out of Marilyn Miller's satirization of Crawfordisms in "As Thousands Cheer."

Good Morning!

This is fun!

It's more gold digger stuff, but the two burlesque queens whose fortunes you follow are sich likeable damsels and the gentlemen they do—and are done by—such swell performers that you enjoy every moment of the picture despite its time worn motif.

"Havana Widows" is farce that makes no attempt at being anything else. What it strives for and gets is plenty of laughter from the audience.

When things go blooey at the burlesque show where Mae Knight and Sadie Appleby swing mean hips, the girls—inspired by the affluence of a dumbdora one time side kick who accredits all her prosperity to a sojourn in Cuba where a certain lawyer, Duffy, managed her affairs—decide that Cuba's the place for them. [Of course Cuba's no place for anybody right now, but don't let that bother you.]

The manner in which these beauteous blondes get to their destination and their experiences after arrival furnish the piece with hilarious incident.

Joan Blondell and Glenda Farrell make a grand team. Both are keen actresses with a sense of humor, and both are pretty.

Allen Jenkins is amusing as Joan's ace in the hole. Frank McHugh does well by Lawyer Duffy. These four, ably assisted by other capable players, keep the ball rolling fast and furiously to the finale which is—alack! alack!—deportation.

An hour's unthinking merriment is what "Havana Widows" hands you. Think you 'tis enough?

See you tomorrow!

Science and Math Teachers to Start Convention Friday

The Central Association of Science and Mathematics Teachers will hold its 33d annual convention at the Congress hotel Friday and Saturday. Dr. Charles A. Stone, 37 North Austin boulevard, president of the association, announced yesterday. The meeting will concern itself with the rapid advance in mathematics and science and new methods of teaching to cope with this advance.

"A century of progress in science and mathematics has wrought many changes in content and method of teaching," Dr. Stone said. "It is essential for all teachers to be advised on new methods and new ideas in the teaching world."

Among those who will appear on the program are Prof. Arthur H. Compton, University of Chicago physicist and Nobel prize winner; William J. Bogan, superintendent of Chicago schools, and Prof. Charles Hubbard Judd, chairman of the department of education at the University of Chicago.

Page Mr. Pomeroy

By ELIZABETH JORDAN

SYNOPSIS.

Bruce Pomeroy, brought up in poverty, befriended a Russian, Boris Orleneff. In return Orleneff, before his death, left Pomeroy a simple invention which is about to make Pomeroy a millionaire. Orleneff didn't want his brother's family, whom he considered parasites, to get a cent from the invention. While taking his morning walk through New York's Central park Pomeroy stops to aid a girl in apparent distress from a sprained ankle. He is seized by three men and overpowered. After a long motor and boat trip he is imprisoned in a comfortable room in a beautiful home. Next morning his cousin calls. He is Boris Orleneff, nephew of the inventor. With him is his cousin, Cyril Norrikoff. They want Pomeroy to make a settlement. He refuses. Boris invites Pomeroy to join the family circle downstairs. They do not know that Pomeroy is not a voluntary guest.

INSTALLMENT IX.

AN EMBARRASSING MEETING.

Pomeroy got up and made another examination of his room and of the outer world. The room's interior offered him nothing new. It was a second floor rear room in a right wing of the house. The house itself, he remembered, faced the shore. Only one window of his room, the front one, gave him a sea view, and this was at an angle looking from the front side of the wing. It showed him the long, narrow cove where they must have landed. The two remaining windows looked down into a slight gorge and across into vistas of spruce, and pines, and cedars. The island must be very thickly wooded.

The little he could see of the ocean through the snow showed waves mountain high, and their fierce crashing and booming on the beach were incessant. If he went downstairs, he reflected, he could get through the windows there a better view of his surroundings. His room being on the coast side of the house, some of the rear rooms must have windows facing the open sea unless the woods crept too close to the house to allow such vistas.

The storm was increasing in force. There was no doubt about that, and no doubt that it added to his problems. He stared out at the furious waters while recurrent waves of rebellion rolled over him. What would this hellish trick of the Orleneffs do to the merger? Technically it was all but settled. But there was always a chance for a slip. His failure to attend the conference was in itself a vital matter. His complete disappearance, his continued silence would both puzzle and anger his associates. The fair minded among them would, of course, suspect accident. Others, and there were others in the combination, notably Mr. Lansing, might suspect other things. Mark

"Aunt Sonia, let me present our guest, Mr. Pomeroy."

Vanderhoof, the dominant figure among the financiers, would stand by him. Already he and Vanderhoof had established friendly personal relations.

Early in the afternoon he decided that as a preliminary to plans that were taking shape in his mind he would go downstairs and give the Orleneff clan the once over. He walked over to the door and turned the knob. To his surprise it opened at once and the grinning face of Grateful confronted him.

"Goin' down, eh?" said that individual with a gracious gesture. "I kinda t'ought ye would. Nothin' like a change."

As Pomeroy descended the stairs with Grateful close behind him he looked about him keenly. Both upper and lower halls were empty. There was no sign or sound of servants. No evidence of telephones or of any other electric wiring. He heard the sound of a piano, admirably played, coming from the rear room at the right of the central hall. His somewhat austere expression softened. He liked music, but it hardened again when he reflected that the musician might be young Orleneff who, he remembered, had once held a situation as a piano player in a San Francisco picture house. With Grateful so close to his side that their bodies touched he opened the door and entered the room.

His first impression was that it was surprisingly full of human beings, so full that he could not escape the suspicion that the clan had gathered to look him over. Then he took in the details of the tableau. In a large wing chair before a roaring fire a white haired woman sat. She had a ravaged but still lovely face. Her eyes were downcast, almost closed; her hands were folded in her lap. Apparently she alone of the gathering had not heard his entrance, for she did not look up. At a grand piano in a corner of the room young Orleneff sat, playing a gypsy folk song. A blonde girl whose back was toward the door leaned on the piano talking to the musician as he played. On the other side of the fireplace an elderly couple sat at a backgammon table, deep in a game. Cyril Norrikoff stood at a window, looking out at a landscape still blurred by the heavy snowstorm. In the center of the room, as if sharply arrested there by the sound of the opening door, a very pretty girl stood looking at him with a slight, rather quizzical smile. She crossed to him at once, holding out her hand, and the smile widened.

"Well," she asked coolly but in a low voice, "have you forgiven me?"

Pomeroy took the hand and returned the smile with his sudden engaging grin. "I'm afraid not," he admitted. "You must give me time."

"It was a low down trick," the girl conceded carelessly, but still in an undertone. "I told Cyril so when he suggested it. And, of course, I had no idea that they were going to dope you. I wouldn't have stood for that."

"But you yourself really put the whole thing over." Pomeroy was still grinning. "I was the most unsuspicious man in New York."

She didn't like the remark. He realized that at once. It had reminded her, as he had intended that it should, of his act of mercy. She turned sharply.

"Come and meet the others," she suggested over her shoulder. "First, my aunt, Mme. Orleneff," she went on when he had followed her to the side of the silent woman by the fire. She raised her voice.

"Aunt Sonia, let me present our guest, Mr. Pomeroy," she said very clearly. The woman started and then looked up.

"I'm very glad to know Mr. Pomeroy," she said. "You knew my brother. You must tell me about his last days."

It was clear that she at least had not expected his entrance at that moment and that she was slightly embarrassed by it. She could readily imagine what Boris Orleneff I. had told this young man about his family. Moreover, from her viewpoint he was there to be talked into disgorging some of his Orleneff money under threat of a lawsuit. Rather a strained situation that, but she met it gallantly.

Pomeroy took her hand and pressed it. He had an odd and wholly unexpected impulse to make the situation easier for her.

"I'll bring him back to you later," his cicerone promised her. "First, Mr. Pomeroy, you must meet my father and mother, and my cousin Irma. Irma, like Aunt Sonia, is a hostess here. It is she who should be making you welcome. But she probably started for the attic at the first glimpse of you," she added with a gamin grin. "Irma's sensibilities are much more delicate than mine, and she does not think we should have urged this conference on you. By the way, I'm Olga, and my last name is Norrikoff."

She stopped by the couple at the backgammon table and a military looking man who was obviously the General rose with a jerk and a quick out-thrust of a hand. He, too, looked rather self-conscious.

"My father and mother, Gen. and Mme. Norrikoff," the girl told the visitor. "Here is our guest, mother."

She laughed wickedly and looked at Pomeroy with brilliant and mocking eyes. Her mother, a paler copy of Mme. Orleneff, looked ill at ease. It was to her credit, as to that of Mme. Orleneff and the General, Pomeroy reflected as he shook hands, that they all felt some embarrassment in the presence of a guest that they were trying to get money from, even in an amicable settlement. He himself held to the safe anchor of silence. It had always been his excellent habit to say nothing when he had nothing to say. The General muttered something inarticulate and watched his wife's reception of the newcomer. Young Orleneff stopped playing and lounged forward, drawing the girl at the piano with him, his hand thrust lightly through her arm.

"So you finally decided to come down. Good work," he said cheerfully. "Irma, this is Mr. Pomeroy. My sister," he added.

GASOLINE ALLEY—IN THE MONSTER'S COILS

Most Mothers AreConsidered Fairly Lenient

Daughters Need to Revise Selfish Opinions.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"My mother and I seem to differ in our opinions on a number of things," writes Gertrude.

When a young woman begins her letter like that, we know the things causing difference of opinion relate to the girl's hours of homecoming and especial liberties she thinks her due. We know mamma is going to be put on the griddle for roasting.

Mothers aren't always right, to be sure. But they are not wrong as often as girls accuse them of being. Mothers of girls 17, 18, and 19 are not usually so decrepit with age that they are out of touch with what's going on in the world. They're more often pretty spry young persons, with wide awake minds, and consequently infinitely more aware of the dangers, temptations, and so on that lay in the younger one's path. They're not the tyrants so often pictured. Our opinion is that they're not tyrannical enough in many, many cases. Especially in regard to late hours.

We're not of the opinion that a girl who goes to a dance or to the late movie or to the theater, should be home by ten thirty. We understand, as does the understanding parent, that these affairs begin late and that certain provisions must be made for delays en route home, because of trains or "Ls" and so on. But we do not think any young woman has the right to keep her mother sitting up anxiously awaiting her daughter's homecoming until two and three o'clock in the morning.

If there is any reason for a long delay, we think, daughter could step to a phone and give mother some explanation to keep her from worrying her head off. We note that girls who get on best with their mothers are considerate of them. They do not expect all the consideration to come from the other side.

We do wish you young women would try to get a little more adult slant on that female parent of yours. She's not a killjoy. She's not trying to deny you wholesome pleasure. She does not want her girl talked about. She wants you to be nice and to be thought nice and earn for yourselves the self-respecting position in life that will bring you real happiness.

Washington Society

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Mrs. Roosevelt left tonight for Warm Springs, Ga., to spend Thanksgiving day with the President. She was accompanied by her business associate, Miss Nancy Cook. They will be joined at Warm Springs by Miss Marian Dickerman of New York.

Mrs. Roosevelt was hostess at two teas this afternoon, the first one at 4 o'clock for resident society people who had called upon her and the other at 5 o'clock for the women holding special offices in the departments of agriculture, commerce, and labor, one of the series of such teas which she has inaugurated this season. She had receiving with her Mrs. Wallace, wife of the secretary of agriculture; Mrs. Roper, wife of the secretary of commerce, and Frances Perkins, secretary of labor. The wives of the assistant secretaries of these departments alternated at the tea table.

The German ambassador, Dr. Hans Luther, entertained a company of men guests at dinner tonight at the embassy.

The secretary of the interior and Mrs. Harold L. Ickes were joined today by their daughter, Mrs. Regua Bryant of Evanston, who will spend Thanksgiving with them.

Fay Bainter Joins Movies.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Fay Bainter, stage star, has arrived here to begin work in her first motion picture next week. The picture, in which she will be starred with John and Lionel Barrymore, will be by M-G-M, where she is under contract.

Lithuanian Charity Ball.

The Chicago Lithuanian Woman's club will hold its 11th annual charity ball this evening at the Midland club. Mrs. Nora Gugis is president of the club.

3,366 of the 9,966 U. of I. Students Are from Cook County

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Cook county leads the counties of Illinois in the number of students enrolled at the University of Illinois, figures released today revealed. There are 3,366 students from Cook county among the 9,966 enrolled in the university on the Champaign-Urbana campus and in the dental, medical and pharmacy schools in Chicago.

University officials said that the enrollment figures show that attendances at the university is on the upswing. Although the number of students enrolled this fall is smaller than a year ago by 382, the freshman class of 2,769 is 284 larger than last year. This indicates, officials said, that the entire student body will be greater in the next three or four years.

Next in enrollment to Cook county is Champaign county, with 1,168 attending the university.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Cass Canfield returned on board the Columbus of the North German Lloyd line from a cruise that took in Bermuda, Kingston and Nassau.

Mrs. Stanley Norris Thompson of 1215 5th avenue gave a dinner this evening at her residence for Prince Bristov of Russia.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Livingston have gone to Beeckman, Santa Barbara.

Miss Lisette Riggs had a luncheon today at the clubhouse of the Junior League of New York for Miss Fairfax Fuller, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fuller.

A daughter, Marian, was born to Mr. and Mrs. William Payson Viles of Agusta, Me., on Nov. 20, at the Harbor hospital. Mrs. Viles was Miss Marian Nichols, daughter of Mrs. William H. Nichols Jr. of this city.

Proposes Reducing College Students, Improving Quality

Pittsburgh, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Abolishment of small colleges through a process of mergers, and an increase in the quality and a decrease in the number of college students, was advocated today by Dr. William Wallace Campbell.

Addressing the students of Carnegie Tech at the annual Carnegie day exercises, Dr. Campbell, president of the National Academy of Sciences, said an "example of good results that would wisely proceed from recent economic conditions is this:

"That the two or three hundred little colleges in our nation whose names are geographic locations are unknown to 95 per cent of our college professors be constrained to reduce their number to no more than a third as many through the process of combining them, say two or three or more, in one college."

BY MARY MEADE.

"I laughed till I cried!" Ever said that? Well, a group of us were just in that state of stitches last night when we got through cutting capers with some of the funniest folks I've ever had the sidesplitting pleasure to meet—marshmallow dollies! I hope you've never been formally introduced, because I want the fun of doing it and, although a batch of nice clear photographs would help out my cause a good bit, I think that if you brush up your imagination and polish your mind's eye you'll be able to see just what I mean.

First of all, marshmallow dollies and marshmallow animals appear most properly at funny parties for either grownups or children, where the refreshment table chill needs to be broken down as fast as it can be. To start with a most seasonal fellow, there is Marshie the Snowman. He's a fat and jolly good fellow when set before a young diner's plate at the party. And the pleasant thing about Marshie is that after the fun is over he makes the best sort of eating. But to build him. Simply take six marshmallows for each snowman. Wet a toothpick and insert it half way into the rounded side of a marshmallow, then force the other end of the pick gently into the rounded side of another marshmallow. Place them flat side down on the table and you have Marshie's feet. Next place a marshmallow with its flat side toward you right over where his feet meet each other, fastening it to them with bits of moistened toothpicks. That's his body. Add another marshmallow, also flat side toward you, on each side of the center one, fastening them to his body and his legs. Those are his arms. Finally fasten the sixth marshmallow, similarly faced, right on top of the body for a head. For features and buttons for Marshie, insert whole, moistened cloves, long end first. Two clove eyes and a clove mouth for the head and three clove buttons down the front of the snowman's chest complete Marshie.

Then there's Marshie the Pilgrim to make for Thanksgiving. He is built just like the snowman, but without his arms. This leaves him legs, body, and head, with the appropriate clove buttons and features. Now comes the Pilgrim part. Cut black crêpe paper for a straight cape coming just around Marshie's shoulders and falling to the table, leaving his tummy and legs exposed in the front. Make him a neat, black tie and a Pilgrim hat—stovepipe, brim and all. Or if you don't need a Pilgrim, costume this Marshie as you like, to suit the occasion.

Also there's Marshie the Clown—which brings us into the world of gum drops as well as marshmallows and cloves. M. the C. is made with a marshmallow head and body, properly joined and eyed and buttoned with their flat sides toward us. Now out from the sides of the body and down from the bottom of it fix arms and legs, each one a "jelly string," one of those long, slender gum drops to be bought at candy stores. On the top of Marshie's head add a baby gum drop for a hat and give him clumpy little gumdrop feet to stand on. Vary the colors according to your taste in clowns.

And of course there are Marshie Bowwows. A most lovable one is made by fastening two marshmallows together with a wet toothpick, this time with their flat sides adjacent. That's Marshie Bowwow's body. His head is another marshmallow tipped somewhat and fastened by one of its edges to the top edge of the front part of Bowwow's body. Get the idea? His ears we make by cutting upward on both sides of his head, using a wet knife, twist them out so they flop a bit in the breezes. One may even be cut almost through and cocked thoughtfully. Two clove eyes and a clove nose finish the head. For feet, affix four short, stubby gumdrops, two splayed out beneath his front section and two straddled out beneath his rear elevation. A small gumdrop will do him for a tail. You'll soon cultivate a good bowwowing acquaintance with the youngster.

Then there's another strange sort of an animal that maybe is a Marshie Dinosaur. He has just one marshmallow with four flat and pudgy feet cuddled together in formation under one of his rounded sides. He displays his flat sides to the world, you see. Now, assuming he's going north, you set M. D. on his feet and give him a straight, long neck made from a jelly string and pointing off in the direction he's going. Top the neck with a bumpy gumdrop for a head and you have him. And, as Mr. Bear would say: "That's fun!"

Jugo-Slav Day

[Kaufmann-Fabry Photo.]

The fifteenth anniversary of the union of Serbs, Croats and Slovenes into the new Jugo-Slav state will be celebrated Friday evening at a dinner at the Hamilton club to be attended by leading Jugo-Slav Americans and others, including Mayor Kelly.

The day, to be known as Jugo-Slav Unity day, will be climaxed with the dinner, which is to be followed by a musical program given by Prof. Alexander Savine, Miss Leola Aikman, Gordon Regar, and John Baric. Speakers will include the mayor, Attorney General Kerner, Charles S. Dewey, Congressman A. J. Sabath, Col. Edward Davis, Charles J. Vopicka, and Rufus C. Dawes. All foreign consuls in the city will attend. After the dinner and music there will be a grand ball.

John R. Palandech is chairman of the affair, assisted by Miss Ena June Cosme, who heads the women's participation.

Evening Modes Tattle on Skins with Blemishes

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Your dinner dress, if a this year's model, is going to do a lot of tattling about your back. The dress will either have not enough back in it to brag about, or there'll be a slit from neck to waist, with skin peeking through.

You want to look into some of the many shoulder and back makeup trends. And be nicely powdered back there. But more important is the skin condition and the straight spinal column.

There isn't any other recommendation for the clear skin between the shoulder blades and down the back than the scrubbing brush and the shower rinse, and the vigorous swishing back and forth of the good old Turkish towel. There's a favorite camping ground for blackheads just between the blades.

Being thin doesn't matter so much, but the shoulder blades should not protrude like barn doors off their hinges. The surface must be smooth, and this includes bones as well as skin. If you have the flapping shoulder blades, try this say twenty, thirty times a day: When you're walking along anywhere, simply turn the palms of your hands outward. Immediately you'll feel a straightening of the black and a clos? ing of the blades.

Now, for the lump of fat that sits unbecomingly across the back shoulder blades. Here's an exercise guaranteed to take that off in no time. Lie on floor, hands clasped back of neck. Come up and stretch forward until elbows touch knees. Back down slowly and up again. You can do this sitting in your chair, uncorseted.

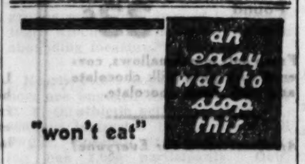
Cornbread Stuffing a Dixie Favorite for Thanksgiving Turkey

For variety in the stuffing of your Thanksgiving fowl, maybe you'd like to use this Dixie recipe obtained by Mary Meade:

SOUTHERN CORNBREAD STUFFING FOR CHICKEN.

4 cups crumbled cornbread [made with white cornmeal].
2 beaten eggs.
1 onion, minced.
Salt and pepper to taste.

Combine the cornbread, eggs, onion, and seasoning. Moisten with enough water to make packable or add the chopped cooked liver along with a little of the water in which the liver was cooked. This may either be stuffed into the bird or baked in a pan along with the chicken. If the latter method is used, baste the stuffing each time that the fowl is basted.



"I Won't Eat"

"WON'T EAT"

How often do you hear this from your children?—Refusing to eat foods they should eat for proper nourishment.

There's an easy way to get around this and teach your child "new food" appeal. Get a package of CREAMETTES, the delicious macaroni product. Serve it in one of its many tasty ways. They'll like CREAMETTES and better still it has the food value all growing children need. All grocers have it!

Thanksgiving's Arrival to Find Society at Ball

Wives of Five "B. and B." Members to Receive.

this year at Smith, may be here for her sister's coming out party. Miss Barbara Ann studied at Miss Bishop's school at La Jolla, Cal., and then at Mount Vernon seminary on the Atlantic seaboard. The past year she has been doing special work in speech at Northwestern university.

The ballroom of the Drake hotel will be the scene of a gay and colorful party tonight when the junior auxiliary of the Evanston branch of the Infant Welfare society gives a Gay Nineties ball. Most of the large committee will be in costumes, but modern evening clothes will be in order if one doesn't choose to "dress up." There are to be dozens of dinner parties before the ball.

Author to Address League of Voters.

The Lake Shore League of Women Voters is patting itself on the back because one of its members, Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, has persuaded Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury's clever son, James H. R. Cromwell, to come to Chicago especially to talk to the league members and their guests. Young Mr. Cromwell—he is 36 but his pictures make him look even younger—is the author of "The Voice of Young America" which has occasioned much comment and discussion and his subject here is to be "Youth and Democracy."

The talk will be given at 8:30 o'clock in the ballroom of the Drake hotel on Dec. 12, and already Mrs. Chadwick and numerous others are planning dinners to precede it. If Vincent Bendix is in the city Mr. Cromwell will be his house guest during the several days he will be here, but if Mr. Bendix isn't here Mr. and Mrs. Chadwick will entertain their Palm Beach neighbor. Mrs. Mitchell D. Follansbee, president of the league, will preside at the lecture and Frank J. Loesch will introduce Mr. Cromwell. Mrs. Clair E. More is in charge of tickets.

More plans for the Grand Opera masque ball to be given in the Civic Opera house on Friday night, Dec. 29, were announced yesterday by Andrew Rebori, general chairman. The guests are asked to wear the costumes of their favorite operatic rôles and costumes, and masques are obligatory. For those who do not care to go to the trouble of planning a costume there will be capes and masques of different colors for sale at the door. The entire theater and stage are to be transformed with decorations and lights into something unique and there is to be continuous dancing on the stage and elsewhere. A spectacular pageant with more than 600 persons taking part will be staged.

Radio Revue Boxes All Sold; Ask More.

Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick's hard working box committee for the Radio revue to be held next Monday evening in the Chicago Stadium and to benefit the Community fund went over the top yesterday with the sale of every one of the 100 boxes with which they started. The result is Mrs. McCormick has gone back to the revue managers and asked for 50 more boxes to sell.

Of course, the McCormick family will have several boxes Monday evening. Another one or two will be occupied by friends. Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy is giving the majority of her time to the woman's division of the Community fund. Although Mrs. Cudahy heads her radio favorites with the New York Philharmonic orchestra, she admits there's nothing she likes better than Gracie Allen or Ed Wynn.

Others who have taken boxes during the last few days include Mr. and Mrs. William H. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ranney, the John P. Wilsons, the Paul Brauers, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. Emmons Blaine, Col. and Mrs. Albert A. Sprague, Mr. and Mrs. George Rasmussen, Mr. and Mrs. Silas H. Strawn, and Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift, who has subscribed for five boxes.

Miss Virginia Tingle Becomes Bride Today.

Miss Dorothy Davis is to be Miss Virginia Tingle's only attendant this afternoon when she becomes the bride of Frank Madden in a service read at 4:30 o'clock at the Tingle home at 1426 Chicago avenue, Evanston. The wedding is to be a very quiet affair, attended only by the immediate families and a few intimate friends.

Miss Tingle, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Tingle, will be given in marriage by her father. Instead of the traditional white she will wear an ankle length gown of wine color crystal velvet. Her bouquet will be lavender orchids.

Van Etten Bent is to serve Mr. Madden as best man. Immediately following the ceremony there is to be a reception. Then Mr. Madden and his bride will leave on a honeymoon trip, the destination of which is unannounced. Upon their return they will make their home at 700 Hinman avenue, Evanston.

St. James' League Holds Yearly Sale.

In a holiday frame of mind the hard working members of the Women's Parish league of St. James's Episcopal church sold out every ounce of mince meat, cakes, candies, dolls, toys and linens yesterday at their annual utility and food sale at the St. James's parish house.

"It is the best sale we've ever had," Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson, who are veterans of the St. James's sales, agreed in the midafternoon. Both Mrs. Valentine and Mrs. Ryerson started early and sold all day long to hundreds of customers.

Mrs. Ryerson is the author of the recipe for the mincemeat, which was the day's best seller. By noon the pounds that had been provided for general selling were gone and the committee members were unwillingly offering theirs for sale. Other best sellers were the historical blotter pads and the trays that were made by Miss Caroline McIlvaine, former director of the Chicago Historical society, and donated for the selling by Mrs. Valentine. The pads were covered with a map of Chicago in 1833, while the trays used for decoration a map of "Chicago Beautiful in 1933."

Climaxing the sale late yesterday were the tea presided over by Mrs. Eames MacVeagh and the parish dinner in charge of Mrs. Robert F. Hall.

Miss Alice May Dickinson is a popular young Chicagoan who has been east for the last month. She is expected to return home today.

In their son Louis' plane Mr. and Mrs. George A. Seaverns took off yesterday for Florida. They are going to Nokomis, which is near Sarasota and an excellent spot for Mr. Seaverns to do some deep sea fishing. They haven't set a date for their return, though they predict it will be late winter.

Mrs. Frank E. Compton of Glencoe telephoned yesterday to ask us to make it clear that it was her daughter, Miss Josephine Wilson Cothran, who was married on Sunday to Henry Hoyt Hilton Jr., and that Mr. Compton's daughter, Edna, is to be married on Dec. 27 to William Lee Melcher. Their engagement was announced recently.

Junior Girls Will Like This Frock for Afternoon or Evening Affairs

JUNIOR MISS' DRESS.

Junior girls will love this pretty dress, and it can be worn for afternoons or evenings. It's chic made in a rough Chinese red silk crêpe, using gold clips at the neck and at the waistline. It's easily made, and inexpensive, too.

The pattern, No. 3125, comes in sizes 11, 13, 15, and 17 years.

How to Order Clotilde Patterns.

Write your name and address plainly on dotted lines, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Inclose 10 cents in stamps or coin [coin preferred; wrap it carefully] for each number, and address your order to Clotilde Patterns, Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central station, New York City.

MINUTE MYSTERY
By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem, which has only one possible solution, has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

SMASHING THE COUNTERFEIT RING.

Casually looking over the late evening edition of The Times-Herald in his hotel room in Dallas, Tex., Prof. Fordney noticed in the classified section of that date the following:

FOUND—AT 4:20 THIS AFTERNOON, IN RAILROAD STATION, LARGE BROWN ENVELOPE. OWNER MAY CLAIM SAME BY DESCRIBING VALUABLE CONTENTS. ADDRESS HARRY BIRCHMAN, 723 FIRST AVENUE.

Before turning in he mulled over the problem confronting him and the United States secret service working on the most puzzling counterfeit case in American history. Spurious money was being circulated in all parts of the country and as yet there was not really a lead.

Thursday found the criminologist in Louisville, Ky., and when he saw in Thursday's evening Herald-Post of that city an exactly similar advertisement, though with different signature and address, he felt that if luck held he might . . . !

Two days in Louisville proved fruitless, however, and then came certain information that took him to Boston. Over his after-dinner coffee in the Statler hotel there, he perused that evening's Boston Traveler and again found, in the classified section, the same identical ad. This time, though, it had been inserted by one William Fisher, 960 Commonwealth avenue.

Hastening to the phone he asked Secret Service Operator Drennan Holbrook to meet him at the above address.

This time they were not too late, and when confronted by Fordney with the mistake he had made, "Fisher" admitted being the "distributor" to the "pushers" of the gang. And thus, through his confession, was the largest counterfeiting ring in the country broken up.

WHAT GAVE THE PROFESSOR HIS CLEW?

[See solution on page 29.]

Music Brings Relaxation to Young Children

Phonograph Concert Often Ends Boredom.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

William Congreve, wise poet, said: "Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast."

Music surely does do things to people. In a certain factory different kinds of music were played while the operators worked, with interesting results as to speeding up, slowing, fatigue, etc. In a radio studio the other day the production manager said to a speaker, "Watch your time. That studio door won't close and if you hear the music you'll read faster and have time on your hands at the end."

Have you ever used the knowledge of the power of music with your children? Nursery schools and kindergartens do. This mother's letter may interest you:

"I would like to make a suggestion that other mothers may find useful. One day during the summer when the weather was hot and sultry and we were all on the 'ragged edge' from the heat and loss of sleep, I thought I'd try playing some records on an old phonograph we had in the summer cottage, just to see what effect the music would have on the children. The results were more than good. The rhythm quieted their nerves and the tunes raised their spirits and after an hour of Fritz Kreisler, John McCormack and light opera we were all much happier and the afternoon was saved!

"The two favorite records were 'In a Clock Store' and 'The Hunt in the Black Forest.' The latter was a particularly happy choice and my oldest little girl expressed her happiness in it first by singing, then by rocking in a rocking chair, at first slowly and gradually increasing her pace until she was practically galloping with the horses.

"I hope I haven't bored you with a long letter all about my children. They are the biggest interest in my life and I have had a lot of help and encouragement from your articles."

If you are rather at sea as to what music to introduce into your children's lives, you will be interested in our list of Song Books for Young Children. Incidentally, one of the booklets mentioned contains a list of records for young children for listening and for rhythm. A stamped, self-addressed envelope will bring this to you.

Chic Hats Worn Far Forward or at Back of Head

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The millinery that is worn in Paris with winter coats and furs does one of two things—it is either placed way forward on the head or slides way back. The small toque is the hat of the hour, and, as shown here, it does one of these things.

The toque at the top is from Jean Patou and is a gray antelope felt, fashioned slightly like a Dutch bonnet with wings over the ears and three box plaits along the top. A brown lace veil is worn with it and as you can see this hat is placed well on the head.

In the center is a draped toque from Maria Guy that does the opposite. It is pulled forward to make a sort of soft visor over the forehead. This hat is made of antelope felt.

At the bottom is a dinner hat from Le Monnier, a small velvet toque that is covered with feathers that are brought forward from back to front and end in swirls over the forehead.

The hat that is worn on the back of the head is, of course, the newer, but no more chic for sport wear.

Quilters Borrow Luxurious Beauty of Fragile Orchid

Orchid.

BY NANCY CABOT.

In answer to a number of requests for a quilt pattern featuring that symbol of luxurious beauty, the orchid, we offer the design pictured above. Lavender, of course, will be the favorite color for it, but we might take a hint from the horticulturists who have recently produced the flower in various other shades, notably yellow and green.

For a quilt pattern in this design send 5 cents in coin or stamps to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

ALWAYS GIVE A CHILD A LIQUID LAXATIVE

Some laxative that always works just right for you, may work havoc with a child.

The laxative habit can be contracted at the age of six.

The wrong laxative can give children chronic constipation before their tenth birthday.

You wouldn't give your youngster a powerful headache powder! You shouldn't give him a violent cathartic.

Parents Aroused At Last!

Doctors urge the use of a liquid laxative for children; preferably one with senna. A liquid laxative can be regulated as to dose. The natural laxative action of senna does not weaken the bowels.

Druggists report increasing demand for liquid laxatives. Mothers are rapidly discovering the advantage of the liquid form. Thousands of cases of ill-health—and half-health—in children are being cleared-up simply by stopping all use of laxatives of adult strength.

Don't Take Chances!

The preparation most favored for child use is California Syrup of Figs. It is a fruity syrup with the right amount of senna for gentle stimulation of a child's bowels. It gives the right kind of help.

If the bowels aren't moving regularly and thoroughly, don't give any medicine that drains the system dry. Give a liquid senna preparation like California Syrup of Figs. A little every day, and reduce the dose each day. At the end of one week—stop. You'll be surprised how long it will be before the bowels need any further help. It may be months.

Be sure you get the real California Syrup of Figs, with "California" on the label. If you get the right preparation, and use it the right way, you can absolutely end all worry over constant sluggish spells, bilious attacks, constipation.

All druggists keep California Syrup of Figs, ready for use. It is highly recommended for regulating children, and to undo the mischief done by habit-forming laxatives.

WATERWAY VIEW CALLED BETTER THAN RAIL PLAN

Extolled by Speaker at "Valley" Convention.

BY H. A. LAIRD.
[Traffic Manager, Chicago Tribune.]

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—At the fifteenth annual convention of the Mississippi Valley association here a little diversion from the usual explanations of the problems of the different sections of the valley was furnished by Theodore Brent, traffic counsellor of New Orleans, in his talk on regulation and tolls.

Mr. Brent did not adopt the view or try to convince his listeners that either were necessary or justifiable, but suggested that the codes of waterway operators furnished an opening for more reasonable rate regulations than the commission method adopted for regulation of railway rates.

He scoffed at the railway made plan to assess tolls on inland waterway traffic sufficiently high to maintain the canals and liquidate the cost of the projects as too obviously brought forward to utterly destroy competition. He thought that toll free waterways were and always had been justifiable, but that if a tonnage charge was to be exacted it should apply on all water borne tonnage, seaboard and great lakes as well as inland.

Nye and Markham Speak.

Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota and Maj. Gen. Edward M. Markham, chief of engineers, United States army, were the speakers at the informal banquet of the association that concluded the first day.

Congressman Chester Thompson, 14th district, Illinois, referred to the work of establishing a nine foot channel on the upper Mississippi as a dream come true. The territory drained by the river had been exploited to its fullest extent by eastern interests, but now that it could exist no longer with access to the sea, it was not to be abandoned, but the nation had and should expend the money to improve the river.

Both Congressman Edward R. Burke, 2d district, Nebraska, and President N. G. Robinson of Upper Missouri Valley Development association spoke on Missouri river projects.

Discusses Missouri River Plan.

Mr. Burke drew attention to the geographical fact that the Missouri was the main river, and not the branch, as it had been miscalled by early explorers. Perhaps the misnaming had had the effect of also fixing development as a branch or tributary, to follow the improvement of the main stream.

Congressman Claude V. Parsons, 24th district, Illinois, discussed the "unreasonableness" of opposition to waterway projects. "As an instance," said Mr. Parsons, "the railways insist that new projects shall be self-liquidating, that the traffic carried should bear tolls that would not only pay for maintenance, but amortization within a reasonable time. The twenty-six billions that were paid for railway construction have never been amortized and users of railway transportation are paying over and over again for that money through construction of freight rates."

Indorse War Engineers.

The report of the resolutions committee was unanimously adopted, reaffirming among other policies the completion of all projects now approved by the engineers of the war department, opposing rate regulation and completely revamping the St. Lawrence seaway treaty to protect the sovereignty of the United States over Lake Michigan and work for its citizens in the expenditure of funds.

NICHOLSON PLEA DENIED IN FIGHT TO WIN CHILDREN

Probate Judge John F. O'Connell yesterday denied a petition filed by Col. W. Fenton Nicholson of California, who sought to set aside an order of the court giving custody of his two children to their grandmother, Mrs. Mabel D. Carry of the Lake Shore Drive hotel, widow of the late Edward F. Carry, former president of the Pullman company.

The children, Edward Carry Nicholson, 14 years old, and Margaret, 8 years old, were awarded to the mother, Mrs. Ermina Carry Nicholson, four years ago by a Circuit court decree which divorced her and Col. Nicholson. Before her death on Jan. 16, 1932, Mrs. Nicholson got an order from the Probate court giving the custody of the children to Mrs. Carry.

After hearing Judge O'Connell's ruling, Col. Nicholson's attorney, Micheal Ahern, announced that his client would make application in the Circuit court to amend the divorce decree and that he would continue his efforts to gain custody of the children for the father.

FEAR NEW RULES HINDER CRIMINAL DEPORTATIONS

Two regulations recently promulgated by the commissioner of immigration and naturalization, which are expected to make more difficult the deportation of criminal aliens, were explained yesterday by Assistant United States Attorney Austin Hall.

The first of these regulations applies specifically to the reformatory at Pontiac, as well as similar institutions in other states, and provides that convictions shall not be made the ground of deportation when the sentences are to such reformatories. All classes of criminals are sent to the reformatory at Pontiac including persons convicted of murder, rape, arson, etc., up to the age of 26.

The second regulation applies to deportation cases against aliens who have been domiciled in this country more than five years, in which event two convictions of felonious crimes involving moral turpitude are necessary. If the alien has been here less than five years only one such conviction is necessary. Should an alien be convicted simultaneously of two felonies involving moral turpitude he could not be deported under the new regulations. The second conviction would have to follow the serving of a sentence on a prior conviction.

U. S. PLANES RUSH MEDICAL AID TO STRICKEN INDIANS

COLON, Canal Zone, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Two United States navy airplanes carrying doctors, a portable laboratory and medical supplies today left the air base at Coco Solo for the San Blas islands to aid in combating a mysterious malady reported to be killing Indian children in great numbers.

The San Blas region is isolated due to lack of roads and the severe squalls prevalent along the coast which impede navigation. Coöperation of the navy appears to be the only solution in effectively stopping the epidemic.

TEST BIG BERTHA OF ELECTRICITY; A 7,000,000 VOLT

Van De Graaff Generator Called a Success.

Round Hill, Mass., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Massachusetts Institute of Technology's long awaited test of the giant Van De Graaff generator, the big Bertha of electrical science, which is designed to smash the atom and greatly add to man's knowledge of matter and the universe, was passed successfully here this afternoon.

A 7,000,000 volt direct current bolt of man-made lightning split and crackled from the two giant aluminum cylinders which act as terminals of the generator and flashed between each other and to the roof and walls of the converted hangar which houses it on the estate of Col. E. H. R. Green on the shore of Buzzard's bay.

This first test, witnessed by a handful of distinguished scientists and the anxious designers and makers of the generator, more than fulfilled the hopes of physicists who believe that when it is in operation to its full capacity of 10,000,000 volts it will tear the veil from the innermost secrets of nature.

Inventor Satisfied.

The test was conducted by its inventor, Dr. Robert J. Van De Graaff of the research staff in physics at Technology, who has directed the construction of the generator and who was satisfied with results of the trials today. Dr. Karl Taylor Compton, president of the institute, flew here from Boston for the event and Vice president Van Nevar Bush was another interested spectator. The demonstration concluded experiments with this new type of direct current generation which Van De Graaff began in England years ago. Although conducted under adverse conditions today, the giant electrical siege gun proved that it will fulfill expectations and Technology's physicists will proceed with the task of harnessing its tremendous potential energy to the useful task of bombarding and disintegrating the atom.

Furious in Its Power.

The spectacle of a 7,000,000 volt bolt of lightning controlled within the relatively limited confines of the hangar was impressive in its brilliance and in the fury of its unleashed power as, for a half hour, Dr. Van De Graaff directed two assistants at the switches which augmented or decreased the electric display.

The giant aluminum terminals, each 15 feet in diameter, towering on their supporting insulated columns 25 feet above each base, became magic wands which spat out flaming streaks of blue, liquid fire; sometimes between each other in jagged lines, often to the steel beams or iron walls of the hangar itself.

Each sphere or terminal was fed an electric charge of about 3,500,000 volts by means of an endless belt which carried it from the ground and deposited it upon the polished surface of the globe.

Spectators Keep at Distance.

Uneasy as news men and even scientists must have felt, from a vantage point of distance, interest was divided between the lightning flashes and the technicians who operated the controls at the base of each column and the men inside each sphere, the centers of the electrical disturbance. Yet perhaps they were the least disturbed, but it was said in advance that they chose the safest places within the hangar.

Assisting Dr. Van De Graaff in the demonstration were Dr. L. C. Van Atta, and Dr. C. A. Van Atta, each at the base of a terminal, and, within the spheres, Dr. Edward W. Samsen and Doyle L. Northrup, all of the experimental staff.

While the demonstration was wholly gratifying to technology authorities, and spectacular from the standpoint of laymen who felt their hair stand on end, an even more complicated problem awaits the scientists who will put the siege gun to work on a number of definite physical problems which the lightning producer was built to help solve.

Joliet Girl, 4 Years Old Loses Life by Scalding

Clara Zilma Kovacik, 4 years old, was scalded yesterday when she fell into a tub of water at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Franck Kovacik, on Arthur avenue, Joliet. She died a few hours later. The child's mother had been washing and had left the tub on the kitchen floor.

MANSKE AND HECKER NAMED MOST VALUABLE

NAME DEVORE TO LEAD IRISH TEAM AGAINST ARMY

Cadet Eleven Holds Long Workout.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Hughey Devore was named captain of the Notre Dame football team today for next Saturday's game with Army at New York.

The move was significant in many ways, but particularly because with Devore as captain the Irish won their second game of the season from Indiana. The only other victory of the season, against Northwestern, was accomplished under the leadership of Tom Roach, Devore's running mate at right tackle.

To Name Season Captain.

A captain for this season will be elected Dec. 7 at the annual private team dinner at which monogram winners will be announced.

Devore, a native of Newark, N. J., has played hard, consistently fine football all fall, but his feats have been somewhat obscured by the failure of the strong Irish machine to score more points and more victories. Devore was outstanding in the Kansas game, he blocked two punts against Indiana, and he made several pass receptions in other games, notably two against Purdue which placed Notre Dame in scoring position before the attack crumpled.

Hero of 1932 Game.

He scored the second touchdown in the 21 to 0 victory over Army last year at New York, taking a 40 yard fourth down pass from Steve Banas to turn the trick. There is some doubt that Devore will be able to play Saturday, but it is believed that his injured side will heal enough to let him participate for at least a few plays in his final college game.

Today's practice witnessed a stiff scrimmage for the shock troops, while the varsity went through dummy scrimmage on both offense and defense against cadet formations.

ARMY IN LONG DRILL

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Army righted its goal posts which were blown down by the heavy gales of yesterday, pulled the tarpaulins off the frozen practice fields, and resumed its preparations for the Notre Dame game in a long workout on the plains this afternoon.

Kicking, passing, a dummy scrimmage against the scrubs, who were garbed in green jerseys simulating Notre Dame, and a speedy signal rehearsal made up the program. There was also a prolonged drill in fundamentals during the early period.

Three teams were in action, the varsity and reserve string players coming in for hard defensive drill. The varsity eleven was not extended, but the reservists had plenty of work to do.

Retain Navy Lineup.

Since there were no casualties in last week's game with the Navy, the West Pointers lined up as they started against the Middies and as they are expected to face Notre Dame. Koposak and Burlingame were the ends, Beall and Hutchison the tackles, Gooch and Jablonsky guards, Bucknam center, with Johnson, Buckler, Sebastian, and Stancook in the back field.

Anticipating a hard fight with the South Bend eleven and realizing that its full strength must be available throughout the whole of the coming encounter, special stress is being laid during these final hours of preparation on whipping the reservists into top form. But few substitutions were made by the Cadets during the Navy contest, but Army is overlooking no last minute detail in the development of its replacements for Saturday's game.

The first string substitutes lined up today with Edwards and Lawlor, ends; Miller and Winn, tackles; Brearly and Stillman, guards; Vincent, center, with Simons, Grove, Martz, True, King, and Nazzaro all being used in the back field. Both the varsity and reserve elevens viewed the Notre Dame attack today while the scrubs ran through the Hoosier plays.

Tomorrow the Cadets will brush up on their offense and then taper off on Thursday when the home field drills will end.

U. S. C. SCHEDULES OHIO STATE FOR 1937 AND 1938

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 28.—Southern California will make annual football appearances in the mid-west for the next five years, starting next autumn, it was said at the athletic offices today when confirmation of a two year home and home football agreement with Ohio State was confirmed. The games with the Buckeyes will be played here in 1937 and in Columbus in 1938.

The series with Ohio will begin at expiration of Southern California's two year agreement with Illinois, the first game being played here in 1935 and the second in Urbana in 1936. The Trojans go east to play Pittsburgh in 1934. In the meantime, Notre Dame will be played every year, alternately on the even numbered years in Los Angeles and odd years in South Bend.

THE GUMPS—FOILED AGAIN

In the WAKE of the NEWS

C. Y. O BOUTS.

FINAL bouts of the third annual Catholic Youth Organization boxing tourney will take place at the Chicago Stadium Friday night. Patterned in many respects after the successful Golden Gloves affairs, they bring together winners of the sectional tourneys into which the various parishes are divided. Likewise, spectators are assured clean, clever milling, with no stalling, for a reasonable admission fee. Profits go to the C. Y. O. athletic fund. Advance sale indicates a capacity house Friday night.

BISHOP SHEIL.

Because of a similarity of purpose, encouragement of amateur sport, C. Y. O. boxing sponsors always have extended cordial coöperation to the Golden Gloves events. Most of Friday night's winners will seek to earn dual titles later in the season. Similarly, many of the losers will endeavor to reverse the results against those who defeated them. So patrons of these finals will see many promising newcomers, who later may become members of the Chicagoland intercity and international Golden Gloves teams. Winners also represent Chicago in C. Y. O. in intersectional competition.

Four unusually promising boys will appear Friday night. Henry Fuscaldo is a stocky little Italian flyweight who has been boxing over two years and getting better. He reached the Golden Gloves quarter finals for two successive years. Charles Wozniak of Villa Park is favored to take the middleweight crown. He has twice been quarter finalist in Golden Gloves and Central A. A. U. tourneys, and was runnerup in the C. Y. O. last year.

Lightweight Phil Kenneally is described as greatly improved since being Central A. A. U. semi-finalist and Golden Gloves quarter finalist a year ago. John Scanovino will meet Andy Scrivania for 118 pound honors. He was runnerup in Central A. A. U. and Olympic tourneys in 1932. He lives in Braidwood. Scrivani scored the upset of the preliminary tourneys when he defeated Al Soukop, 1931 Golden Gloves flyweight champion, in the west side quarter finals.

The Catholic Youth Organization by no means confines its activities to boxing. It was founded in June, 1930, sponsored by Cardinal Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago. Its supervision was entrusted to Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, an untiring worker in its behalf. Its purpose was to provide attractive programs of activity for leisure hours of boys and young men in their own parish centers in close association with their priests.

Bishop Sheil once explained its planned activity. "We, like the colleges and universities, have nothing in mind but the physical, mental, and moral well-being of the boys and young men who join our organization. We are trying to bring the less favored groups some small part of the advantages which college men have in such abounding measure."

Nearly 25,000 boys and young men now are engaged in some branch of C. Y. O. athletic activity. About 10,000 are interested in the basketball league. Baseball attracts 6,000. Boxing has 2,000 participants. Golf, track, and swimming draw approximately 3,000 youngsters as entrants in the annual tourneys.

The C. Y. O. movement is perhaps one of the most significant developments in recent years, whereby a religious denomination recognizes sports and athletics to strengthen the interest and loyalty of its younger members.

CANADIENS LOSE, 4-1, TO MAROONS, BUT KEEP LEAD

Northcott Sets Pace with Two Goals.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Montreal's Maroons avenged last week's 5 to 0 beating tonight by whipping their local rivals, the Canadiens, 4 to 1, in the second intra-city clash of the National Hockey league season. The result reduced the Canadiens lead in the Canadian division to a single point over Toronto. The Maroons remained third.

The Maroons held the edge most of the way in the rough game. They scored in the first minute of play only to have the Canadiens tie the count late in the second period, then came through with a winning burst early in the final period. Baldy Northcott set the pace, scoring the first and last goals on passes from Hooley Smith.

LEAFS WIN, 7-3

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs defeated the New York Americans, 7 to 3, tonight and established a season scoring record. The triumph, while it put the Leafs one goal above the previous high score mark for the year, still left them a point behind the Montreal Canadiens in the Canadian division standing.

The Leafs did their scoring in two big bursts. They rammed in four successive goals in the first period after the Americans had taken a one goal lead, then scored three more inside of two minutes in the third period.

BOSTON BEATS OTTAWA

Boston, Mass., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Eddie Shore's goal in the last four minutes of play enabled the Boston Bruins to defeat the Ottawa Senators, 2 to 1, tonight. It was the Senator's seventh straight defeat and the sixth straight in which they lost by single goal.

Shore rushed at the Senator net with four of his mates trailing him. Shore, however, fought his way in back of the Ottawa net, pulled the puck away from Syd Howe and poked it out. It struck Goalie Bill Beveridge's skate and was deflected into the cage to decide the game.

No Coast Game for Princeton, Board Decides

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Citing a clause in the Yale-Princeton agreement of 1927 which forbids the playing of post-season contests, the board of control of the Princeton Athletic association announced today the undefeated Tiger eleven would not be available for selection as Stanford's opponent in the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena New Year's day.

The announcement came as a distinct surprise in view of the intimations from Princeton yesterday that any invitation to compete at Pasadena would receive serious consideration in the event the Tigers defeated Yale on Saturday.

Today, however, the board reaffirmed its policy against post-season games on the grounds that "a prolongation of the Princeton football season beyond its normal limits would not be for the best interests of the players or the sport at Princeton."

Since the majority of Princeton undergraduates are leaving town tomorrow for the Thanksgiving week-end 1,500 of them, accompanied by the band, went down to University field today and cheered the Tiger team as it ran through a hard practice in preparation for Saturday's contest with Yale at New Haven.

The regulars engaged in a 30 minute scrimmage against the scrubs.

JONES PREPS YALE.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Tad Jones, former Yale football coach, came back today to help his former pupil, now head coach, Reggie Root, lift the boys out of a rut of mediocre football for the Princeton game.

Tad, whose home is in New Haven, was at the field throughout the practice, taking an active part as the men worked on the attack, always a strong point of Jones coached teams.

No scrimmage all week was the order, as Capt. Bob Lassiter was still out with an injured leg. Bill Kessling did not work because of an infected toe, and Earl Nikkel, with a bandage over his eye, was ordered to take things easy.

CANNELL QUITS AS HEAD COACH AT DARTMOUTH

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Jackson L. Cannell resigned today as head coach of the Dartmouth football team in a one sentence letter to Harry R. Heneage, director of athletics.

The Dartmouth coach, whose football team closed a disastrous season with a 39 to 0 defeat by Chicago last Saturday, requested that his contract, which has a year to run, be terminated by the athletic council.

No action can be taken on Cannell's resignation until Dec. 17, when the athletic council meets, and the only comment in Hanover tonight was by Heneage, who made it clear that Cannell's action was entirely voluntary.

Rosenbloom and Chastain Battle to 10 Round Draw

NESBITT EAGER TO SHOW BEARS THEIR MISTAKE

Transfer to Cards Gives Him Chance to Do It.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Dick Nesbitt, who lost out this fall in the scramble for positions in the back field of the champion Chicago Bears, and who immediately obtained a regular job with the Bears' most bitter rivals, the Chicago Cardinals, may be one of the decisive factors in the city scrap tomorrow morning at Wrigley field.

It's no secret, of course, but Nesbitt was and is one of the best kickers in the pro-football league. He's much better at this task than any one on the Bear squad, but Coach George Halas, in releasing Nesbitt, decided he needed more than a kicker, and, in fact, would sacrifice kicking in favor of long distance passing by Bull Doehring, running by Gene Ronzani, a new player, and blocking by George Corbett and Johnny Sisk.

Kicking May Repulse Bears.

So it happens tomorrow that Nesbitt, with his long kicks, one of which traveled 82 yards from the line of scrimmage in the Cardinal-Green Bay game, may protect his goal line better than a dozen defensive full backs, and at least, he should outgain the Bears. Moreover, Nesbitt, since leaving the Bears, has been playing excellent football at full back and has been more effective as a ball carrier than the half backs.

Nesbitt's case is indicative of the Cardinals' desire to win. Several others Cardinals also have seen service with the north siders, in particular Gil Bergerson, a guard, and a victory over the Bears is more to be desired than a contract for 1934, which incidentally may be one way to get a new contract.

Lillard Causes Worry.

Long distance kicking is only half of the story of punting. The length of the gain depends on the ability of the receiver, and while Keith Molesworth has been one of the most elusive receivers of kicks this season, the Cards have Joe Lillard, who trotted back one of the Bears' punts this fall for a touchdown. If Lillard can't repeat this touchdown run it'll be because Bill Hewitt and Bill Karr, the Bears' ends, are down the field as fast as they were last Sunday when Glen Presnell of Portsmouth was the punt receiver.

Both teams will finish their preliminary workouts this morning. In preparation, the Cards have the advantage of a 10 day rest, but the Bears will have their full strength, although some of the boys may be a bit tired from Sunday's exertions.

Koken Improves Aerial Attack.

The Cards will be outweighed in the line, but few pro games are decided on brute strength. Forward passing is likely to be more important and since the Cards have used Mike Koken to throw the ball they have done better through the air than at any other time.

The Bears need a victory over the Cardinals if they wish to be assured of a tie, which status will be consoling when they go to Portsmouth Sunday for their third game in eight days. The Bears have had difficulty winning away from Wrigley field, and Portsmouth is as potent on home soil as the Bears are on Chicago's north side.

Passes Difficult to Stop.

Short forward passes are the most difficult of all passes to stop under the professional rule which permits the passer to throw from any point back of the scrimmage line. While Portsmouth connected for only one long gain last Sunday, a touchdown pass good for 55 yards, including the run, the Spartans completed 12 of their 24 passes. On all other passes the receiver was covered when he caught the ball, but the Cardinals, it is said, expect to confine their offensive to passes, and with the hope that they have as much success as Portsmouth.

The game will start at 11 o'clock.

Blue Ribbon Sextet Wins, 2 to 1; Ties for Lead

The Blue Ribbon sextet went into a three way tie for first place in the Chicago Amateur Hockey league by defeating the Butterfingers, 2 to 1, last night at the Coliseum. Sharing first place with Blue Ribbons are the Butterfingers and the Baby Ruths.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

THE proposed merger of Northwestern and the University of Chicago might do the football teams of both schools some good. The Wildcats could use a back like Berwanger and that Northwestern line would help the Maroon backs. . . . But imagine a dyed-in-the-wool Northwestern man rising to his feet to sing "Wave the Flag for Old Chicago," or a Chicago grad singing "Go U Northwestern." . . . Add Americans who do not know much about the national anthem: the gent who plays it on the stadium pipe organ just before the opening face-off of each hockey game. . . . Father Lumpkin, a native of Georgia, in the Portsmouth back field against the Bears Sunday without the protecting warmth of socks or headgear, but he wore gloves throughout the game. . . .

JAY BERWANGER.

Notre Dame went from 1905 to 1928 without losing a game on its home football field. . . . This year the team hasn't scored a point on its own turf. . . . Mrs. Boots Weber, wife of the Cubs' new treasurer, writes him every day there is a quake in Long Beach, Cal. . . . Boots got three letters last week. . . . Eddie Dowling had 'em rolling off the chairs with his Irish jokes at Art Haley's party in South Bend after the Southern California game. . . . Joe E. Brown was filling a similar rôle at Vincent Bendix's. . . . Johnny Sheppard, picked up by the Blackhawks as a free agent after the Boston Bruins had given him his unconditional release, helped the Hawks defeat his former mates Sunday night. . . . No one was more pleased with the outcome than Johnny. . . .

If you enjoy real, honest to goodness boxing and at the same time want to help along one of the finest organizations in amateur sport, you should attend the championship bouts of the Catholic Youth Organization at the Stadium Friday night. . . . It will be your first glimpse at some of next year's Golden Gloves talent. . . . Brad Robinson, who played on the Minnesota football and basketball teams until his graduation last June, is a radio announcer for WCCO, Minneapolis. . . . Red Dunn was in the press box at Minnesota Saturday scouting Wisconsin, which will be Marquette's opening opponent next fall. . . . Laws of Iowa, Everhardus and Bernard of Michigan, Riley of Northwestern and Lukats of Notre Dame are being considered for the all-star eastern team which Dick Hanley will take to San Francisco for the annual Shrine benefit game on New Year's day. . . .

George Kirksey of the United Press has found the world's meanest man. . . . He lives on the coast and George met him in Honolulu last summer. . . . He made some disparaging remarks about the calibre of midwest football and offered to bet $100 that Southern California would whip Notre Dame. . . . The wager was taken and last Friday, after Notre Dame had lost four games, the gent wired Kirksey to make sure the bet still was on. . . . Señor Harry Neily, one of the most widely known baseball authors in America, who owns a maple grove near Bryan, O., is visiting in the city. . . . The señor predicts a bumper crop if the government doesn't make him plow under his trees before the sap begins to run. . . .

Regeczi of Michigan caught his own punt in the Northwestern game. . . . He kicked into the wind and the ball traveled only 20 yards. . . . It hit the ground and bounced back, Regeczi catching it almost from the spot where he kicked originally. . . . Coach Zuppke sent his assistant, Wendell Wilson, to South Bend Saturday to look over Southern California, which will appear on the Illinois schedule in 1935. . . . From St. Louis comes word that Branch Rickey is the man the Cubs will have to talk to if they want to buy Chick Hafey. . . . Though Hafey ostensibly has been the property of the Cincinnati Reds for two years, the Cardinals have a big plaster on Chick's hide, according to Mound City advices. . . . The mortgage on Hafey variously is estimated at from $45,000 to $60,000. . . .

The Trojans will be champions of the Pacific coast conference if they defeat Washington Dec. 9, according to the Frank G. Dickinson rating system. . . . Joe Cayosie, Ironwood, Mich., brother of the Portsmouth Spartan,

PURDUE PICKS BACK FIELD MAN; N. U. HONORS END

Qualify for Tribune Trophy.

Honor Roll

PLAYERS selected to date as the most valuable to their team during the 1933 season, qualifying them for The Tribune's silver football awarded each year to the man judged the most valuable in the Big Ten, are:

PURDUE—Fred Hecker, full back.
NORTHWESTERN—Edgar Manske, end.
ILLINOIS—Dave Cook, full back.
MICHIGAN—Herman Everhardus, half back.

Edgar [Eggs] Manske of Nekoosa, Wis., for three years a regular end on Northwestern university's football team, was named by his teammates yesterday as the most valuable player on the 1933 squad. He thus becomes eligible for the silver football awarded each year by THE TRIBUNE to the Big Ten player who is most valuable to his team. Each player named by his team will receive a white gold football watch charm.

The nomination of Manske was a popular one, both on the part of the players who unanimously concurred in his selection and by the student body and Northwestern followers. His spectacular playing this year provided a pleasing interlude to an otherwise disappointing season.

By his brilliant defensive and offensive play, Manske takes rank with the greatest ends in Northwestern's football history which include such outstanding performers as Waldo Fisher, Frank Baker, Luke Johnsos, Larry Oliphant, and Dick Fencl.

Fans Like Him.

Coach Dick Hanley characterized Manske as one of the finest players he ever coached. He was outstanding as a blocker, tackler, and forward pass receiver. He played a smashing style of game and to his credit it must be said he was seldom outguessed or outmaneuvered. His brilliant tackling played a prominent rôle in the excellent defensive record compiled by Northwestern.

Manske was popular with fans. He usually played without a headgear and his shock of platinum hair made him a dominant figure on the field. He was the iron man of the Wildcat eleven this season, playing every minute of the Ohio, Minnesota, Illinois and Notre Dame games, and all but two minutes of the Michigan game. He is credited with having played the greatest game of his career against the Wolverines.

Plays Regular Immediately.

He broke into the lineup as a regular in his sophomore year in the second game of the season against Notre Dame at Soldiers' field. That season he formed a great passing combination with Pug Rentner. This aerial success paved the way to the championship in 1931.

Last year Manske scored five touchdowns on passes, two in the Missouri and Iowa games and one in the Illinois game. He also caught a long pass from Rentner in the Purdue game which placed the Wildcats in a position to score the tying touchdown in the final minutes of play.

HECKER IS VETERAN

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Fred Hecker, the workhorse of Purdue's great backfield of the last three seasons, who was shifted to full back a great part of this year in order to take full advantage of his exceptional blocking ability, was named the team's most valuable player tonight.

Carl Heldt of Evansville, 198 pound left tackle, was elected captain of the 1934 squad by letter men at the same time. Heldt, a junior in the school of science, has been rated almost on a par with Capt. Dutch Fehring.

A terrific tackler on defense in backing up the line, Hecker has excited the admiration of every knowing football man for his remarkably consistent play not only on defense but on offense.

Passes Go for Scores.

Offensively, Hecker's passing, blocking, and ball carrying has been one of the main factors in enabling Purdue to set its remarkable 4.37 average gain on running plays from scrimmage for the entire season. His accurate forward passing provided Purdue with one of its most dangerous threats. Two perfect throws for 35 and 50 yards by Hecker scored against Notre Dame. Among his other leading efforts was the pass to Duane Purvis that scored against Wisconsin.

His exceptional blocking has been largely responsible for making it possible for Purvis and Jim Carter to break away on their long touchdown jaunts, while as a line smasher he was an unusually dependable ball carrier. During his first two years of competition, when he performed at half back, he averaged nearly five yards per attempt on running plays, and although he sacrificed many chances for long gains as a full back this season he averaged nearly three yards during the year.

Hecker is a senior and during his three years of competition he has played in only two losing ball games in 26 starts. He is 23 years of age, weighs 185 pounds, and is 6 feet tall. His home is in Houston, Tex.

A. A. U. MEETS TO DISCUSS BOXING CHANGES TODAY

New Ring Rules Already in Effect.

The boxing and registration committees of the Central A. A. U. will meet today to discuss the new rules adopted by the National A. A. U. at its annual convention at Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 19, 21, and 22. The boxing and basketball rules went into effect immediately after their adoption. The others become effective on Jan. 1, 1934. New boxing rules follow:

1. All bouts must be sanctioned, except when they are presented by a club which is a member of the A. A. U. and the entries are confined to members of the club, such contests to be held in their own arena.

2. At the discretion of the registration committee sanctions may be issued as follows: A—Bouts not to exceed five rounds of two minutes each, with one minute rest between rounds; B—Three rounds, not to exceed three minutes each, with one minute rest; C—Tournament boxing, wherein four, six, eight, or more boxers in same weight may draw to box each other.

3. The rule banning matched bouts has been stricken out of the records. This type of match will be left to the discretion of the association.

4. At national tournaments there shall be matches at three rounds of three minutes each with a minute rest period.

5. There will be not less than four tournament contests, two matched bouts of three rounds at three minutes each and two matched encounters of five rounds at two minutes for weekly shows.

6. Gloves must weigh not less than eight ounces in all classes under 160 pounds and not less than ten ounces in all divisions over 160 pounds.

7—A boxer who permits any one other than an officer of the club which he is entitled to represent to make arrangements for a bout shall render himself ineligible for further amateur competition.

King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, has accepted terms for a 10 round bout with Don McCorkindale of Great Britain at the Chicago Stadium, Dec. 29, it was announced yesterday. McCorkindale previously had agreed to the match. The Stadium expects signed contracts from both principals within the next few days.

Fans probably will see amateur bouts at more than three rounds for the first time in more than a year at the Stadium Friday when C. Y. O. finalists will compete for the annual championships. The Rev. Louis Kroeck, director of the Holy Name society and the Catholic Youth organization, has announced that the eight class A matches will be three rounds at two minutes each with the provision that if a draw is declared the contestants must go an additional two minutes, making four rounds in all.

Henry Rothier, welterweight, will make 146 pounds for Eddie Chinski in a six round meeting Friday at the Rainbo Fronton. Chinski expects to weigh about six pounds less. Art Donovan, Joliet, Ill., junior welterweight, and Pete Verri, Chicago, have signed to meet at four rounds.

Danny Delmont and Al De Rose, local fighters, are training for matches at South Bend, Ind., Saturday. Delmont faces Eddie Koppy, Detroit, and De Rose clashes with George Van der Hayden, who will be making his professional debut. . . . Izzy Lubansky, 140 pounds, trained yesterday for the first time since he broke his arm against Mickey Joy at Northwest stadium three months ago. . . . A show is scheduled at Arcadia Garden next Wednesday.

Champion Barney Ross and his handlers, Sam Pian, Art Winch and Izzy Kline, left yesterday for New York, where Ross meets Billy Petrolle in a nontitle match Dec. 6. Davey Day, booked to box on the card, will be unable to appear due to an attack of lumbago.

Roy Williams, south side middleweight, will appear before the Illinois boxing commission Monday to post a challenge forfeit for bouts with any boxer at his weight. He contends that his recent defeats of Sammy [Kid] Slaughter and Frankie Battaglia have made it difficult for him to obtain matches.

A professional show will be presented at Community Recreation center on Dec. 13 by Gene Harrison . . . Moss T. Brawner and Frank Ketter, heavyweights, are paired for four rounds on the Dick Sisk-Jacquotte Elverrillo card at Cicero stadium Dec. 8. . . . Leo Rodak goes to the northern woods of Wisconsin Monday for a week's hunting trip.

Eight amateur bouts will be held tonight at Lawndale gymnasium, 3950 26th street. Frank Beran boxes Jimmy Ryan in a lightweight bout.

Harriman Is Re-elected by Trotting Horse Club

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—E. Roland Harriman of New York City tonight was reelected president of the Trotting Horse Club of America at its annual meeting held to discuss plans for the 1934 racing season. Dr. Ogden M. Edwards of Pittsburgh again was named vice president, John L. Dodge, Lexington, Ky., secretary, and David M. Look, New York City, treasurer.

Three Candidates Left as Stadium Foes for Londos

An opponent for Jim Londos, heavyweight wrestling title claimant, for the windup bout at the Chicago Stadium Dec. 13 will be named by Saturday, it was announced yesterday. The field of five wrestlers who were eligible to oppose Londos has been narrowed down to Everett Marshall, Ray Steele, and Dick Shikat.

Notre Dame Hall Eleven to Play in Charity Game

CHICAGOAN PAYS $6,800 TOP FOR TROTTER AT SALE

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—In a lively bidding duel E. Kenney of Chicago today paid the top price of $6,800 for Lawrence Hanover, a yearling trotter at the opening of the 39th Old Glory horse sale in squadron "A" armory.

The bay son of Peter Volo, a full brother of four speedy trotters, including Hanover's Bertha, holder of the world's record of 1:59½ for 3 year old fillies, was consigned to the sale by L. B. Sheppard of Hanover, Pa.

William J. Cane, master of the Good Time stable, of Goshen, N. Y., made an attempt to get the promising colt, bidding $6,700. He was topped by the Chicago sportsman, however, who entered the bidding at $3,500 and sent the price bounding rapidly upwards.

Chicagoans Lead Illini Soccer, Harrier Teams

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Jacques Dufresne of Chicago tonight was elected captain of the 1934 University of Illinois cross country team, and Philip Cohn, another Chicagoan, was selected to lead next year's soccer team. Dufresne is a former Senn High athlete, while Cohn came to Illinois from Crane High.

Chicstraw Wins at Bowie by a Length

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—The last stake race for 2 year olds this year, the twelfth endurance handicap, resulted in the victory at Bowie today of George D. Widener's Chicstraw, which at Pimlico had won the Pimlico handicap and the Walden, the two best races for juveniles. Chicstraw thus goes into winter quarters the leading 2 year old of the east, if not of the country.

Time Clock Is Second.

The Brookmeade stable's Time Clock was second, beaten by a length. Four lengths back William Zeigler's Bonanza was third, and the J. J. Moran's Cohort Miss, double winner here, was fourth. She was coupled with Propagandist.

Donald Meade had the mount on Chicstraw and he sent the son of Chicle-Last Straw to the front from the gate and kept the lead for a mile and seventy yards, which he covered in 1:45 3-5. The winner was odds-on favorite, paying only $3.20.

Bonanza got up close at the turn into the stretch, but this was only a signal for Chicstraw to draw away. In the stretch Time Clock moved up fast to place, while Bonanza was quitting. Cohort Miss had no excuse and did not run her best race. There were 8,000 at the track.

Pencader Wins Easily.

Pencader, with L. Humphries up, won the fourth race easily, beating Waterway by two lengths, with Renaissance third.

LETOURNER AND PEDEN TIE FOR BIKE RACE LEAD

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Alf Letourner of France and William [Torchy] Peden of Victoria, B. C., had pedaled their way into a triple tie for the lead in Madison Square Garden's six day bike race at 10 p. m. tonight.

After 49 hours of riding the leaders had covered 866 miles 9 laps, with Peden and Letourner, Tino Reboli and Dave Lands, and Jimmy Walthour and George Dempsey two laps ahead of their nearest rivals, Norman Hill and Gerard Debaets.

A crowd of 13,000 saw numerous jams during the evening. Maurice Deschamps, newcomer from France, suffered his fifth spill of the race, but was able to continue after his bruises and cuts had been patched up anew. Standing:

ERSKINE ENDS CAREER BECAUSE OF LEG INJURY

Ottumwa, Ia., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Robert Erskine, University of Southern California tackle, said today his football playing days with the Trojans are over. A knee injury sustained in the St. Mary's game several weeks ago will prevent him from completing the season with the Trojans.

Erskine came east with the team for the Notre Dame game last Saturday, but did not play. He stopped off in Ottumwa for a short visit with his parents, and will leave Wednesday to resume his study at U. S. C.

Women's Field Hockey Meet Opens Today

Fifty-six of America's outstanding women's field hockey players will arrive at the Union station at 8:35 a. m. today to take part in the national women's tournament, which will begin less than three hours later at Dyche stadium in Evanston. The first of the day's three games will begin at 11 o'clock, with the northeast No. 2 team meeting the central west team. Following a luncheon in Evanston, two more games will be played, the northeast No. 1 and Great Lakes teams meeting at 1:30 p. m., and the United States touring team and southeast teams battling at 2:45 p. m.

The United States touring team is attracting the most attention of the visiting aggregations because of its record on tour in Europe during the summer. It emerged undefeated from the international tournament at Copenhagen, and in addition to defeating the German Nazi team at Berlin, won eight out of nine matches on the continent. The United States players also defeated an English team. It was the first time in thirty years that an American team had won from the Britons.

The Chicago district will be well represented in the national tournament, which will continue through Saturday, by the central west and Great Lakes teams. The Central West team will include eight north shore players, while as many south side girls will be on the Great Lakes team.

The schedule of the tournament after today follows:

Tomorrow—10:30 a. m., Midwest vs. Great Lakes; 11:45 a. m., Northeast No. 1 vs. United States touring team; 2:45 p. m., Northeast No. 2 vs. Southeast.

Friday—11 a. m., Northeast No. 2 vs. Great Lakes; 1:30 p. m., United States touring team vs. Midwest; 2:45 p. m., Northeast No. 1 vs. Southeast.

Saturday—2:45 p. m., Chicago High School Girls vs. North Shore High School Girls; 1933 United States All-Stars vs. Reserves.

WHEN MALLARDS BECOME SHY TRY JUMP SHOOTING

There's Thrill in Plunging Into Marsh After 'Em.

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cuba Island, Saldora, Ill., Nov. 28.—One duck hunter who frequents this Illinois river hunting section wisecracked a few days ago that on certain days the mallards get too smart because they feed on smartweed and then refuse to come anywhere near a blind, especially on a balmy, soft morning which is more suitable for fishing than hunting.

But there is a cure for this situation if you are hunting close to flooded timber in the lowlands. When the foxy mallards won't visit you there is nothing like invading the flooded woods and taking a whirl at the game of jump shooting.

Exacting What Name Implies.

Jump shooting, as every marsh hunter knows, is just what the phrase implies. A fellow takes his gun and shells and goes into the marsh or flooded timber where there are a thousand unseen, submerged branches, half decayed logs, and tricky holes to upset you. But in this sort of habitat the mallards are at home and it's a circus to jump them among the standing gray ghosts of trees that have died because of the high water.

The other morning Jim Offield of Chicago, one of our hunting partners on this invasion of mallardland, slipped out of the blind and tried his hand at the game of jump shooting. We were in a small low grass blind in the middle of a marsh, when suddenly we heard a 12-gauge gun whamming away in the timber behind us. Jumping up, we looked back at the scene of the racket just in time to see mallards dropping and dead, fragile branches being clipped from the trees by the shots. It was Jim, jumping birds ahead of him as he slowly walked through the woods. He picked up four mallards by this simple yet arduous method at a time when the sun was shinging bright and no birds were moving.

Danger of Cold Bath.

Except for the hard walking this sport is about as much fun as any duck hunter could ask for. But the mud, water, and slippery logs which cover the floor of the flooded timber give one no quarter. Every step has to be negotiated with extreme care. One misstep or one small branch may set you down in the cold water. Offield came back from his offensive with the report that he had stepped into a hole up to his waist, thus spilling a couple of buckets of water into his boots.

SOX ATTENDANCE JUMPS 100,000 OVER LAST YEAR

Gain Due to Showing in First Half of Season.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

J. Lou Comiskey, president of the White Sox, yesterday announced that attendance figures at Comiskey park last season had jumped 100,000 over the 1932 totals.

Most of the gain was experienced during the first half of the season, while the White Sox were in the first division and showing high promise of finishing third in the American league.

The Sox went into a nose dive in mid-July, the feature of which was a nine game losing streak. The attendance at Comiskey park thereafter suffered and the daily turnout leveled off to approximately the same showing as that in the entire 1932 season.

He'll Spend More Cash.

The difference of the attractiveness of the team winning, as compared with the outfit losing, while no revelation to Mr. Comiskey, increased his determination to spend money this winter in the hope that the team can be made to perform all year as effectively as it did in April, May, and June this year.

Cash, according to the Sox boss, is the tender he expects to get the greatest results during the major league meetings here next month.

"We have several players who would strengthen other teams in the league, and we would not be adverse to using them in trades," said Mr. Comiskey. "I do not figure, however, that we can build up the team to our specifications by giving up any one we think will help establish our success."

"Cash got us Al Simmons, Jimmy Dykes, and Mule Haas without any player considerations, and I believe the deal was a happy one for all concerned. More cash is available and will be spent, if possible, with a view of having it come home multiplied in the form of increased patronage."

Fair Hurt Week-End Crowds.

It is said that the Fair did not help baseball as much as expected, and in some cases, according to the survey department, attendance was greatly hurt at Saturday and Sunday games, which normally would have attracted much larger crowds. Persons who attended special days at the Fair were lured away from the ball park, according to official reasoning and observations.

In further discussing the negotiations for Pitcher George Earnshaw of the Athletics Mr. Comiskey gave the rumorsmiths some further idea germs in his continued references to other star players for whom he is dickering.

While said rumorsmiths long ago "sold" Catcher Mickey Cochrane to the Detroit Tigers on the prospect of his being appointed manager, the deal never has been confirmed. The White Sox are known to be red hot after a hitting catcher. Cochrane might be the man.

RADIX HEADS NEW DISTRICT GOLF TICKET

The official 1934 ticket for the Chicago District Golf association, which will hold its annual meeting and banquet at the Chicago Athletic association on Dec. 8, was announced yesterday. The ticket is headed by the following officers: Harry E. Radix of Oak Park, who is completing his first year as president of the association; Walter G. Leininger of Westward Ho, vice president; A. W. Hale of Medinah, treasurer; and Joseph G. Davis of Acacia, secretary.

The ticket was arranged by a nominating committee composed of John McKinlay Jr. of Beverly, George W. Blossom Jr. of Onwentsia, and Norman C. Naylor of Glen View, a trio which will serve in the same capacity next year.

Nominees as representatives of the association's various district's follow:

District south—Harry H. Field, Idlewild; F. M. Warden, Midlothian; Carl H. Smith, Olympia Fields, and William T. Woodson, Flossmoor.

District west—Waldo B. Ames, Brookwood; Reese Clifford, Edgewood Valley; Fred W. Harlow, Ridgemoor, and Dr. Roscoe W. Upp, Glen Oak.

District north—John H. McIlvaine, Onwentsia; Carlton A. Smith, Rolling Green; C. D. Wagstaff, Kildeer; and C. F. Yegre, Glen View.

NORTH CENTRAL AWARDS LETTERS TO 19 PLAYERS

Gold footballs were awarded to 19 letter men at a banquet for the undefeated North Central college football team last night at Naperville. Co-Capt. Adolph Dillon was named by his team mates as the most valuable player and received a silver football presented by Coach Fisher and Dr. Edward Moser.

Gordon Smith, quarter back, of Aurora, Ill., and Clarence Erickson, tackle from Norway, Mich., were elected 1934 co-captains.

About 150 were present, including many alumni and former stars. Wilfrid Smith of THE TRIBUNE was the speaker.

SMITH DEFEATS COWBOY ACKLEY ON ARCADIA MAT

Jack Smith, Chicago heavyweight, pinned Cowboy Ackley of Texas in 21:57 in the main match of a wrestling show featuring Chicago contestants at the Arcadia gardens last night. Smith used a series of headlocks, followed by a bodyslam.

In the semi-windup Karol Zbyszko, west side wrestler, scored a decision over Joe Wolf in 30 minutes. Rudy Hoffman and George Mack drew in 20 minutes. Other results:

Jim Laird threw Angelo Lorenzo with a bodyslam in 8:43.

Gus Clem threw John Yaskowitch with a bodyslam in 15:40.

Zack Malkov threw Phil Grueber with a body slam in 16:10.

Hyde Park Prep Eleven to Play Pekin Tomorrow

Pekin, Ill., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Hyde Park High school of Chicago will play Pekin here Thanksgiving for the second straight year. Last season the teams played a 6-6 tie.

MOON MULLINS—THIS SOUNDS A BIT FISHY

Indiana Picks Weir to Lead Varsity Five

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Woodrow Weir of Scottsburg, for the last two seasons a guard and forward on the Indiana university basketball team, tonight was elected captain for the 1933-34 season by his teammates. The schedule opens here next Tuesday against Franklin.

Weir won letters both in his sophomore and junior years. Last season he suffered from an injured knee during a large part of the campaign, but recovered at the end of the season to score 70 points and lead a comeback, which was climaxed by the 40 to 26 victory over Ohio State, the Big Ten champions.

This season Weir's leg seems to be in shape.

IOWA OPENS SATURDAY.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—The University of Iowa basketball team will open its 1933-'34 season here Saturday against James Millikin university of Decatur, Ill.

The Hawkeyes will start the season rated as prominent contenders for the Big Ten title. Coach Rollie Williams has six of the seven major letter winners from the Hawkeye 1932-'33 team, which tied for third in the conference.

Included among the veterans are the diminutive but stellar guards, John Grim, Iowa City; and Ben Selzer, Passaic, N. J., both of whom received all-conference mention last year. Selzer was selected to the first Big Ten team while Grim was on the second honorary quintet.

At one of the forward positions, Ivan Blackmer, rangy junior, appears certain to start after his reinstatement by the Western conference. Blackmer was outstanding in the early games last season but was made ineligible before the Big Ten competition started.

Howard Moffitt, senior and fourth high scorer of the conference in 1931, and John Barko, junior, will compete for the other vacancy.

Howard Bastian, 6 foot 5 inch veteran, probably will remain at center.

MICHIGAN MEETS TEACHERS.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Western State Teachers basketball squad has been hit by injury for the first time prior to a University of Michigan game, an ankle injury to Edward Huttenga probably having robbed Coach Buck Read of his outstanding candidate for the vacant forward position on the team.

Ben Leavin is regarded as certain to start at one forward and the other now seems to be a race between George Miller, Detroit, and Lester Binkley, Fremont, O., with Miller probably having the edge to start against Micigan in the opener Monday night. John Miller, and Co-captain Leiphan will be at the guards and a third veteran, Co-captain Perrigo, at center.

N. U. MEETS BRADLEY.

Northwestern will open its basketball season Monday night at Patten gymnasium against Bradley Tech of Peoria. The first of a two game series with Notre Dame will be played Dec. 9 at Notre Dame.

Coach Dutch Lonborg is faced with the task of rebuilding his quintet after losing Joe Reiff and Elmer Johnson, last year's stars. This pair placed first and second in the Big Ten scoring column a year ago.

Four lettermen are candidates for the 1933-'34 team. They are the co-captains, Don Brewer, forward, and Nellie Culver, guard; Ed Manske, guard, and Milt Rosenfeld, forward. Lyle Fisher, a reserve last year, is the leading candidate for the center position, while Irwin Kopecky, tackle on the football team, is counted on to replace Reiff at a forward position. The schedule:

Dec. 4, Bradley at Evanston; Dec. 9, Notre Dame at South Bend; Dec. 12, Marquette at Milwaukee; Dec. 16, Pittsburgh at Evanston; Dec. 21, Nebraska at Evanston; Dec. 30, Notre Dame at Evanston; Jan. 6, Iowa at Iowa; Jan. 8, Minnesota at Evanston; Jan. 13, Ohio at Columbus; Jan. 15, Michigan at Evanston; Jan. 20, Illinois at Champaign; Jan. 22, Ohio at Evanston; Jan. 27, Minnesota at Minneapolis; Feb. 5, Wabash at Evanston; Feb. 10, Chicago at Evanston; Feb. 12, Iowa at Evanston; Feb. 19, Illinois at Evanston; Feb. 26, Michigan at Ann Arbor; March 3, Chicago at Chicago.

INDIANA DENIES SEEKING WADE FOR HEAD COACH

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—The rumor that Indiana university may sign Wallace Wade, football coach at Duke university, to direct the Hoosier eleven was denied emphatically by athletic officials here tonight. Dr. W. J. Moenkhaus, chairman of the university athletic board, said it was the first he had heard of the report and that it is false. Prof. C. J. Sembower, another member of the board, joined Moenkhaus in declaring that the rumor was without foundation. Athletic Director Z. J. Clevenger was out of the city and could not be reached for a statement.

Coach E. C. Hayes, despite a rather disappointing season, will be retained as football coach next year, those in authority believe.

Arizmendi Defeats Shea in 10 Round Coast Bout

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Baby Arizmendi hammered out a ten round decision over the veteran Eddie Shea of Chicago before 5,500 tonight. The Mexican weighed 129½ and Shea came in a pound lighter.

"MIX 'EM UP" IS DOAN'S RULE FOR BASKETBALL FIVE

So Women Stars Join Men to Form Novel Team

There are men who lie awake at night and nibble their fingernails by day while they ponder the possibilities of introducing new thrills in sports. They think of pogo-stick tournaments, rope-skipping contests, one-legged swimming meets, sewing bees, and the like, but they do not consider ordinary entries for these events. They would like to sign heavyweight wrestlers for the pogo-jumping, fat women for the rope-skipping, one-legged midgets for the swimming, and sailors for the sewing. They reason that incongruity is a drawing card, and unprecedented contests an attraction.

Mr. Ray Doan is particularly fruitful in astonishing ideas. Mr. Doan, you will recall, is the gentleman who believes a bewhiskered basketball team will draw customers like molasses draws flies. His idea is doubly crafty. In the first place, a young man yearns for a beard but is too timid to develop one. A beard, to a youngster, is final and conclusive evidence of manhood, and if he is encouraged to grow one, and receives pay for doing it, he feels bound by more than hirsute ties to the gentleman who encourages him. Again, customers will always pay to see people who defy conventions.

Then Mr. Doan Uncovers a Real Idea.

After Mr. Dolan decided upon this innovation he came up with another idea. His new notion was to organize a basketball team consisting of star men and women players. Babe Didrikson, Jackie Mitchell, and other outstanding athletic young women, he decided, would draw well if they played with a mixed team.

Mr. Doan leaned back and let his imagination run on. Five male and female stars on one team! Five? That would be unequal; evidently he would have to favor men or women, because whole numbers do not divide into five evenly. However, that matter could be threshed out later. In the meantime he would develop his idea.

A careful search of history's tomes reveals that the idea is not so new, after all. The Amazons, for example, were ladies who never battled with their own sex at all. They concentrated their warlike activities on men and took great pleasure in beating them at their own games, such as running, spearing, shooting, and decapitating.

Those Russian Girls Were Rather Tough, Too.

In Russia the Battalion of Death was made up of handsome young peasant girls, all of whom weighed close to 200 pounds, and wore faces grim enough to strike terror into the heart of a Turk.

This mixed basketball team, though, will be new to Americans. Who will play against them? That's easy. Mr. Doan will just let inspiration guide him.

SHAMROCKS AND DE PAUL U. STARS CLASH TONIGHT

The Chicago Shamrocks tonight will play the De Paul university all-stars in an indoor football game at the 124th field artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue. The game will start at 8:15 o'clock. The De Paul team is composed almost entirely of athletes who carried the Blue Demons to an undefeated season among the collegiate elevens, in addition to five of last year's regulars.

Capt. Marty Stadler will team with Matty Steffen, last year's leader, at the back field posts, assisted by Flood and Condon. Bud Borelli and Phil Clancy lead a heavy De Paul line.

Carroll Eleven to Meet Chicago in 1934 Opener

Waukesha, Wis., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The Carroll college football team, undefeated and champion of the Big Three this season, will open its 1934 campaign against the University of Chicago at Stagg field on Sept. 29, Glenn Thistlethwaite, athletic director and head football coach, announced today. Thistlethwaite rounded out 25 years of coaching this fall with a record of 162 victories, 52 defeats, and 9 tie games.

Bruggman and Christy Named C.Y.O. Pilots

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Catholic Youth organization, which will hold its third annual boxing tournament at the Chicago Stadium Friday night, is not going to tarry until then to choose up sides. This was decided yesterday when the class A and class B groups were divided into teams and captains named for each.

The captains elected in each case in class A are no strangers to C. Y. O. competition, each having been through the mill. They are Jimmy Christy, the clever 126 pounder, who was runner-up in his division last year, and Nestor Bruggman, a hard hitting welterweight who won third place in the 1932 tournament. Jimmy will head an octet composed of himself, Frank Schultz, Andy Scrivani, Johnny Barbara, Bob La Monte, Tom Cahill, Ray Wozniak, and John Logan. Bruggman's teammates include Henry Fuscaldo, Johnny Scanavino, Sam Scoglio, Phil Kennedy, Charles Wozniak, Stanley Luzak, and Jules Bracke.

The B class named Leonard Carroll, 118 pounds, and Arthur Palladino, 126 pounds, as its respective leaders.

Sixteen Bouts on Card.

The program Friday night will open with eight bouts between class B fighters, to be followed by as many involving the class A boys, the more experienced division. The eight winners in class A will not only carry away medals and high school and college scholarships, but will also be taken to the Pacific coast to engage teams from Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The name of Jimmy Christy within the last two years has attracted attention in parts other than these. C. Y. O. followers perked up last year when he stepped into the ring practically unannounced and knocked off two champions, George Haberski and Bud Marcy, in the space of one evening. He demonstrated that this was no mistake by going to the finals at the Stadium and kept on going until Harry Booker defeated him in the championship bout.

He was still going when the Central A. A. U. championships came along and this time won himself the title in the 126 pound class. From there he went on to the national tournament at Boston, from which he emerged runnerup in his class.

Jimmy Studies Art.

Paddy Kane, C. Y. O. boxing coach, commends Jimmy as a scientific type, a smart boxer and a good counter puncher who has a target for every punch and who usually scores with it. Paddy had no complaint for Christy when he came dashing into the gym yesterday fully an hour after the other boxers had gone into their training dance. There was a reason for Jimmy's tardiness, one that might make his boxing activity seem impossible. It seems that he has had quite a flair for drawing pictures for a long time, and at last is realizing an ambition to develop this talent.

He spends the hours between 9 and 4 each day pursuing commercial art at the Academy of Fine Arts, and then dashes over to the gym to go through his exercises. Incidentally, this is not a mere passing fancy, for Christy intends to follow art up seriously. He is 18, resides at 618 Roscoe street and is competing from Our Lady of Mount Carmel parish.

Bruggman Recalls War.

Nestor Bruggman, the other class A captain, has a background as interesting as Christy's. Born 19 years ago in a suburb of Antwerp, Belgium, Nester has hazy recollections of German and allied soldiers who were billeted in his home during the war. His father served all through the war with the Belgian army. He lives with his parents at 1627 Columbia avenue, and will represent St. Jerome's parish.

Hawks Finish Drill for Two Road Games

The Blackhawks took a final workout on the Stadium ice yesterday preparatory to leaving today for two important games, the first with the Red Wings at Detroit tomorrow and the second with the world champion Rangers at New York Sunday.

Once more Manager Tommy Gorman spent much of the two hour practice drilling the new Johnny Sheppard - Tommy Cook - Mush March line. Gorman is confident the new trio will be one of the best offensively and defensively in the league. It possesses every hockey requisite—speed, experience, courage and stick handling efficiency.

Art Coulter, star defense player, was unable to practice. He is confined to his room under physician's care with a cold and fever.

The Red Wing game tomorrow will be for first place in the American division of the National league. A half game separates the Hawks, who are in first place, and the Detroit team, which is in second.

N. U. LYDIANS TO SPONSOR WATER MEET TONIGHT

McKinlock campus students of Northwestern university will celebrate Thanksgiving eve with a water carnival in the pool of the Tower Town club tonight. The party is under the sponsorship of the Lydians, all-campus women's organization. Jean Lovejoy is chairman of the affair.

The featured event is the annual Lydian swim meet, in which co-eds are scheduled to battle for medals. The meet includes a 40 yard breast stroke, free style, and relay, and a 20 yard back stroke, and various styles of dives. Grace Boyajian, winner of many Chicago amateur events, is in charge.

CERMAKS ROLL CLASSIC LEAGUE LEADERS TONIGHT

The Baby Ruths, leaders of the Classic Bowling league tonight, will face the A. J. Cermaks in one of the five matches scheduled for this evening. The schedule:

Baby Ruth vs. A. J. Cermaks at Gold Coast; Olive Can vs. Edelweiss at Harding; Old Manhattan vs. Arlington Bowlers' Aid at Petersen's; Moulding-Brownell vs. Stevenson Heating at 8, and 8 Chatham; Budweiser vs. Lorenz Knitting at Garden.

Tonight's games in the women's Classic league will be rolled at the Schueneman Logan Square alleys. The schedule:

Pabst Blue Ribbon vs. Windy City; Edelweiss vs. Garden; Petersen's vs. Stevenson and Schalk.

30 Purdue Football Men Win Letters

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Thirty major and eight minor letters were awarded to members of the Purdue football squad at the 18th annual Kiwanis club football banquet here tonight.

More than 500 townspeople, alumni, and students attended the banquet to pay a final tribute to the squad, in particular the seniors who ended their careers against Indiana and who in their three years of competition lost only two games in 26 starts. Harry G. Kipke, coach of Michigan's championship eleven, was the principal speaker.

Of the major letters awarded, 20 went to seniors, six to juniors, and four to sophomores.

In addition to the varsity awards, announcement was made of the award of 39 freshman numerals by head freshman Coach Jim Purvis.

Lon Mann, football trainer in his tenth year of service at Purdue, was voted an honorary major "P" at the suggestion of the squad.

EDDY IS NAMED PRESIDENT OF JOCKEY CLUB

The new personnel of the Fox Valley Jockey Club, Inc., which presents racing at Aurora, was announced yesterday. It is:

Robert S. Eddy, president; Lee Dandurant, vice-president; Joseph Cattarinich, secretary - treasurer; D. C. Burnett, resident manager, and A. M. Hirsh, Frank Thilen, E. J. Baker, George H. Andresen, E. Roy Wells, and P. E. Rogers, directors.

Last spring the club ran an 18-day meeting in competition with another local track, and Cattarinich, who headed the organization, is reported to have lost $60,000. An official of the club said yesterday it will be different next season with jurisdiction of racing in the hands of the state racing commission. It was pointed out that the commission will arrange the schedule so there will be no conflict of dates with other clubs.

Harrison, Prep Champs, Play at Spring Valley, Ill.

Coach Robert Dougherty will lead thirty-three members of the Harrison Tech football team, Chicago Public High School league champion, to Spring Valley, Ill., tomorrow morning, where they will play a return game with Hall Township High school tomorrow afternoon. Immediately after the game twenty-two players and Coach Dougherty will depart for Oklahoma City, Okla., where they will meet Capitol Hill in an intersectional game Saturday afternoon.

The squad, unbeaten in nine games this season, went through a long practice at McKinley park yesterday. Another long drill is planned for this afternoon. All players came through the Morgan Park title game without injury and the squad will be at full strength for the Spring Valley contest.

St. Rita and Mount Carmel continued preparations for their game at Soldiers' field Sunday afternoon. Proceeds of the contest will be donated to the Catholic Youth organization.

The St. Mary's college freshman football team of Winona, Minn., will be seeking its second victory over a Chicago Catholic High School league eleven when it meets Leo at Shewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen, Sunday. St. Mary's defeated De La Salle in the opening contest on its schedule, 6 to 0.

Tilden Tech's football team will meet Morgan Park Military academy at St. Rita field, 63d street and Claremont avenue, tomorrow afternoon. Tilden was originally scheduled to play St. Rita, but the game was canceled.

A large crowd is expected to watch East High of Aurora play West High in their annual battle in Aurora tomorrow afternoon. It will be the final game of the Big Six High school conference season.

Crane Tech will open its basketball season against a team made up of alumni today. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

MILLER TO MEET KARTHEISER IN BOWLING DUEL

Joe Miller of Buffalo, N. Y., who is all square with Chicago bowlers after four matches here, tonight will resume his exhibition series in an engagement with Frank Kartheiser at the Schueneman Lake View Recreation. The national match game bowling champion also is booked for Chicago matches tomorrow, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. His schedule for this week follows:

Tonight, 8:30 o'clock—Frank Kartheiser at Schueneman Lake View Recreation.

Tomorrow, 9:30 p. m.—Eddie Zajac at Gold Coast Recreation.

Friday, 9:30 p. m.—J. Vercelli at Roseland Recreation.

Saturday, 7:30 p. m.—William Lenzen at H. B. Kaad's alleys; 9:30 p. m.—Roy Thompson at Monte Cristo Recreation.

Sunday, 3 p. m.—William Goldammer at Pioneer Arcade; 7:30 p. m.—William Wernicke at Parkway Recreation; 9:30 p. m.—William Heerman at Schueneman Portage Park Recreation.

GOPHERS NAME LUND CAPTAIN OF 1934 ELEVEN

Larson, 2d in Vote, Made Alternate Leader.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Francis [Pug] Lund, star of the University of Minnesota football team, today was elected captain of the 1934 Gopher eleven. Lund, whose home is at Rice Lake, Wis., is a junior, and plays left half back. He succeeds Roy Oen of Thief River Falls, a center, who completed his Gopher football career last Saturday.

Frank [Butch] Larson of Duluth, also a junior, was elected as alternate captain, and will act in that capacity when Lund is not on the field. Larson plays right end.

Coach Bernie Bierman created the alternate post when Larson placed second to Lund in the balloting.

INDIANA ELECTS JONES.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Robert Jones, senior guard of Wabash, Ind., was elected honorary captain of the Indiana university football team today. There was no regularly elected captain during the season, which ended Saturday.

Jones, regular fullback for two years, was shifted to the line this fall, and became the outstanding defensive player of the squad. He also did most of Indiana's kicking.

WHISKERS! It takes science to WILT 'EM

W. G. Mennen

FOR 25 YEARS I've been studying the science of shaving. And I found that the real clue to a clean, comfort shave is this:—wilt your whiskers.

Wilting means taking all the fight out of the beard—completely breaking up its stiffness . . . making it limp as young fuzz.

Mennen Lather Shave is scientifically made to do just that!

The first time you use it you'll notice:—the razor doesn't "stall" or scrape. No pull. No skipped patches. No raw feeling.

And Mennen Lather Shave—because it helps you to clean out pore-imbedded dirt deposits—actually leaves your face clearer, healthier!

CHICAGO READY FOR OLD TIME THANKSGIVING

Heavy Hotel Reservations Reported for Feast.

All Chicago is ready for the observance tomorrow of the traditional Thanksgiving harvest feast. The day marks the 312th anniversary of the first Thanksgiving celebrated by the Pilgrims at the completion of their first harvest.

Reasons why Americans should be specially thankful this year have been enumerated in proclamations issued by President Roosevelt and Gov. Horner. The President set aside Thursday as a day of gratitude for "the passing of dark days." Gov. Horner urged citizens of Illinois to be thankful "for the increase of pay rolls and the opening of factories long closed."

A united Thanksgiving service is to be given at the Chicago temple at 8 p. m. Thanksgiving day for all Methodist churches in Chicago. Churches in various neighborhood communities plan to join in services of thanksgiving, long an annual custom.

Heavy Hotel Reservations.

Hotels reported yesterday that reservations were pouring in for Thanksgiving dinner parties. The Palmer house reported the number of reservations far ahead of the same day last year, when all records were broken with 1,248 dinners. The Palmer house will serve 4,000 pounds of turkey, 50 bushels of sweet potatoes, 400 pounds of cranberries, 600 pounds of dressing, and 300 bunches of celery. Duck, steak, and seafood will be among the other choices on the menus.

About 85 per cent of the dinners at the Stevens hotel will be the old fashioned variety—turkey, cranberries, celery, and the other Thanksgiving favorites. About 3,500 pounds of turkey have been ordered. To take care of the large crowd anticipated this year, the Grand ballroom is to be opened.

Buffet Dinner at Drake.

The Hotel Sherman plans to serve 2,500 pounds of turkey. Reservations are being made at the Drake hotel where a buffet dinner and a special table d'hote dinner will be served in the Gold Coast room, and also a special dinner in the Italian room. As in past years the Blackstone will make no special plans for Thanksgiving.

The Morrison hotel has obtained the menu served on Thanksgiving following the 1893 Columbian Exposition at the Boston Oyster house, and will reproduce this lavish old time menu on Thanksgiving.

Needy to Be Fed.

As in past years inmates of the institutions will celebrate Thanksgiving. Supt. Frank Venecek of the Oak Forest infirmary will provide a dinner for 4,200 in the institution. He has ordered 700 pounds of turkey, 4,500 pounds of geese, 1,500 pounds of cranberries, 1,200 mince pies, 40 boxes each of apples, oranges and celery, and 40 bushels of potatoes.

At the county hospital Warden Michael Zimmer is making preparations to feed about 2,700 patients. For those who are able to be about dinner will be served in the dining hall. About 300 tubercular and contagious patients not on diet will be treated to a real Thanksgiving dinner.

Toys and gifts will be distributed in addition to the regular dinner in the children's hospital, Miss Winnie Cox, the supervisor, said. These will be distributed on Friday by a group of clubwomen. Nurses will trim the trays with gay colored paper and fall leaves.

At Tuberculosis Sanitarium.

The 950 patients whose condition will prevent their going home during the holiday will be allowed guests as a special privilege at the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium. Joseph A. Siemba has arranged for a turkey dinner with chestnut dressing, chilled celery curls, summer squash, whipped potatoes, mince pie, ice cream, coffee and milk.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, expressed his sympathy yesterday to the parents of children confined in the Municipal Contagious Disease hospital, but said they should be thankful the children are making splendid recovery. Dr. Archibald J. Hoyne, superintendent, will provide a turkey dinner.

At Edward Hines Jr. hospital the 1,500 veterans will partake of a turkey dinner which will start off with a fruit cocktail, celery hearts, radishes, and ripe olives. There will be giblet gravy and onion dressing, sweet potatoes, cauliflower, Parker house rolls, pumpkin pie, nuts, mince pie, and coffee.

Plans for the Insane.

Edward F. Dombrowski, superintendent of the Chicago State Hospital for the Insane, has planned a chicken dinner at 4,224 inmates. A 24 piece orchestra composed of patients will play.

A turkey dinner will be enjoyed by 20 handicapped children at the McCowen Oral School Home for the Deaf, 414 Normal parkway, provided by the Englewood Kiwanis club. Miss Elizabeth Sampson, matron, is in charge of arrangements. The Spalding school for handicapped children will enjoy a holiday dinner today.

In the Home for the Blind Edward J. Kemorous, managing officer, has planned a chicken dinner for the 94 inmates. The children at St. Vincent's orphanage will eat turkey and receive visitors, according to Miss Bernadine Healy, social worker.

The usual holiday dinner will be served at the county jail, Warden David Moneypenny announced. Chicken dinners will be served to 1,250 prisoners. At the House of Correction Supt. Edward J. Denemark has arranged for twenty-four acts of vaudeville. Each of the 2,575 prisoners is to receive half a chicken at the noon meal. A turkey dinner will be given the children at the Juvenile Detention home.

Café Owner to Feed Needy.

Harry Block, owner of a restaurant at 120 East Cermak road, will feed 1,500 needy persons. Last year Mr. Block gave a free turkey dinner to 500 with all the trimmings. Any regular patron is invited to send hungry friends with a personal card or telephone notice.

About 3,000 employees of the Wieboldt stores held a Thanksgiving ball Monday night in the Stevens hotel to raise funds for Christmas baskets to the needy. A ball at the Drake hotel tonight will be sponsored by the Evanston Infant Welfare society. This will be a benefit affair to provide funds to conduct the work of the society in Evanston.

Charity Ball Tonight.

The annual Thanksgiving charity ball of the Chicago chapter, Knights of Columbus, will be held tonight in the Palmer house. Mayor and Mrs. Kelly head the list of patrons. Alpha chapter of Alpha Delta Gamma, Loyola university social fraternity, will hold its ninth annual formal tonight in the Medinah Michigan avenue club. The Epsilon Omega Tau sorority will hold a Thanksgiving dance tonight in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Yesterday a Thanksgiving pageant was presented by the students at the National College of Education. Food was brought by children who are students in the nursery school, kindergarten, primary, and elementary departments for the Mary Crane Nursery school at Hull house.

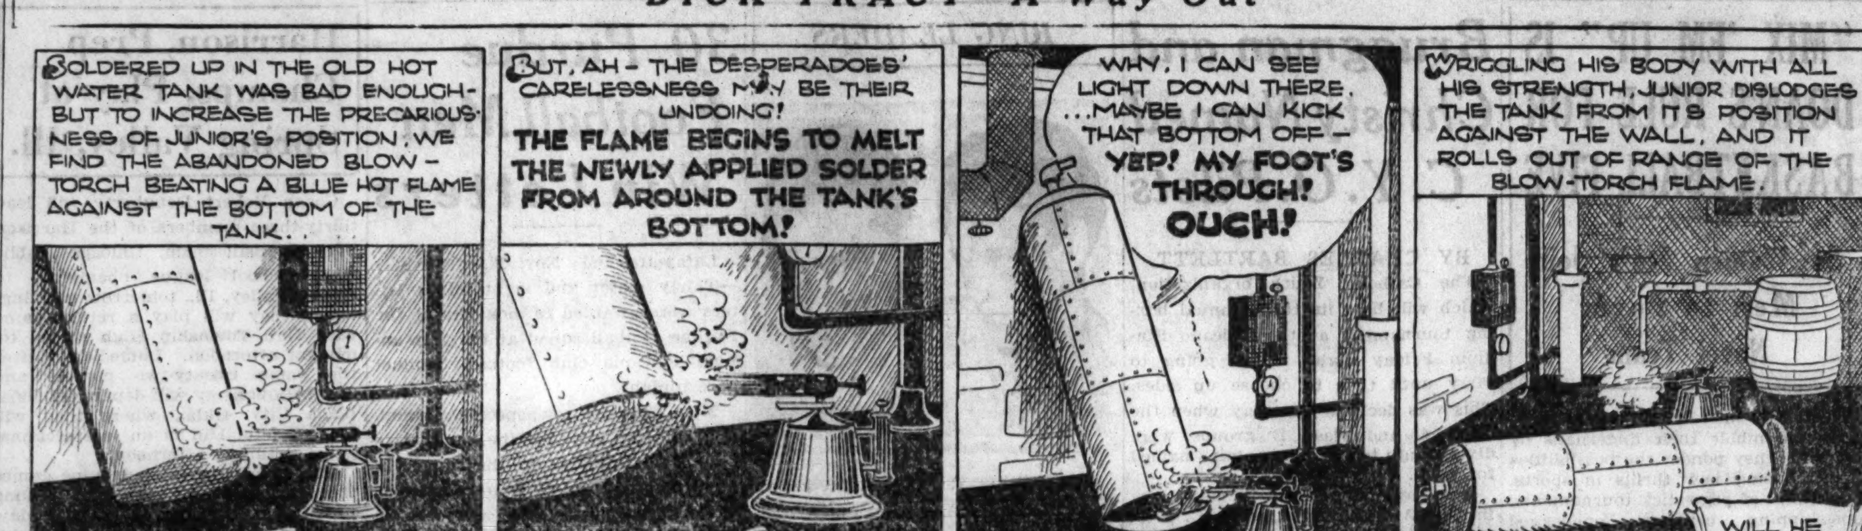
DICK TRACY—A Way Out



MAYOR ISSUES CALL FOR OBSERVANCE OF THANKSGIVING DAY

Mayor Kelly issued a statement yesterday in which he urged residents of Chicago to observe Thanksgiving day in accordance with the proclamation of President Roosevelt and also expressed the opinion that Chicagoans, especially, have much to be thankful for this year.

"Our great A Century of Progress Exposition," said the statement, "has been an outstanding success in every way. It has brought a volume of business to our city and provided thousands of our people with work. It has brought millions of visitors to our midst and they have gone home with a new and finer enthusiasm for the Chicago we love, helping to restore the good name our city so justly deserves. It has also enabled Chicago to assume and maintain the leadership in America's march back to prosperity.

"But most of all we should be thankful for the renewal of our faith and confidence in the future and for the heightened spirit of courage to go forward in the battle against adverse conditions."

ROCKEFELLER TO STAY IN NORTH THIS WINTER

Tarrytown, N. Y., Nov. 28.—(AP)—For the first time in thirty years John D. Rockefeller Sr. probably will spend the winter at his Pocantico Hills estate here instead of in Florida.

A source close to the family disclosed tonight that the probable shift in plans was caused by Mr. Rockefeller's seeming inability to shake off an "old fashioned" attack of the grip, attended by a persistent cough.

Although he has been pronounced by a specialist from the Rockefeller institute in New York as in remarkably good physical condition for his 94 years, the capitalist has shown only slight improvement since last week.

Indications that he would remain here for the winter were strengthened when glaziers began installing special window panes of the type that will allow the sun's rays to enter full strength into his bedroom, overlooking the Hudson river.

F. J. Wilstach, Assistant to Will H. Hays, Is Dead

New York, Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Frank J. Wilstach, assistant to Will H. Hays in the Motion Picture Producers and Distributers of America, died today after an illness of four weeks. Previously he was business manager for many famous stars, among others De Wolf Hopper, Viola Allen, William Faversham, Mrs. Leslie Carter, E. H. Southern, and Julia Marlowe.

John Irwin, 90, Veteran of Civil War, Is Dead

Davenport, Ia., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—John Irwin, 90, commander of August Wentz post, Grand Army of the Republic at Davenport, died last night.

Widow of Mexican War Veteran Dies Downstate

Bushnell, Ill., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Mrs. Marian Willis, widow of a soldier in the Mexican war, died here today.

READ STOLE $11 OF MISS WINDSOR, JURY DECIDES

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Alfred C. Read Jr., dapper ex-broker, ex-movie aspirant, and ex-recipient of Claire Windsor's affection, was convicted tonight by a Municipal court jury on Miss Windsor's charges that he took $11 from her purse. Read also heard what Claire really thinks of him now.

Read acted as his own counsel and paved the way for words he didn't care to hear, when he put Claire on the stand.

In an effort to establish motive in her prosecution, Read inquired the witness' attitude toward him. She characterized him as "The most dangerous man I know," and added, "Because you are a liar, a cheat, a cheap thief, and——"

"I object," roared Read.

"Well," interrupted Deputy City Prosecutor Dorothy Garland, "you asked the question, and you got your answer."

Miss Windsor said she was suspicious when Read visited her Hollywood home. She said she jotted down numbers of bills in her purse. When Read left, $11 was gone she said. She called police, it was testified, and Read returned the $11. Read said Miss Windsor gave him the money, his fare to San Francisco to get evidence for a new trial of the $75,000 alienation judgment which Read's divorced wife recently won against the actress.

CHARGE CHARITY DRIVE BALKED BY SOME EMPLOYERS

Some of the workers in the trades division of the Community fund for the Allied Chicago Charities have been denied admittance to the plants where they work and their own employers have refused to distribute pledge cards, it was reported yesterday to H. A. Behrens, chairman of the campaign to raise $4,000,000 for 102 private welfare organizations. This attitude on the part of employers was characterized as "un-American" by Mr. Behrens.

"The Community fund is a community effort to care for the needy," he said. "It must be carried on in the future as well as this year and its success depends upon getting all who have jobs to make a pledge." We feel that all the 800,000 persons in Chicago who have jobs would contribute something if they knew the facts. We are organized to give them facts and we are trying to do this through the employers.

"This cannot be a real Community fund unless everyone is given opportunity to make the subscription. The attitude of employers who will not permit the distribution of pledge cards is based on flimsy excuses, such as that they do not wish to take the time."

Peter T. Golden Rites Will Be Held Today

Funeral services will be held this morning for Peter T. Golden, 6436 Minerva avenue, from St. Clara's church, 64th street and Woodlawn avenue. Mr. Golden, who had been connected with the internal revenue department for nineteen years, died Monday. He was 50 years old. He was a charter member of Calumet council of the Knights of Columbus. He is survived by the widow, Catherine Christy Golden; a daughter, Margaret, and two sons, Richard and Peter. Interment will be in Mount Olivet cemetery.

Funeral of R. R. Anderson to Be Held at Home Today

Funeral services for Richard R. Anderson, 5830 Newark avenue, Norwood Park, will be conducted from his home this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will take place at the Union Ridge cemetery. Mr. Anderson, a produce broker on South Water street for twenty-five years, died at his home following a heart attack on Monday morning. He was 61 years old.

Mother Ends Her Life Because of Ill Health

Mrs. Clara Brotherton, 34 years old, ended her life with gas yesterday in the kitchen of her home at 339 Duane street, Glen Ellyn. Her 5 month old boy was with relatives at the time. Mrs. Brotherton's body was found by her husband, Arthur, a janitor. A coroner's jury decided she committed suicide because of ill health.

PUPIL AT SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF IS KILLED BY AUTO

Jerome Tuppy, 13 years old, 6046 South Sacramento avenue, a student at the Parker Practice school for the deaf, was killed yesterday when he was struck by an automobile at 63d street and Sacramento avenue. The driver, George Brown, 16 years old 6236 South Claremont avenue, a student in the regular classes at Parker high school, told the police that he could not stop the car in time to avoid the accident.

Howard Gholson, colored, 30 years old, 3515 South Dearborn street, was standing on the curb at 35th and State streets yesterday when a large six-wheeled truck turned the corner. The rear pair of wheels became detached from the truck body and swept over to the sidewalk, striking and running over Gholson. His injuries caused his death shortly afterward at the Provident hospital. The truck was driven by Joseph Butkovick, of Congress Park.

Mrs. Alexandria Domenski, 62 years old, 1970 Evergreen avenue, died at her home of injuries incurred on Oct. 14 when she was struck by an automobile at Damen and Milwaukee avenues. Witnesses noted the license number of the car and then police arrested Oscar Brodsky, 3269 Wabansia avenue, as the driver. Charges of leaving the scene of an accident were continued recently until Dec. 5. He was sought by the police last evening.

These three deaths raised the Cook county motor toll for the year to 999.

Arthur L. Wynston, Retired Capitalist, Dies in Toronto

San Diego, Cal., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Arthur L. Wynston, 52, retired capitalist of Toronto, Ont., died Nov. 19 from the effects of a rare poison, self-administered, a coroner's jury decided after an inquest here today. Wynston fell dead in the hotel room of his estranged wife after shooting her in the shoulder and beating her severely.

Good-bye COLD!

When This Famous Remedy Gets on the Job!

It's just too bad for a cold when you take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. For this famous tablet soon has the cold on its way. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine acts quickly and decisively because it is expressly a cold remedy and because it gets at a cold from the inside.

Complete relief is had with Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine because it is a complete treatment. It does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. Anything less than that is courting danger. Get Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine at any druggist. 30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and resent a substitute.

MARBURY'S ODD WAYS OF WOOING GET HIM IN A CELL

Girl's Mother Tells Her Story to Judge.

The unusual method of wooing adopted by Earl D. Marbury, 31 years old, once a pre-medical student at the University of Wisconsin but recently a janitor, occupied the attention yesterday of Municipal Judge Howard Hayes.

The complainant against Marbury was an indignant mother, Mrs. Eloise Stalle, 6354 North Hermitage avenue. It was her 16 year old daughter, Evelyn, a junior at the Senn High school, whom Marbury sought to wed.

Judge Hears the Story.

When Marbury began urging Evelyn to marry him many months ago she repulsed him the judge was told. He first tried the expedient of informing her mother that he and Evelyn had eloped to Crown Point and were married. Examination of the records supported the girl's assertion that the statement was utterly untrue.

Marbury then sent announcements to all the Chicago papers in the name of Mrs. Stalle announcing the marriage of Evelyn to himself. The announcements were printed, causing Evelyn and her mother to issue some vehement denials.

Mother Has Him Arrested.

Some weeks later Marbury again sent announcements of the marriage. Mrs. Stalle then procured his arrest on charges of criminal libel of her daughter. Taken before Judge Hayes, the would-be bridegroom refused to answer any questions and was sentenced to jail for contempt of court.

While in jail Marbury somehow succeeded in sending a third announcement of the marriage which was again printed. After three weeks in jail, Marbury yesterday confessed his sorrow for his actions and promised never to bother Evelyn again. His lawyer urged that he be paroled to relatives.

Mentality Under Scrutiny.

"Either this man is sane and must suffer for the pain and humiliation he has caused this girl," said Judge Hayes, "or he is mentally unsound and should be committed to an institution."

The judge continued the case until Dec. 5, sending Marbury back to his cell. Alienists are again to examine him and report to the court on his mental condition.

BOY'S ARM IS BROKEN; ARREST A NEIGHBOR, 70

Joseph Schultz, 70 years old, 2822 Greenview avenue, alleged to have wilfully broken the right arm of an 11 year old boy who annoyed him by playing in front of his home, was arrested by the Sheffield avenue police yesterday. He was released in bond of $25 after being formally charged with assault and battery.

The boy, Rudolph Sedorf, 1448 Wolfram street, is under treatment at the Alexian Brothers hospital. His physician, Dr. Leopold Frey, and his father, Henry Sedorf, joined in making the complaint against Schultz.

"I was informed," said Dr. Frey, "that Schultz called out to a group of children that he would break their arms and legs if they didn't go away. Witnesses told me that he ran out, seized Rudolph's arm in his hands and broke it over his knee."

The police report showed that witnesses declared Schultz lifted the boy and hurled him violently to the ground, causing the arm to be broken. A hearing on the matter is to be held in the Town Hall court this morning.

JOSEPH BINKS, MANUFACTURER, DIES AT AGE 83

Joseph Binks, pioneer resident and manufacturer of Chicago, died at the home of a daughter, 540 North Humphrey avenue, Oak Park, on Monday afternoon, it became known yesterday. Mr. Binks was 83 years old. He is survived by his widow, six children, and six grandchildren.

Mr. Binks was born in Blackearth, Wis., in 1850 and moved to Chicago in 1869. He was an authority on steam appliances and for 27 years was chief engineer of a printing company here. In 1898 he developed a type of spray equipment which he manufactured himself, remaining active in this business until three years ago, when he retired. He moved to River Forest in 1888 and for six years served as a village trustee.

Funeral services will be held at 1 o'clock today from a mortuary at 318 North Central avenue. Burial will take place at the Forest Home cemetery.

GRAIN CO-OPS ASK FULL RIGHT ON EXCHANGES

Approval Likely as Code Hearing Ends.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—Alteration of the grain exchange code to force admission of the Farmers' National Grain corporation and other coöperatives to full membership in the exchanges appeared likely tonight as the AAA concluded hearings on the code submitted by the commodity markets.

WM. I. MYERS. [Acme Photo.]

Reviving the controversy with the Chicago Clearing House corporation, the Farmers' National proposed an amendment to the code under which the exchanges would be forced to admit cooperative marketing organizations to full privileges under order of the secretary of agriculture.

Have Federal Support.

Gov. W. I. Myers of the federal farm credit administration, in a letter to Farm Administrator George N. Peek, which went into the record, gave the full support of the government to the amendment proposed by the coöperative.

Two other governmental spokesmen—Dr. J. W. T. Duvel of the grain futures administration and Wendell Byrd, special assistant to the attorney general, likewise approved the Farmers' National proposal. In view of these manifestations of federal sanction, it was regarded as virtually certain that the amendments will be approved despite the serious opposition of the exchanges.

Drastic Rule Possible.

Just before the close of the hearing tonight, the administration indicated the length to which it may go in extending control over the exchanges. Speaking for the AAA, Prof. E. W. Burgess read into the record the following list of subjects which may be supported by briefs filed within eight days by any interested parties:

"Salaried brokers, preventing brokers trading on own accounts, abolition of indemnities, trusteeship of margin, speculative profits tax, supervision of speculative commodity trading corporations and supervision of market letters."

Leaders of the grain trade, including Peter B. Carey, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, left the capital tonight after placing on the government full responsibility for the consequences if rigid federal control is imposed on the exchanges.

Carey Sees Danger in Move.

Adoption of the drastic regulatory measures proposed as amendments to the code by radical members of the farm adjustment administration, according to Mr. Carey, would precipitate a serious break in the commodity markets and a consequent fall in grain prices.

The imposition of an arbitrary line limit of 2,000,000 bushels, as has been suggested by one of the department's experts, would immediately result in heavy selling with disastrous consequences, Mr. Carey stated.

It was an open secret, as the hearings drew to a close, that President Roosevelt is reserving final judgment on the exchange code to himself. The suggestions of radical members of the AAA staff were offered by them in the capacity of "private citizens," and it was reported that this procedure was adopted to build up a record for the scrutiny of the President.

Peek Favors Self-Regulation.

Farm Administrator George N. Peek, it was understood, is inclined to give the exchanges a chance at self-regulation as now provided in the code, but whether the opinion of Mr. Peek will prevail, it was said, depends on the ultimate decision of Mr. Roosevelt.

Leaders of the trade took the position that the code offered by them represents the fullest lengths to which they will go, and that the government must assume responsibility for whatever may happen if rigid control is clapped upon them.

In demanding amendment of the exchange code to force admission of coöperatives to all privileges including clearing house facilities, Irving Goldsmith, counsel for the Farmers' National, declared his organization favors the federal control proposals of the AAA experts as a means of affording protection to the producer.

Attacks Board's Motives.

He made a lengthy attack on the motives underlying the Chicago Board of Trade's refusal to admit the Farmers' National to membership in the Chicago Clearing House corporation intimating that it was the desire for the co-op's commission fees that led directors of the board to bar the producers' association from full privileges of the exchange.

George S. Milnor, general manager of the Farmers' National, declared he would like to see the government impose a new and more drastic code on the exchanges if they refuse to accept the amendments proposed by his organization.

Federal Home Loan Banks Lend Total of $81,777,855

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Loans of $1,484,057 were approved by the federal home loan banks during the week ended Nov. 23. Bank board statistics showed these loans increased the total actually advanced to $81,777,855. Loans amounting to $4,397,315 were repaid by member institutions leaving a balance outstanding of $77,380,540. In addition, $14,828,088 in loans were authorized and are ready for advance, making a grand total of $94,605,944 of loans authorized.

Experts Travel Money Maze in Varied Ways

BY HOWARD WOOD.

So heated has been the word battle between the inflationists and the anti-inflationists that the man in the street is having difficulty discovering what it is all about.

Many of the arguments advanced on both sides have been based on emotion and self-interest rather than reason, but through them run threads of thought which can be followed.

In the camps of the "sound money" advocates the greatest fear seems to be the possibility that the President's dollar cheapening plan may get out of hand. The scheme to raise prices by reducing the gold content of the dollar is not the thing that is worrying the "sound money" people most. It is rather the fear that it will lead to drastic inflation—the printing of fiat money.

* *

Even the stanchest believers in sound currency admit that a return to the gold standard on the old basis—gold exchangeable for dollars at $20.67 an ounce—would be suicidal. They realize that such a stabilization plan would throw the United States back into the vicious circle of foreclosures and receiverships with business stagnating until the reorganizations and scaledowns were completed.

What they seem to want is assurance that the "controlled inflation" is really under control.

"Let's go back to the gold standard with a reduced number of grains of gold in the dollar," is what they say. "Perhaps this cannot be accomplished immediately. Some international agreement with the principal nations may be necessary, but in the meantime let's have some assurance that the dollar cheapening will not continue indefinitely."

* *

The chief argument advanced by the stabilization advocates is that unless investors can see bottom in the currency depreciation well they will shy away from high grade bonds, especially United States government bonds. A bad break in the bond market, they add, would impair government credit and might force the government to start the printing presses.

That is their big worry. The last congress authorized the President to issue 3 billions of greenbacks. The sound money people are afraid that the currency tampering will go when the legislators' appetites that the next congress will demand greenbacks.

* *

James P. Warburg, former member of the Roosevelt brain trust and one of the more dispassionate talkers on the side of stabilization, has offered a plan.

"I believe," he said in a letter to Senator Borah, "that no single action of our government could contribute more effectively to recovery than the announcement of its intention to abandon further willful depression, to abandon the commodity dollar experiment and to seek to bring about the early revaluation of the dollar in terms of a modernized gold standard."

He suggests a modified gold standard under which gold would be used merely to settle international balances of trade. Gold coin would be removed from circulation. Gold miners would be compelled to offer their output to the monetary authorities.

Other sound money people have urged that the currency be devalued 50 per cent and then be immediately reanchored to gold, the profit on the revaluation to be used by the government to carry out its lending and spending program and balance its budget.

* *

The rabid inflationists, both within and without congress, seem to be thirsting for fiat money—plenty of it. This sentiment is particularly strong among debtors, both corporate and individual.

The more moderate advocates of currency depreciation regard it as the counterpart of the British equalization fund idea. They say that the RFC in cheapening the dollar by raising the price of gold is doing just what the British government has been doing for a long time in buying and selling foreign exchange. A cheaper dollar, they add, helps American exporters to compete for world trade against the cheaper pound.

In this regard it should be noted that although the British pound is well over par in relation to the American dollar it is still a much depreciated pound, its value in terms of gold having been reduced about one-third.

The whole issue which is now being so hotly debated seems to hinge on the question: "Can 'controlled inflation be controlled?"

* *

The investor-creditor group peers over the President's shoulders and thinks it sees a shoving crowd of impecunious debtors clamoring ever more loudly for printing press money.

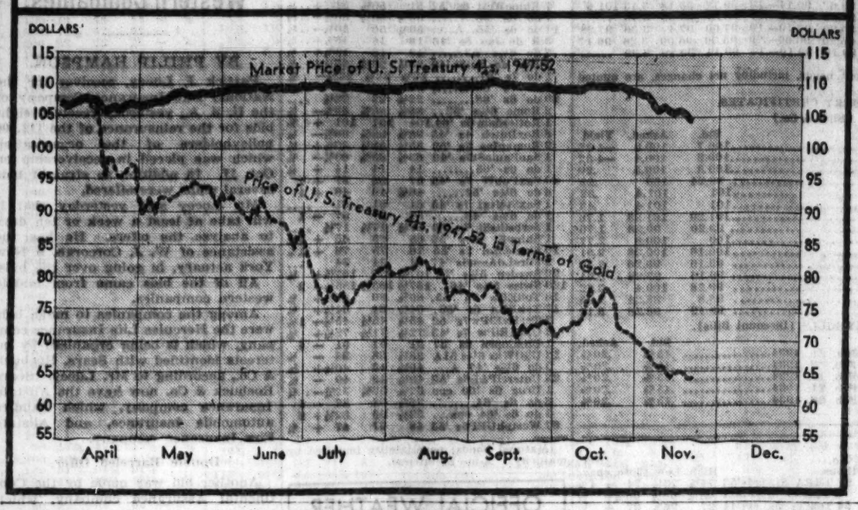
The debtor group cries out in anguish against the "cross of gold" and demands some expedient to balloon money and credit and start a painless return to the good old days.

A large proportion of the populace stands on both sides of the fence, being part creditor and part debtor, uncertain which prophets to follow.

There have been indications of late that even the committee for the nation, that group of industrialists whose economist, Professor Warren, devised the Roosevelt dollar cheapening plan has not been entirely unanimous.

Some of the leaders of the committee for the nation have recently been reported to be in Washington advocating a move in the direction of stabilization. Others of this group, especially those who are personally overextended and who are being crowded by their bankers are reported to be whooping it up more enthusiastically than ever for drastic inflation.

Market Price of a Leading Government Bond and the Price in Terms of Gold



Taylor Quits as U. S. Steel Finance Chief

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 28.—Myron C. Taylor will retire as chairman of the finance committee of the United States Steel corporation on Jan. 1, 1934, and will be succeeded in this capacity by William J. Filbert, now vice chairman of the committee, it was announced today. Mr. Taylor will retain his other posts—chairman of the board of directors and chief executive officer of the corporation.

MYRON C. TAYLOR.

The new setup represents the completion of a plan of reorganization inaugurated by Mr. Taylor shortly after he assumed the post of chairman of the finance committee in December, 1927. Many employés have been retired under a revised pension plan advocated and intensive efforts have been made all through the organization to encourage the highest degree of efficiency among the men in the leading positions.

Gives Time to Public Affairs.

Elevation of Mr. Filbert to the post of chairman of the finance committee would have occurred sooner or later, it was said in well informed circles. The step was hastened, however, by the recent appointment of Mr. Taylor as a member of the industrial advisory board and the business revival and planning council at Washington. These public posts require Mr. Taylor's frequent attendance at Washington.

Mr. Taylor planned and carried out the revision of the capital structure of the corporation in 1929, which entailed the redemption of 340 million dollars of the parent company's bonds; he revamped and coördinated the company's plants and modernized them through a 250 million dollar building program, and he has sought to reorganize and revitalize its personnel.

Although the basic objectives of Mr. Taylor's program have been attained, other important undertakings designed to increase the efficiency of the organization are being prepared.

New Concentration Planned.

The corporation has in view further consolidation of its properties and subsidiaries, with greater concentration of operating control at Pittsburgh and other major producing districts into larger units. This program will mean the transfer of certain activities, now carried on at New York, to other centers.

Mr. Taylor, who is now 59 years old, was induced by the late George F. Baker and by J. P. Morgan to accept the chairmanship of the finance committee in 1927, after the death of Elbert H. Gary. At that time Morgan became chairman of the board of directors. In March, 1932, Mr. Morgan gave up this post, and Mr. Taylor succeeded him.

Telephone Company Gets Permit for New Exchange

A permit was issued yesterday to the Illinois Bell Telephone company for the construction of a telephone exchange, costing $55,145, at 2215 South Wabash avenue. The architects are Holabird and Root, 333 North Michigan boulevard. Two other permits were issued. The total cost for the three was $69,145.

H. W. Burtness, assistant to the president of the Chicago Great Western Railroad company, yesterday was elected secretary of the company to fill the vacancy created by the recent death of William G. Lerch.

INVESTMENT BANKERS DRAFT FAIR PRACTICE CODE UNDER NRA PLAN

A code of fair practices to govern the investment banking business is being drawn up by a special committee of 21 members headed by Allan M. Pope, said Robert E. Christie Jr., president of the Investment Bankers association, yesterday. Mr. Christie was in Chicago visiting the headquarters of the association and returned to New York in the afternoon.

The fair practice program will supplement the NRA code for the investment banking business, which President Roosevelt has just signed.

"The task of drafting these regulations is already under way," said Mr. Christie. "Our codification work has basically only one objective: namely, to put forward rules of business practice with the idea that whatever is best for the public interest is best for our business.

"We realize that no code or legislation by itself can make investments safe or prevent losses to investors. We believe, however, that by writing into our code, and thus giving the force of law to certain fundamental principles which have been developed over the last 20 years by the conservative and forward thinking members of the association, a basis can be laid upon which the investing public can rely."

CHICAGO ROADS SEEK U. S. LOANS TO BUY RAILS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Two railroads today asked the interstate commerce commission to approve loans from the public works administration to purchase 87,000 tons of rails and fastenings for replacements.

The Chicago and North Western railway asked the commission's permission to borrow $3,500,000 to buy 65,000 tons of rails and 18,000 tons of fastenings. The Chicago and Eastern Illinois, which is in the hands of a trustee, asked approval of a loan of $251,300 to buy 3,000 gross tons of 112 pound steel rails and 1,000 tons of 110 pound steel rails.

The North Western plans to replace rails laid in 1916 and 1917 on its main lines between Chicago and Council Bluffs, Ia., Chicago and Milwaukee, and Chicago and Elroy, Wis.

It was revealed that in adopting a resolution authorizing officers of the North Western to apply for the public works loan the directors of the company also authorized them to negotiate for $1,000,000 to be used in completion of elevation of their tracks at Kenosha, Wis.

The public works administration has offered loans from its fund running ten years without security for steel rail purchases. The loans would bear no interest for the first year and four per cent for the remaining nine years. The plan was devised in an effort to spread employment on the railroads and in steel mills.

PENNSYLVANIA TO START DOOR DELIVERY DEC. 1

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The Pennsylvania railroad will be ready to start store-door collection and delivery service on Dec. 1, Walter S. Franklin traffic vice president, said today.

Retaliatory action by railroads that opposed the Pennsylvania's plans is expected. New York Central has been prominent in the opposition, though what measures it might take were not divulged.

Indiana Limestone Corp. Gets Three Big Contracts

A. E. Dickinson, president of the Indiana Limestone corporation, announced yesterday that contracts had been closed for three buildings requiring about 180 carloads of stone. The buildings are the Times-Star building in Los Angeles, the Pennsylvania railroad station at Newark, N. J., and the Frick art museum and library, New York city.

Stocks Show Narrow Range; Trading Dull

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 28.—Today's stock market was nothing more than an alibi. The public held entirely aloof and the handful of professionals out to keep things going were extremely cautious in give-an-take activities.

As a consequence the session came close to qualifying as the all-round dullest of the year to date. The turnover was not much in excess of a million shares. Price movements were narrow and without significance, and net changes were negligible.

Something that passed for a brief rally was stirred up in the dollar's movements on the foreign exchange, due to a resumption of the administration's gold raising policy. The rally didn't get far enough to create any excitement and by the end of the first hour the flurry had faded out.

Market Again Turns Dull.

Midday found the whole list settled back around its previous levels. The afternoon brought little change of any kind, except perhaps slight slowing up in activity, the ticker at frequent intervals coming to a standstill.

As a general rule the back and forth movements of the price lines were irregular and, outside of the so-called inflationary groups, without any especial reason. In the mining division such issues as United States Smelting, American Smelting, and McIntyre Porcupine regained 1 to 5 points of their previous losses, but the bigger part of the early gains were again erased before the close.

Other so-called inflationary stocks, including the rubber, oil, and commodity issues, failed to get any help from the gold price boost and most of them had a difficult time holding their own.

Railroad Issues Weaken.

The carriers also gave a poor account of themselves in spite of early reports indicating an increase in carloadings for the week over the corresponding week of 1932. The increase was due in some measure to the fact that Thanksgiving fell in the corresponding week of last year. Most of the group fell to new lows at one time or another.

Utility shares were heavy again, with Consolidated Gas under pressure.

U. S. Steel ruled higher during the morning, but had trouble holding even in the later trading, as did most of the other standard industrial stocks.

Business news still offered a somewhat mores cheerful prospect, what with steel production showing promise of a turn for the better and automobile makers swinging into production of their new models, but confusion over the monetary situation antidoted any enthusiasm that might have arisen on that score.

CHICAGO BANKS PLAN PAYMENTS TO DEPOSITORS

Payments for the depositors of two closed Chicago banks were announced yesterday. R. C. Sullivan, receiver for the Jefferson Park National bank, reported that depositors will be given an initial payment next month. The bank closed in June, last year, with deposits of approximately $200,000.

State Auditor Edward J. Barrett authorized a 10 per cent payment to depositors of the Congress Trust and Savings bank, 510 South Wabash avenue. This is the fourth payment since the bank closed in June, 1932, and will bring the total to 55 per cent of claims. Checks will be mailed next week.

International Paper Co. Pay Roll Up 33% Since June

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The International Paper company announced today that the number of its employés had risen from 10,743 to 13,468 since June. In the same period, the company said, the pay roll increased from an annual rate of $11,700,000 to $15,645,000, or 33 per cent. The gains apply to operations in the United States.

Banks and Markets Close Tomorrow, Thanksgiving

BANKERS' GAINS, PUBLIC'S LOSS ON TUNNEL TOLD

Financing of Detroit Project Revealed.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Evidence of large initial profits to bankers who financed construction of the Detroit-Canada vehicular tunnel in 1928, on which investors lost over $15,000,000, was presented today to the senate banking committee.

The investigators also received testimony that the Chase Securities corporation, which participated in the tunnel financing, lost $13,754,000 in syndicates dealing several years ago in General Theaters Equipment, Inc., securities.

Leslie W. Snow, vice president of the Chase National bank, testified the Securities corporation and other banks profited by about $1,000,000 in financing the $17,459,000 Detroit tunnel, but lost approximately $2,000,000 in later trading in the tunnel company's securities.

Profit on Property.

Under questioning of Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, Snow also said $755,650 was made in acquiring real estate preparatory to the construction. He added this represented a 35 per cent profit to Judson Bradway, who became president of the tunnel company; Fred W. Martin, one of the tunnel promoters; Wendell Anderson, and Arthur Gardner.

Snow said the bankers agreed to finance the tunnel project after engineers reported it would be a profitable venture, despite the fact that two ferry companies were then operating and the five lane Ambassador bridge was under way. The tunnel and bridge companies are now in receivership.

"This ought to put investors on guard against engineers' reports," observed Senators Couzens [Rep., Mich.].

Snow said the capitalization of the tunnel company included $8,500,000 of bonds, $8,500,000 of debentures, and 3,100,000 shares of common stock. The debentures were convertible into stock.

Taken by Banking Group.

A banking group, including Chase Securities, Harris Trust and Savings bank of Chicago, the Guardian Detroit company, and Bertis, Rawls & Donaldson of Detroit, bought the bonds at $90, sold them to a distributing group at $97, and the latter sold to the public at $100.

The debentures were taken over by the same bankers, except for the Chicago company, at $90 and sold to distributors at $95.50 and to the public at $99.50, it was testified.

Snow said the bonds were now selling at about $2.50, the debentures at "no bid, about one asked," and the stock has practically no market.

Pecora read a letter from Emmett F. Connely, vice president of the Detroit and Security Trust company, suggesting there was insufficient traffic to support the tunnel as well as the ferry and bridge. He also produced data he said showed the tunnel in 1931 had a net loss of $1,772,000.

Wiggin Tells of Loss.

Before turning to this line of inquiry Pecora concluded examination of Albert H. Wiggin, former chairman of the Chase National bank, regarding financing of and trading in the stock of General Theaters Equipment.

Pecora presented evidence, which Wiggin identified, showing Wiggin's personal corporation, Shermar, lost more than $2,000,000 in pool transactions in GTE and Fox Film stock. He also put a statement in the record showing Chase Securities corporation lost over $13,000,000 in GTE securities.

Wiggin at the outset of the session reiterated his denial that he sent word to President Hoover in 1929 to "mind his own business." He said the story related last week by William Fox, movie magnate, was "absolutely and entirely false."

ARGENTINA FIXES PRICES AS PESO RULE IS ENDED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 28.—On the heels of the announcement tonight that the government is abandoning arbitrary exchange control came a decree appointing a "grain regulation board" empowered to buy wheat, maize and linseed from the growers at basic prices to be fixed by the board.

The decree states that as foreign exchange is likely to rise 20 per cent tomorrow in consequence of the new measure, it is necessary to see that the farmers get a corresponding increase in the prices of their produce.

The new grain board will therefore fix prices based on overseas values less expenses and buy direct from producers and sell to exporters in an orderly manner to avoid dumping.

Price of Gold Again Boosted; Dollar Drops

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 28.—The advance of 9 cents in the price offered for newly mined gold by the Reconstruction Finance corporation today, bringing gold to a new high of $33.85 an ounce, resulted in a renewed decline of the dollar in the foreign exchange market.

The fall of the dollar exceeded its 1.23 cent gain in gold value on Monday, the total loss today amounting to 1.25 cents. Based on local quotations for French francs, the dollar touched a high of 65.18 cents and a low of 63.84 cents, closing at the latter price.

Sterling rose 8½ cents to $5.19, slightly under the best price of $5.21 reached during the trading. The low was $5.06½, slightly under the opening quotation of $5.07.

Franc Up 12 Points.

Francs advanced 12 points to 6.18½ cents, the day's top price. It opened at 6 cents, which was the low mark in the trading here. All other principal foreign currencies rose against the dollar.

The Canadian dollar rose 37½ points in value and was quited at $1.0125.

The renewed advance in the RFC price for gold and the decline in the dollar was disappointing to those favoring stabilization here, and aroused new bewilderment over the general currency situation throughout the financial district.

The reversal in price of foreign exchange was one of the quickest ever seen, even in the extraordinary spurts and rebounds that have resulted from the American policy of buying gold to control the price of the dollar.

The movement was evidently owing to a rush by speculators to get on the other side of the market. They had been buying dollars to cover their short positions for a week.

Gold Price Affects London.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The extent to which President Roosevelt's gold buying now influences the dollar-sterling exchange was evident today when the dollar lost heavily after the American gold price had been increased.

The franc was also lower, chefly on reports published this morning in London that the Bank of France is borrowing $200,000,000 in London to support the franc. It rallied later when reports of the loan were discounted. Nothing was obtainable in London financial circles confirming such an advance.

A maneuver of this kind involving a heavy export of capital is contrary to British fiscal policy although in one quarter today it was suggested it might be done in exchange for tariff and quota considerations allowing Great Britain a bigger export advantage in France.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Chamberlain was questioned in the house of commons today on what the government through the exchange equalization fund means to do in view of the wide dollar fluctuations. He answered that he is carefully watching the situation in all its aspects but does not think it necessary or desirable to say more at present. He added in reply to further queries that he does not foresee a conference to establish an empire currency and that no such proposal is being considered.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL 10 MONTH PROFIT ABOVE YEAR AGO

The net operating income of the Illinois Central for October stood at $3,536,812 compared with $3,575,385 in the like month of 1932. The September amount was $4,358,929. For the first ten months of 1933 the road reported that its net operating income was $29,222,608 compared with $26,934,527 in the same period last year.

The Illinois Central system stands a good chance of reporting a profit for November after taxes and all charges, L. A. Downs, president, stated yesterday.

A net operating income of $1,380,376 for October was reported by the Northern Pacific railway. This was an increase of $351,988 over October, 1932, but a decrease of $204,974 from the September amount.

Norfolk and Western's net income for the first ten months of 1933 was $18,606,079, equal to $12.68 a common share. The rate on the common last year in the same period was $8.14.

STATE CONTENDS I. C. OWES $60,000 FRANCHISE TAX

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Attorney General Kerner today instituted quo warranto proceedings against the Illinois Central Railroad company, demanding to know by what right the company is exercising its franchise with reference to stock on which it has failed to pay franchise tax. A statement issued by the attorney general says: "For the years 1920 to 1924 inclusive, this company owes an annual franchise tax together with penalties on the basis of an additional $14,256,000 of capital stock. The total amount due the state is approximately $60,000."

It is expected that the carrier will plead that federal statutes give jurisdiction to the interstate commerce commission and the Illinois Central is operating under a special charter giving the line exemptions.

U. S. Treasury Invites Bids on 100 Million Bill Issue

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Acting Secretary Morgenthau today invited tenders for $100,000,000 of 91 day treasury bills dated Dec. 6 to be sold on a discount basis. Bids will be received at federal reserve banks and branches up to 2 p. m. eastern standard time, Monday, Dec. 4.

U. S. DROPS OLD PLAN TO REFUND LIBERTY BONDS

May Try Short Term Conversion Issue.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—Acting Secretary of the Treasur Henry Morgenthau Jr. announced tonight that after Saturday the treasury will abandon its attempt to refund the huge six billion dollar Fourth Liberty loan into new treasury bonds.

Thus far holders of 890 million dollars' worth of Fourth Liberty loan bonds have tendered them for conversion into new treasury bonds bearing 3¼ per cent interest. The treasury called 1 billion 375 million dollars' worth of the huge bond issue, but it offered also to accept in exchange all uncalled bonds.

Although there are still 935 million dollars' worth of the called Liberty bonds outstanding, the treasury does not intende to redeem this whole block in currency when they mature next April 15, it was learned. Morgenthau is planning to make another exchange offer for the called bonds in connection with the Dec. 15 financing which the treasury is now planning.

Short-Term Offering Expected.

The Dec. 15 offering is expected to be short-term notes or certificates. By offering to exchange its forthcoming notes or certificates for the called bonds, the treasury hopes to effect the conversion of another large block of bonds now held by people who were not interested in a new long term investment but who might be interested in a short term treasury security.

The bonds which previously were being offered in exchange for called Liberty bonds mature in 12 years. The new Dec. 15 securities are expected to have a maturity of two years or less.

Treasury securities of still a shorter maturity may be offered in exchange for the called bonds when the treasury does its March 15 financing. Every effort will be made to avoid paying off any large block of the called bonds in cash, a move which would be tantamount to inflation.

Conversion Adviser Resigns.

The present first phase of the conversion, which will close on Saturday, was launched Oct. 16 by Acting Secretary Dean G. Acheson, Mr. Morgenthau's predecessor. It was recommended by Prof. O. M. W. Sprague, resigned adviser to the treasury, who revealed that, had he known the present gold policy was to start Oct. 22, he would not have suggested the conversion.

Since the gold policy was launched the price of the new 3¼ per cent bonds the treasury offered in the conversion has dropped below par, practically choking off all conversion offers in the last few weeks.

The series of bonds were those with sereal numbers ending in 0, 9, or 1, or, in the case of registered bonds, bearing the serial letter A, J, or K.

Morgenthau today announced that the subscription books for the 12 year treasury bonds will close at the close of business Saturday. The books were closed for the receipt of cash subscriptions on Oct. 17 but have remained open for exchange subscriptions. The treasury allotted slightly over 500 million dollars' worth of the bonds on cash subscriptions.

BRITISH DEFICIT REDUCED AGAIN; TOTALS £62,081,962

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Great Britain's financial progress is being steadily maintained, according to tonight's exchequer returns. The last week's revenue at £8,207,139 exceeded expenditure, £7,137,151 by £1,069,980. Excess revenue of £866,112 was reported a year ago.

Estate duties and customs yielded more in the last week than the corresponding period of 1932, while stamps and income tax produced less.

Ordinary revenue to date this year amounts to £368,860,703, an increase of £13,761,030, compared with the figure for the corresponding period of 1932. Expenditure shows a decrease of £32,223,525 to £430,942,665. This leaves a deficit of £62,081,962, against £108,066,526 a year ago.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 28.—United States government bonds led the decline in the listed bond market today, influenced by the increase in the administration's domestic gold buying price and the subsequent weakness of the dollar. The United States issues declined 6-32ds to 30-32s for the active loans.

Many active issues of the domestic corporation group declined a point or more on the day, but there was a sufficient scattering of issues which gained ground to give the market an irregular trend. On the average, industrial bonds held up better than the rails and utilities.

German Issues Strong.

Foreign loans failed to rise in sympathy with their respective foreign currencies in terms of the dollar. German loans were strong, however. French government and municipal loans declined fractonally to 3¼ points with the single exception of the government 7½s, which moved up ⅝.

United Kingdom and Dutch East Indies loans were uneven. Hungarian and Czech issues were lower as were most of the Latin American issues. Swiss government 5½s former another strong spot, advancing 2 points on the day.

Turnover Is Smaller.

Total transactions for the day exceeded $11,000,000, par value, but the turnover was smaller than that for the preceding session.

Curb bonds moved irregularly lower in rather quiet dealings. Wisconsin Power and Light 5s, due 1956, series E, fell 13 points. Foreign loans were irregular.

Spot and Future Silver Prices Advance 1 Cent

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Fresh speculative buying came into the silver market today. Futures climbed a cent or more an ounce while raw metal, which had sagged ¾ cent on Monday, rose a full cent an ounce to 43 cents.

De Met's, Inc., Continues to Retire Preferred Stock

Retirement of 11,065 shares of preferred stock of De Met's, Inc., has been approved by stockholders, who also authorized another $75,000 for purchases of the senior stock, C. N. Johnson, president, said yesterday.

Consolidated Laundries.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly give me the latest information you have on Consolidated Laundries 6½s, due 1936, which are not a listed bond?—S. M. E.

Answer: This laundry company operates in New York City. Despite decreasing interest charges, the trend of coverage has been downward, reflecting reduced business.

Net profit of $12,000 in the twelve weeks to Sept. 9, 1933, enabled the company to report profit of $14,000 after all charges for the 36 weeks to Sept. 9, 1933, against profit of $302,000 for the corresponding 1932 period.

Sales for 1932 totaled $7,631,000, against $9,435,000 for 1931 and $9,994,000 for 1930. Interest charges were covered 2.38 times in 1932, 3.94 times in 1931, and .90 times in 1930.

Current position has showed little change during the last few years. On Sept. 9, 1933, current assets, including cash of $563,000, totaled $1,878,000, in comparison with total current liabilities of $778,000. Net working capital was $1,100,000, against $1,105,000 the year before.

Long term debt was $2,603,000, down $390,000 from the year before. The $1,700,000 6½ per cent notes, due 1936, are the unsecured obligation of the company and are subject to about $1,000,000 secured mortgages. They are somewhat speculative.

Real Estate and Inflation.

Investors' Guide: You intimated that good real estate with a reasonable mortgage on it would be a good hedge against inflation. Real estate men do not seem to have any clear idea as to why this should be so. Can you explain to me why real estate with a mortgage and without a mortgage would be benefited by inflation?—L. W. W.

Answer: The use of the word inflation in the article to which you referred was to denote the lessening of the value of money by governmental action. Lessening the value of money is the leverage by which the administration hopes to raise the prices of goods.

A person who holds cash or high grade bonds during a period of rising prices suffers a loss in purchasing power. The value of real estate or other goods tends to remain constant, because as the value of money is lessened the price of such real estate or other goods rises.

Where real estate, subject to a mortgage, is purchased prior to a rise in prices the purchaser can pay off the mortgage after prices have risen in money that has reduced purchasing power.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Cotton goods were quiet today with some reports of increasing interest in finished lines. Burlaps were quiet and weaker. Little new business is developing on silk goods. Moderate sales of spring men's wear and dress fabrics are reported. Rayon sales were light. Markets are still under spell of uncertainty due to monetary situation.

NATIONAL LIFE GETS EIGHT BIDS ON REINSURANCE

All Are Made by Middle Western Companies.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Patrick J. Lucey, receiver for the National Life Insurance Company of the U. S. A., yesterday received eight bids for the reinsurance of the 112,000 policyholders of the organization which was placed in receivership on Oct. 17. In addition to straight bids several plans were offered.

Mr. Lucey said yesterday that it will take at least a week or ten days to analyze the offers. He has the assistance of W. J. Corcoran, a New York actuary, in going over the bids.

All of the bids came from middle western companies.

Among the companies to make bids were the Hercules Life Insurance company, which is being organized by interests identified with Sears, Roebuck & Co., according to Mr. Lucey. Sears Roebuck & Co. now have the Allstate Insurance company, which handles automobile insurance, and Allstate Fire Insurance company.

Double Barreled Offer.

Another bid was made by the Continental Assurance company, which included an alternative. One offer was to handle the insurance business of National Life, letting some one appointed by the courts handle the assets, and the other was for Continental handling of both the insurance and the assets.

A third offer was received from the Washington National Insurance company, a Chicago concern with headquarters at 1737 Howard avenue. Mr. Lucey said that the Washington company was organized by a group who bought out one of the subsidiaries of National Life some years ago.

A fourth offer was received from the Central Life Assurance society, a mutual of Des Moines, Ia. This organization recently took over the Illinois Life Insurance company.

The other bids came from the Illinois Bankers Life Assurance company, Monmouth, Ill.; Life and Casualty company, Chicago; United Mutual Life Insurance company, Indianapolis, Ind., and the United Benefit Life Insurance company, Omaha, Neb.

Hurley Has Plan.

In addition Mr. Lucey said that he has been informed an offer will be received from J. W. Cummings, representing Raymond Hurley and associates. Mr. Hurley is a son of the late E. N. Hurley. In the Circuit court last Saturday, Mr. Hurley asked for an extension of time to perfect his plan, saying that the recent death of his father had delayed the working out of details. Mr. Lucey opposed delay. Judge Lindsay, however, stated that should the plan have merit, Mr. Lucey would doubtless be glad to receive it during the time he was studying the straight bids.

H. A. Behrens, president of the Continental Assurance company, qualified his proposals in the bid which his company sent Mr. Lucey. He said that if the court receives other proposals which seem sound and desirable that his plan should be disregarded. He explained that his plan did not "contemplate that the Continental Assurance company take any financial risk during the management period."

COURT IN FAVOR OF MUTUAL PLAN FOR PEORIA LIFE

Protest of Insurance Chief Overridden.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 28.—Plans for the mutualization of the $172,000,000 business of the Peoria Life Insurance company went forward here today when Judge John Niehaus tentatively approved such a program over the protests of Ernest Palmer, director of the state insurance department.

The mutualization plan was outlined by Co-Receiver George Shurtleff, the court's own appointee, whose right to hold the position has been disputed by the insurance superintendent. Palmer maintains that his own appointee, Charles V. O'Hern, is the only legally appointed receiver.

Further Hearing Next Monday.

Further hearing on the mutualization plan was scheduled for next Monday morning. Mr. Palmer was present at the hearing today but did not take part in the proceedings. Receiver O'Hern read a report when court convened advocating liquidation of the company's assets to clear up the receivership.

The courtroom was packed with persons interested in the fate of the insurance company, which is the city's largest financial institution.

The mutualization plan was presented in the barest outline. Reciever Shurtleff indicated that he would be prepared to submit definite and detailed plans next Monday.

Other Plans May Be Offered.

Assistant Attorney General David J. Kadyk, representing the insurance department, inquired of the court if other plans for protection of the policy holders would be considered. Judge Niehaus said he would gladly hear any other plans.

Shurtleff declared that he put off giving details of his plan in order to submit the program first to officials of the insurance department.

Judge Niehaus said that he would give his ruling on Dec. 2 on the motion of the attorney general to expunge the record of Shurtleff's appointment.

TOKIO UTILITY CANCELS GOLD CLAUSE IN LOANS

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Nov. 28.—The newspapers report that the directors of the Tokyo Electric Light Company, Ltd., have decided to cancel the provision in debentures allowing holders cash in dollars or sterling at the former gold exchange rate. Since the fall of the dollar many American holders have been sending their coupons to London.

The directors justify their decision by the cancellation by United States of the gold clause in contracts. Other electric companies with dollar and sterling option clauses are expected to follow.

Brazil Ends Gold Agreement.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 28.—President Vargas decreed today the cancellation of contracts with Brazil bearing a gold clause which enables utility and other companies to collect their bills half in gold and half in paper milreis.

Today's decree makes compulsory the acceptance of paper milreis in full payment. The new ruling will have the effect of reducing rates, which have been attacked as excessive.

Greyhound Corp. Will Give Stock Bonuses to Officers

Stockholders of the Greyhound corporation have approved a plan for granting additional compensation to the principal officers in the form of stock bonuses. Common stock will be issued to officers in amounts equal to 10 per cent of the net profits after deducting 7 per cent dividends on the preferred stock and after $1 a share has been earned on common.

Rock Island to Delay Payment of Dec. 1 Notes

Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday entered an order instructing the trustees of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway company to defer payment of principal and interest, due Dec. 1, on equipment trust notes, series L and Q.

REALTORS HONOR PAST CHIEFS AT ANNUAL DINNER

Eighteen Former Leaders Are Present.

BY AL CHASE.

One of the largest groups of realtors that has attended a past presidents' annual Thanksgiving dinner for several years crowded the dining room of the Chicago Real Estate board yesterday to pay tribute to the former executives of that organization.

WM. A. BOND.
[(C) Kaiden, Inc., New York.]

Eighteen of the twenty-four living past presidents were present at the turkey dinner. Three of the twenty-four are now in Chicago hospitals. They are William A. Bond, president in 1893; Callistus S. Ennis, 1914, and George F. Nixon, 1928. The eighteen present autographed three menu cards and mailed them to the bed-ridden executives.

Years of Office.

The eighteen former realthy board heads and the year of their office were: Henry A. Knott, 1898; Frank G. Hoyne, 1906; Edward S. Judd, 1907; John F. Wallace, 1910; George H. Taylor, 1915; Paul Steinbrecher, 1916; Valentine H. Surghnor, 1917; Perkins B. Bass, 1918; Adolph F. Kramer, 1920; John R. Magill, 1922; Harry Goldstine, 1923; Henry G. Zander Sr., 1924; S. Charles Iversen, 1925; Joseph K. Brittain, 1926; John P. Hooker, 1927; Newton C. Farr, 1930; Mark Levy, 1931, and J. Soule Warterfield, 1932.

It was announced yesterday that the golden jubilee banquet of the Chicago real estate board again has been postponed—for the third time—to January, 1934. On Wednesday, Dec. 6, the regular business meeting of the board will be held in the afternoon, followed by a recess until 6 p. m. when a dinner and installation of officers will take place in the board dining room. The banquet, it is stated, probably will be held in a loop hotel.

Broadway Building Sold.

The northwest corner of Broadway and Wellington avenue, 135x190, was sold yesterday by George W. Kolbe and his brother Oscar H. Kolbe, to Martin E. Hon for an indicated $26,000. The property is improved with four one story stores. Strassheim & Co. were brokers.

The Liberty Mutual Insurance company has leased the entire seventh floor of the Pelouze building, 230 East Ohio street, for a term of years, according to William Nelson Pelouze, president of the Pelouze Manufacturing company. The space rented comprises 10,780 square feet.

GOVERNMENT BUYS BUTTER; PRICES ADVANCE SHARPLY

Butter futures climbed sharply, registering gains of 1¼@⅞c or above $250 per car on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Eggs advanced ¼@⅞c equal to $30 to $105 per car.

The advance in butter was prompted by the fact that the Dairy Marketing corporation started bidding on storage butter. So far the government agency has confined its buying to fresh butter. Opinions were that if the government bought up some of the huge storage surplus, the market would be aided. Shorts began buying futures and long added to their lines. News was better, the four markets taking out nearly as much butter as last year.

Eggs were aided by the sharp gain in butter and favorable storage news. Withdrawals from the four markets doubled the year ago outward movement, and receipts remained moderate. Covering was heavy and new buying increased. Heavy new selling in November eggs did not prevent the delivery from making a wide gain.

Sales—Butter, 188 cars; eggs, 327 cars. Deliveries—Eggs, 61 cars. Prices:

ROADS ASSURED RUSH OF TRAVEL AT LOWER FARES

Reservations Pile Up for Friday and Later.

The radical reductions in passenger fares to be put into effect next Friday by the western railroads already are beginning to make themselves felt in the passenger traffic departments, according to reports received from a number of roads yesterday. These reports tell of increased reservations for Pullman accomodations for travel on Dec. 1 and after.

The Rock Island's passenger department states that it has received sufficient sleeping car reservations for travel on and after Dec. 1 to warrant placing extra cars on its Golden State Limited and a number of other trains. Reservations are for travel to such points as Des Moines and Kansas City, as well as to more distant places, indicating general business travel, as well as resort movements.

North Western Reports Increase.

Sleeping car reservations were reported by R. Thomson, general passenger agent of the North Western, to be running 15 or 20 per cent above normal for travel on Dec. 1.

W. J. Black, passenger traffic manager for the Santa Fe, says there has been a considerable increase in reservations as of Dec. 1. He explained that the public generally has been in the habit of delaying making reservations, so it is difficult to say what the real situation will be.

J. V. Lanigan, passenger traffic manager of the Illinois Central, finds that there will be an increase in Pullman travel after Dec. 1. He added that travel to Florida will be heavier than is customary at this time of the year. Extra equipment will be added to take care of the increased Florida business.

Wait for Lower Rates.

The Milwaukee road finds that sale of one way tickets has practically ceased, indicating that the public is waiting for Dec. 1 to travel. He said sufficient business is in sight to warrant placing extra cars on its Pioneer Limited next Sunday night. A spokesman for the road said that there has been a sharp increase in requests from companies as to passenger fares, indicating that salesmen will be sent out on the road shortly.

Harry G. Taylor, chairman of the Association of Western Railway Executives, emphasized yesterday that the rates are experimental and their continuance rests largely on how the public receives them.

FREIGHT TRAFFIC OF WEEK SHOWS SEASONAL LOSS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 28. — Railroad freight traffic displayed the usual seasonal contraction in the week ended last Saturday, judging by the loading statements of the first roads to report, but indications are that the total for the week continued well above the 1932 level.

Illinois Central car loadings in the week ended Nov. 25 totaled 25,508 cars, compared with 23,517 in the like week of 1932, and 27,226 in the preceding week of this year.

The Burlington handled 22,598 cars, compared with 18,936 cars a year ago and 23,643 cars in the preceding week of this year.

The North Western reported that it handled 21,903 freight cars during the week ended Nov. 25, compared with 18,312 in the like week of 1932 and 22,430 in the preceding week.

Cars handled by the Milwaukee road totaled 22,408 compared with 20,846 in the like 1932 week and with 23,503 in the preceding week of this year.

Other loadings were reported as follows:

GOOD BUYING PUSHES COTTON PRICES HIGHER

Good buying of cotton by trade interests, covering by shorts and fair buying of March by the continent gave prices a little upturn yesterday. Spot houses and southern hedgers sold May and July.

December opened 5 points lower on selling by Liverpool but the market gradually strengthened and closed around the top. Net gains on futures in Chicago were 10 to 15 points, New York was 7 to 14 points higher and New Orleans 10 to 13 points higher. Spots in New York advanced 15 points to 10.05 cents; New Orleans was up 7 points at 9.70 cents, and the same price prevailed at Galveston and Houston. Prices:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Raw sugar was unchanged today at 3.15c for spots. No details were obtained as to how much sugar was sold, but the general impression was that yesterday at least 135,000 bags for Philippines were sold for December-January and January-February shipment at 3.15c, while today about 108,000 bags for December-January and January-February shipment at from 3.17c to 3.15c. Futures trading was less active and after displaying early steadiness prices reacted under hedge selling, promoted by the more liberal offerings in the spot market, with final prices 1 to 3 points net lower. Sales were 16,800 tons. Prices follow:

FINDS U. S. SOLD SHIPS FOR LESS THAN MAIL COST

Quiz Reveals Profits of the Dollar Line.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—The United States government, according to figures made public today by the senate committee investigating ocean mail contracts, in some instances repays to the purchasers of government-owned properties the purchase price, especially in transactions involving ships formerly owned and operated by the United States shipping board.

In the case of the Dollar steamship interests it was said that while the lines had contracted federal debts aggregating $27,000,000, the government has already paid that company $14,300,000 under the mail subsidy act, with $17,000,000 more to come under the contract, or $4,500,000 more than the sale price of the ships sold the Dollar interests; plus other millions loaned for construction, reconditioning of ships and other purposes.

R. Stanley Dollar, head of the Dollar interests, was the witness today and conceded the accuracy of a statement submitted by the committee.

Show Who Got Profits.

This statement showed the total of salaries, bonuses, stock payments, etc., paid to the four principal owners of the lines since the inception of their dealings with the shipping board ten years ago. The profits of the units included in the Dollar system in those ten years, according to the committee figures, have been $22,118,283, of which $7,753,776 represents a "write-up" of assets when the old Dollar company of California became the Dollar company of Delaware.

The actual net profit of $14,365,507 represented, it was said, a four-way cut, the beneficiaries of which were R. Stanley Dollar, his brother, J. Harold Dollar, Herbert Fleishhacker and H. M. Forber, all of San Francisco.

Cash withdrawals by the four principals are given as $4,325,493 during the period from 1923 to 1932 inclusive. The committee statisticians state that an analysis of the books show that Stanley Dollar purchased from the shipping board seventeen vessels, for which he paid $13,975,000, and that his company, for whom he bought the ships, paid him a commission of $635,493. The construction cost of these ships, which was paid by the government, was $93,488,000.

Question Ocean Mail Subsidies.

Senator Black, chairman of the investigating committee, said he was laying the groundwork for what is to come, the mission of the committee being to ascertain whether or not the ocean mail subsidies now paid to various American owned steamship lines should be continued. It was Mr. Dollar who, when on the witness stand last week, told of the Admiral-Oriental line, which started with a capitalization of $500 in 1922 and cleared a profit of more than $7,000,000 in the ensuing ten years.

Ex-President Hoover was brought into the United States line picture when Senator Black mentioned a meeting said to have taken place in Chicago in August, 1931, among those present being Mr. Fleishhacker, William F. Humphrey, counsel for Dollar lines, and Paul Shoup, president of the Southern Pacific. Senator Black said he had heard that Mr. Fleishhacker at that meeting said he had discussed the United States lines situation with President Hoover, and that Mr. Hoover did not like the way the lines were being managed.

Vessel and Insurance Rates on Grains Lifted

Lake rates on grain have been advanced ½ cent to 2 cents a bushel for wheat or corn to Buffalo. The season for lake navigation will close in about two weeks. Insurance rates on grain cargoes advance at midnight Dec. 1 to 25 cents for $100. Dec. 6 to 9 the rate of insurance is 37½ cents per $100, and Dec. 10 to 12 the rate will be 50 cents. Lake Ontario rates will range from 37½ cents the first five days of the month to 75 cents for the Dec. 10 to 12 period.

U. S. Grain Exports Expand for Week; Below Year Ago

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Grain exports from the United States last week totaled 962,000 bushels, against 463,000 bushels in the preceding week and 1,675,000 in the corresponding week last year. Commerce department figures today gave the following comparisons between last week's exports and those of the week before: Wheat, 297,000 bushels against 78,000; corn, 225,000 against 355,000; barley, 440,000 against 22,000, and oats none against 8,000.

WHEAT LOSES EARLY GAIN DUE TO LIQUIDATION

Other Grains Turn Lower After Opening Rise.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

An advance in the RFC price of gold and a rally in sterling exchange were sufficient to bring about a strong upturn in the grain markets early yesterday. However, liquidation by holders of December contracts continued unabated and was sufficiently heavy to wipe out most of the early upturn of 1⅝ cents in wheat and cause a lower close in other grains.

Buying of carlots of country run cash wheat by the federal relief agency continued yesterday in western markets and Buffalo, but had only a moderate effect. May wheat sold up to 87¾ cents at the top and reacted to 86 to 86⅛ cents leaving net gains of ⅛ to ⅝ cent for the day.

Corn Down ¼ Cent.

Corn was off ¼ cent after selling 1¼ cents higher at the top. May finished at 50½ to 50⅝ cents. Oats lost 1⅝ to ⅝ cents with May at 34¾ cents. Rye was 1⅛ to 2 cents lower. May at 58½ cents. Barley finished 1 to 1⅝ cents lower at 43⅝ cents for May.

A liberal percentage of the trade in all grains was in changing operations between the December and the May deliveries. Scattered longs in the nearby future who were afraid of liberal deliveries of cash grain on contracts Friday joined the selling side and then replaced their holdings in many instances by purchases of the May option. Cash interests did the reverse. The spread in corn was 7 cents a bushel.

Renewed complaints of dry weather were received from the winter wheat belt, but failed to have material influence on the market.

Winnipeg wheat closed 1⅛ to 1¼ cents lower in Canadian funds, and Liverpool was ⅛ to ⅝ cent higher in American funds.

More Interest in Corn Loans.

Illinois and Iowa farmers, according to reports, are showing considerably more interest in obtaining loans from the government on corn in cribs which grades No. 4 or better. The loan basis on the corn is 45 cents a bushel which compares with actual sales of new No. 4 yellow in the local market yesterday at 42 to 43 cents, from which must be deducted freight and other charges to the country point that shipped the grain.

Private reports from some parts of Iowa indicated as high as 90 per cent of farmers might make application for government loans.

Export bids for cash corn were reported as within ⅛ cent of a working basis at Duluth, but no sales were actually reported. Cash corn in Liverpool was quoted around 60½ cents a bushel, or 17 cents above December corn in Chicago.

CASH LARD AND FUTURES LOWER; PORK LOINS FIRM

Lard futures declined yesterday, largely owing to liquidation. Near deliveries closed 25@32½ cents net lower and the more distant deliveries 25 cents net lower. Bellies were unchanged to 5 cents lower in a fair trade.

Cash lard, regular, was 30 cents lower at 4.95 cents. Loose was 4.70 cents and leaf 4.70 cents. Cured bellies were 4.75 cents.

Fresh pork loins were in better demand, and prices were steady at 7 and 9 cents.

Liverpool lard was unchanged to 9d higher, the latter on January. Export clearances of lard in New York were 511,180 pounds, and of bacon 148,000 pounds. Prices:

WORLD WHEAT PRICE LIMITS ARE PROPOSED

French and Germans Favor Move.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—To help solve the world's wheat problems, French and German members of the international wheat commission were understood tonight to have proposed that all adherents of a world wheat pact agree on a limited scale of prices for wheat and wheat flour exports.

The group, set up last summer when twenty-two nations, importers and exporters of the grain, drew up an agreement limiting exports and production, considered drastic steps to combat a recent decline in prices.

One of the moves under study would increase consumption by denaturing large quantities of wheat so as to increase its use as animal feed and to decrease the amount of flour extracted from the cereal.

Issues Statement.

An official communique tonight did not mention the French and German proposal specifically. However, it said: "A series of proposals was brought forward by representatives of both importing and exporting countries relating to methods which might be adopted with a view to improving the world wheat situation. The committee came to the conclusion that these suggestions raised such an important issue that it was not possible to base definite recommendations to the governments upon them immediately."

A main committee meeting was scheduled for Jan. 22 in London to examine the reports of the subcommittees and to consider recommendations of the governments adhering to the wheat agreement.

Consider Russia's Position.

The question of Russia's place in the wheat situation was expected to be the subject of further negotiations later in the week. The soviet union wants the 37,000,000 bushel export limit offered her doubled.

In this connection the Russian representative, Abraham Gourevitch, said, however, that Russia is actually "keeping within the quota offered us because prices are so poor."

Hungary definitely asked an increase in her 1933-'34 export quota.

PER CAPITA BEEF CONSUMPTION UP 3 POUNDS IN 1933

The average individual in the United States apparently has consumed about three pounds more beef so far in 1933 than in the same time last year, says the Institute of American Meat Packers. This estimate is based partly on the fact that the production of beef under federal inspection for the first nine months of 1933 was nearly half a billion pounds greater than it was last year.

Because the amount of beef in storage is relatively small and exports of beef are negligible, it is assumed that the beef has been consumed. Although a greater appetite for beef has been created by the increase in production, the purchasing power of consumers has not kept up with the increase in output, and as a result beef and cattle have been selling at low levels.

BOAT LINES ON LAKES SPLIT ON REVEALING CONTRACTS IN CODE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Differences over a contract publicity clause aimed to prevent rate cutting came to light today at public hearings on the proposed code for the great lakes shipping industry.

Carmi A. Thompson of Cleveland, chairman of the board of the Midland Steamship company, called "indefensible" a stipulation that all members of the industry submit a record and the rate of contracts in existence upon the date when a code is approved by the President. The data would be submitted to the industry's code committee.

A suggestion by Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, who represented the lake carriers association, that the clause be made to apply only to contracts made or renewed since the first of this year met with Thompson's approval. However, A. E. R. Schneider, manager of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company, insisted that all contracts be filed with the federal government.

In offering his compromise, Baker said "in the past there have been some instances of rate cutting on contracts on the great lakes" and said the object of the clause was to "prevent any really grossly unfair contracts." If the provision was limited to contracts made or renewed this year, he said, it would be reasonable "to regard that as including all contracts made in anticipation of the code."

Labor leaders voiced objections to the provisions calling for three eight-hour shifts and a maximum work week of 56 hours, and a wage scale ranging from $8.80 a day for first mates on the larger ships to $2.20 for deckhands and porters.

ILLINOIS CORN LOANS ARRANGED BY GOV. HORNER

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner announced today that he had instructed the state agricultural department to set up immediately the necessary machinery for employing the grain warehouse act of 1927, in securing government loans of 45 cents a bushel on corn. It is expected the first loans will be made Friday.

Farm advisors from 77 counties have been asked to be in Bloomington tomorrow to meet with representatives of the federal government, the Illinois college of agriculture and the Illinois Agricultural association, and receive instructions as to the procedure.

Loans in this state will be made on warehouse certificates issued under the provisions of the state warehouse act. Banks are to accept the receipts as security for notes given by the farmers, who, when they receive the loans, are to agree to the terms of the corn-hog reduction program of the agricultural adjustment administration.

Bankers who accept the certificates will be reimbursed for their loans by sending the warehouse certificates, notes and corn-hog agreements to the Community Credit corporation.

STRIKE HAMPERS CHICAGO TRADE IN LIVE STOCK

Meager Receipts Cleared Late in Day.

Labor difficulties completely tied up trading at the Chicago stockyards early yesterday afternoon, but with the consent of strike leaders buyers and sellers cleared the pens of practically all live stock in the late afternoon and evening. According to the committee of live stock commission men, which met the strikers yesterday, trading will be resumed again today.

Receipts fell off materially at Chicago. Of the 20,000 hogs in the pens only 3,000 were on the open market. The rest were billed direct to packers from other points.

Cattle and Sheep Meager.

Cattle numbered only 3,000, while sheep receipts totaled 4,000, hardly enough to establish a fair list of quotations in either division. In the hog alleys there were about 18,000 carried over from Monday's late market, part of which were already sold to packers, but unweighed because of the interference of strikers, who had stopped trading yesterday against the orders of their leaders.

Trading Progresses Slowly.

After word had reached the trading pens that union officials had permitted the sale and weighing of stock, trading progressed very slowly all afternoon. It was the job of the salesman to drive the hogs to the scales after selling them, and together with the buyer do the weighing, after which the buyer took charge of the hogs.

Packers absorbed all but about 6,000 of the hog receipts, paying $3.75 to $3.85, steady prices for the good to choice grades of 180 to 260 pound butchers, while underweights and the extremely heavy stock ruled weak to unevenly lower. At a late hour in the afternoon several of the smaller packers and butchers, anxious to save the 50 cents additional processing tax in effect Friday, bought a few hogs 10 to 15 cents higher, up to $4. The general average for the whole day at $3.60 remained unchanged, but this price is 85 cents lower than two weeks ago.

Seek to Avert Shortage.

To avert a meat shortage for Chicago, packers are said to be shipping in dressed live stock from other points. Other markets are handling about normal supplies.

The scant supply of cattle in the pens yesterday was slower to sell than on the preceding session. Yearlings were stronger, but heavy steers ruled steady to weak and in places were called a little lower. Good yearling steers topped the market at $6.15.

Sellers demanded sharply higher prices for the lamb crop yesterday, but after a long deadlock the supply finally cleared at mostly steady prices. Packers brought top grades of slaughter lambs at $7.25 and city butchers paid up to $7.40.

RAIL STRUCTURE IS OVERBUILT, LOREE DECLARES

Changes in Operating Practices Proposed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 28.—L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson railroad, today told members of the Bond club that he is "not disquieted" by the railroad situation, although he pointed out many instances where improvement in the operations of the carriers could be effected.

Mr. Loree expressed the opinion that this country is considerably overbuilt from a railroad standpoint, and that of the 250,000 miles of track in service some 70,000 were operated unprofitably. He also said that 40,000 should be abandoned.

Could Eliminate Buildings.

He emphasized the need for rearrangement of methods and operating practices. There is great need of a thorough overhauling of railroad buildings, about one-third of which could be eliminated, he said. The Delaware and Hudson has closed 26 per cent of its stations.

Passenger business lost to the family automobile is gone forever, in his opinion, but he looked upon the bus industry as a "disappearing instrument, one-half of which is used to transport school children, while the remaining half is for sale."

Business Lost to Trucks.

In reference to freight traffic lost to the motor truck he pointed out that the class of business so diverted constituted only 2 per cent of the total rail revenue, while it required 20 per cent of the equipment.

In a list of measures for the improvement of the carriers Mr. Loree included the recommendation for adequate modernization of the railroad shops and extensive retooling of the various repair shops.

LIVERPOOL COTTON.

A FASCINATING BUSINESS with a Big Future for a Few Men.

Crew Managers—Salesmen—Collectors.

Not "just another old one"—but a new and intensely interesting vocation created by the largest organization of its kind, with headquarters in Chicago. You do not have to know our line, but you must be interested in people and possess conversational ability. Selling experience in any field would lay an excellent ground work for this plan, which has met with such unusual success that it has enabled us to expand, to absorb other companies, and to establish new outlets in spite of so-called depressed conditions. Our success has also been the success of our men. You will be virtually your own boss and the way you use your time determines your future and your income. We must have reliable, dependable men who can work without watching and who know an opportunity when they see one. Openings limited. 9-12 A. M. 834 W. 63d-st., or 3320 Lincoln-av., 1st fl.

SALESMEN.

Here is your chance for cash every day PLUS big commissions. Our plan WORKS. We want the best salesmen in Chicago. This is a permanent job and a real opportunity. Apply promptly 10 a. m., Rm. 210 Marquette Bldg.

How to Become a BEAUTY EXPERT

Almost any school can train you to become an "ordinary" beauty operator. But if you want to become a genuine EXPERT and earn more money than the average "ordinary" operator, you should investigate the DeLEE "university type" of training.

Personal instruction under Madame Louise, internationally famous expert, will enable you to qualify for a good paying position in the SHORTEST TIME. The FREE DeLEE employment service will help you obtain such a position when you are graduated.

You haven't learned ALL of the important facts about beauty culture training until you have visited DeLEE. Do not make the mistake of enrolling elsewhere and finding out too late that you are not getting the best possible training. VISIT DeLEE FIRST. Have a talk with the DeLEE Dean, Miss Ruby Lorrain Stevens, or write for the interesting book, "Your Career in Beauty Culture."

STUDEBAKER

YOU CAN SAVE AT LEAST $200

ON ANY ONE OF THE CARS LISTED BELOW.

5 DAYS' DRIVING TRIAL.

'30 PIERCE-ARROW SEDAN-LIMOUSINE. A prominent Chicago judge owned this car and his chauffeur gave it the very best of attention. Has a special Judkins body. The de luxe equipment includes side mounts, radio, heater, driving light, etc. Free wheeling. Cost $6,500; now it will still give new car satisfaction. For quick sale...........$850

'33 STUDEBAKER 6 SEDAN. Was used as a demonstrator for a very short time. Has advanced free wheeling, startix, safety glass, 6 chrome wheels, etc. This Studebaker really looks and runs as tho. never off the showroom floor. Specially priced at........$795

'31 FORD TUDOR SEDAN. Has low mileage and practically new tires and many extras. It's unusually clean throughout and has a sweet running motor. We marked this Ford at $225

'29 FRANKLIN SEDAN, 7 pass. de luxe model. It was chauffeur driven and thoroughly oiled and greased every 500 miles. Finish has not a mar on it, upholstery is luxurious, and the motor is really 100%. Has wire wheels, side mounts, etc. For today $325

'32 GRAHAM DE LUXE 8 SEDAN. With wire wheels, side mounts, and many extras. This car has the original factory freshness. The appearance is very smart, and the motor has a world of power and pep. Excellent tires. Only $675

'31 HUPMOBILE VICTORIA. De luxe model with 6 wire wheels, etc. The original tires are still practically new. Motor was driven just enough to be properly broken in. This Hupp is a real beauty. Won't remain long at $445

'32 WILLYS 6 SEDAN with extras galore. Finished a smart color, and has attractive upholstery to match. The motor was carefully gone over in our shop and now will please you in every respect. Don't miss this $325

SOLUTION TO SMASHING THE COUNTERFEIT RING

When the professor saw the ad in the evening paper in Dallas, stating the inserter of it had that afternoon at 4:20 found a valuable package he knew that whoever placed the ad had done so at the latest in the morning hours of that day.

This told him, of course, that the inserter of the ad had not found the envelope he alleged to have discovered that afternoon. His suspicion was thus aroused. When he found the same mistake in two other evening newspapers he deduced that possibly the distributor of the counterfeit money was attempting to cover himself up—that is, had the spurious money been found in the residence of the distributor he could have claimed [and did] that he had found it and inserted the ad hoping to find the loser. His only mistake was in overlooking the fact that an evening newspaper necessarily must accept all classified ads hours before 4:20 in the afternoon. Again the criminal's stupidity led to his own conviction.
